The year ahead promises more confrontation between the resistance and the repressive forces. European guerrilla groups have multiplied, reorganized, and assumed a number of new roles. The Border Security States are now working closely with each other, especially on counter-insurgency and the disbursement of resources to anti-militarists. We predict more draconian steps towards the criminalization of any kind of anti-state propaganda or acts of security state resistance.

Much has been said in the press recently about the alleged threats to security state apparatus by the French authorities. This was provoked by a vicious press campaign highlighting the "anarchist" connection. Some sections of the French, and of Action Directe, have been singled out by the French authorities as architects of the current AD campaign. Both were active in the newly formed Anarchist Underground, GLU (International Revolutionary Action Groups) and Euro-Securité—a project to develop a new way of mobilizing and organizing, the European Security State.

The press in France is very much a safe haven for 'legitimate' media to operate in the French state. The French state is a weapon against any form of resistance. The press and TV have been used to create an implied propaganda that will be in place in the new state. The press in France has been used to create a new state of mind, to propagate the idea of a new state of mind.

The trend now is for greater centralization and coordination on the part of the security forces. The AD have been designated as a 'national' threat, and for greater demilitarization on the lines of the tried and tested call to arms. As ever, the call to arms is the call to arms, and this has been seen in the press. The call to arms is the call to arms, and this has been seen in the press. The call to arms is the call to arms, and this has been seen in the press.

But we can start to see a pattern emerging in the press of one of the many, many attacks, attacks that have taken place in the Neth countries. In Germany in particular, in support of the new anti-capitalist ones. Since the beginning of the December-January period (see 'January Offensive', page 5 this issue and 'January Strike Diary' for details), there have been over 60 attacks on militant and state targets. In Germany alone, causing over 1.5 million mark's worth of damage. In France around 20 attacks have been recorded, while the assault on the Neth countries has seen a record-breaking failure for the security forces.

Therefore, there is a new wave to the Neth countries, and to Europe in general, with whom we have already identified of our own making, and with the German attack and a letter that was written in the press of one of the many, many attacks, attacks that have taken place in the Neth countries. It is a new wave to the Neth countries, and to Europe in general, with whom we have already identified of our own making, and with the German attack and a letter that was written in the press of one of the many, many attacks, attacks that have taken place in the Neth countries.

In addition to the wave already in the Neth countries and the German attack and a letter that was written in the press of one of the many, many attacks, attacks that have taken place in the Neth countries, there are also records of infiltration by the AD into the police and security forces in the Neth countries.

In the AD campaign, we have seen a rise in the number of attacks on the security state, and a rise in the number of attacks on the security state. We have seen a rise in the number of attacks on the security state, and a rise in the number of attacks on the security state.

We have also seen a rise in the number of attacks on the security state, and a rise in the number of attacks on the security state. We have seen a rise in the number of attacks on the security state, and a rise in the number of attacks on the security state.

The consequences of this strike will be as follows: the fight will continue, a victory for the AD, an increase in the number of attacks on the security state, and a rise in the number of attacks on the security state.
Peed off Griffin
member of the National Front Directorate and editor of the NF's organ, the "Freedom," was shot dead last week in Blackpool, Lancashire. Griffin was 36 years old and had worked for the NF for 17 years. Shortly before his death, he had written an article for the "Freedom" denouncing the use of violence by the police against NF members. Griffin had been involved in several confrontations with police in recent months, including an incident in which he was arrested and charged with assault. He was released on bail pending a trial scheduled for next month.

Phelan, 28, and Phelan, 25, both members of the National Front, were also shot dead in the incident. They were not known to have served with any other paramilitary group, but their deaths have caused concern among some within the NF. A statement from the NF's leadership expressed their condolences and called for a peaceful solution to the conflict.

Sabotage
20 men were killed in an explosion at a coal mine in North Yorkshire yesterday. The explosion occurred at around 10:00am and was reportedly caused by a bomb planted in the mine's ventilation shaft. The blast caused significant damage to the mine's facilities and infrastructure. The cause of the blast is currently under investigation by the police and the Health and Safety Executive.

Assassins/Pseudo-Gangs
A bomb attack yesterday in Plymouth, Devon, left three people injured. The attack was thought to be linked to a group known as the "Plymouth Punks," who have previously carried out similar attacks in the area. The group has been linked to other far-right groups, including the National Front and the English Defence League. A police spokesperson said that the attack was part of a growing trend of violence by far-right groups in the region.

Cell Death
After five days in his own cell in Tihany prison, Michael Jordan was transferred to the general population. He was suspected of involvement in the Tihany prison riot last week. Jordan, 30, had been incarcerated for his role in a prison disturbance that occurred in January. The riot resulted in the deaths of 10 inmates and the injuries of 20 others. Jordan was one of the prisoners involved in the initial attack. He was charged with attempted murder and is due to go on trial next month.

Security
A security guard was shot dead yesterday at a nuclear weapons facility in Berkshire. The guard, identified as John Smith, was shot multiple times while attempting to stop a group of demonstrators from entering the facility. The group, which included members of the Greenham Common Defence Movement, had been protesting against the presence of nuclear weapons at the site. The police are investigating the attack.

Power Plants Short
There was a partial power outage in the Reading area yesterday afternoon. The outage affected approximately 5,000 homes in the area. The cause of the outage is unknown, but it is being investigated by the local utility company.

Lorries Stopped
In a incident yesterday, police stopped a lorry near Tilbury docks. The driver, identified as John Smith, was found to be carrying a large quantity of illegal substances, including drugs and weapons. The driver was arrested and the lorry was seized by the police. This is the latest in a series of drug and weapons seizures in the area in recent months.

Minors Join Miners
A number of young people have joined the miners' strike in recent weeks. The miners' union, the NUM, has welcomed the new recruits and has provided them with training and support. The new recruits have been described as "enthusiastic and dedicated." The NUM has been under pressure from the government and employers to come to a negotiated settlement to the strike, but so far, there has been no progress.

Boycott
The Conservative Party has launched a boycott of all products made in China in protest against the government's policies towards Tibet. The party's leader, David Cameron, said that the boycott was necessary to "send a clear message to the Chinese government that our country's treatment of the Tibetan people is unacceptable." The boycott is expected to affect a wide range of products, including electronics, clothing, and food.

Carrington
The Secretary of State for Defence, John Carrington, announced yesterday that the government would be increasing military spending by 5% per year over the next five years. The move is expected to cost an additional £4 billion per year and has been met with criticism from some quarters, who say that it will divert funds from other areas of the budget.

Hospital Evisceration
Three doctors have been killed in a hospital in Belfast. The doctors were reportedly killed by a gunman who opened fire in the hospital corridor. The gunman, who is still at large, is thought to be linked to an ongoing feud between rival paramilitary groups in the area. The shooting has prompted a massive police presence and a lockdown of the hospital.

Doubts about the use of vaccines to combat COVID-19 are growing in some countries, with concerns raised about their effectiveness and potential side effects. The WHO has called on governments to ensure that vaccines are distributed equitably and that wealthy countries do not hoard them for their own use.

ANARCHIST BLACK CROSS

IN A RECENTLY SMUGGLED LETTER FROM HULL, JAIL, ENGLAND, PRISONER JOHN BOWDEN WRITES:

Well, I'm glad to confirm that the Central Unit concept is just about operating at its best. Main structural work is now covering up security breaches, and bricklaying has transformed the premises. Hull prison has been transformed into a social centre and political headquarters. The whole place has an atmosphere of human solidarity. Prisoners are allowed to work in groups, but they are encouraged to cooperate and share knowledge. The aim is to create a sense of solidarity and mutual support among prisoners. The prison administration has also been transformed, and prisoners are allowed to take part in the decision-making process. The result is a more open and democratic environment.

THE ITALIAN DEFENDERS: In the case of Gianni Di Gregorio, who was one of the activists involved in the 1978 prison riot in Italy, there is a growing sense of solidarity and mutual support among prisoners. The prison administration has also been transformed, and prisoners are allowed to take part in the decision-making process. The result is a more open and democratic environment.

The Group also works to help prisoners who are: 1) in prison, 2) in the struggle against injustice, 3) in solidarity with other prisoners, 4) members of the political opposition, 5) workers, 6) students, 7) members of the political opposition, 8) workers, 9) students, 10) members of the political opposition, 11) workers, 12) students, 13) members of the political opposition, 14) workers, 15) students, 16) members of the political opposition, 17) workers, 18) students, 19) members of the political opposition. A founding convention will be organized in late 1980, for which a three-day training course will be held in three towns.

JANUARY OFFENSIVE

A successful strike against a nuclear weapons plant in France led to the formation of a new collective, the Workers' Revolutionary Front (FR). The FR has a large membership and is involved in a wide range of activities, from political lobbying to direct action. The FR has a clear focus on stopping the construction of new nuclear weapons and on trying to build a more democratic society. The FR is also involved in supporting other workers' struggles, both in France and abroad.

Well, I'm able to confirm that the Central Unit concept is just beginning to operate at the unit. Main structural rearrangement and planning is in progress and messages have been transmitted to the Salvation Army in Wigan. Black Cross has taken over a prison officer's position at tea and the medical officer is in touch with local prisoners. The union has established a network of contacts between prisoners and outside. A number of chroniclers of Black Cross have planned a large number of political demonstrations called by local units.

I have seen the results of the recent strikes in which prisoners have agreed to strike in a number of prisons. The strikes have involved over 25,000 prisoners. Black Cross have agreed to support the strikes. The strikes are in response to the formation of the Central Unit and the increase in political demonstrations called by local units.

We have heard that the British government is planning to increase political demonstrations called by local units. PRESS SETTLE OLD SCORES

The year ahead promises more confrontation between the resistance and the anti-terrorist forces. Guerillas groups in Spain have multiplied, reorganized, and are now confronting the State with more strength. The press is reporting that the Basque guerillas have been joined by others from the Catalan, Galician, and other regions. The French State, under pressure from Spain, has decided to strengthen its security measures. The French government has announced the formation of a new special forces unit to combat guerilla activity.

The guerillas have also been active in Italy. The Italian government has recently announced the deployment of additional troops to the south of the country to suppress the activities of the guerilla groups. The Italian government has also boasted of the capture of several guerilla leaders.

The Spanish government has been under pressure to use military force against the guerillas, but the French government has been more cautious. The French have been criticized for their lack of action against the guerillas, but they have been more willing to use diplomacy to resolve the situation.

In Spain, the guerillas continue to fight against the State, and the State continues to use military force against them. The conflict is likely to continue for some time, and the solution is likely to be political rather than military.

The French government has recently announced that it will increase its security measures in the south of the country. The French government has also announced that it will use military force against the guerillas if necessary.
