Within the last six to nine months a new paper has emerged on the gay scene. Appearing in pubs and clubs all over the country, the first monthly Action for Homosexual Liberation (ASHL) has appeared. Its first edition was published in late May and contained an article by Frank Chadwick, a London-based journalist who has tried to get the current situation of the Communist Party to get cracking and has been put under personal attack.

Chadwick took over the work and figures that he is writing to the same.
OFF THE RAILS

The spate of recent train crashes has seen the usual attention focused on the human beings responsible. A similar, but no less dangerous, situation has been occurring with the rail network. The reputation of the railways has been slowly deteriorating for years, and the recent accident at Clapham Junction has simply brought to a head the many problems that have been festering within the industry. It is a situation that requires urgent attention, and unless it is dealt with, the consequences could be catastrophic.

INQUIRY

The government has been criticized by some quarters for its lack of action in the wake of the Clapham Junction accident. The government's response has been widely criticized, with many people feeling that it is not doing enough to prevent similar accidents from occurring in the future. The government has been accused of being slow to react and of not taking the necessary steps to address the problems that have arisen.

SHIFTWORK

Many of the problems associated with the railways are rooted in the shiftwork system that is in place. The long hours and irregular sleep patterns associated with shiftwork can have a significant impact on employees' health and well-being. The government has been urged to do more to address these issues and to promote a more balanced approach to working hours.

OVERCROWDED

The railway system is currently facing a severe overcrowding problem. This is a result of a combination of factors, including increased demand for travel and the aging of the railway infrastructure. The government has been criticized for not doing enough to address this issue, with many people feeling that the system is simply not equipped to handle the current levels of demand.

DIRECT ACTION No. 57

Page 2

DIRECT ACTION No. 57

Page 3

SMASHING

A nasty variation of road crash has seen the transport industry focus on being 'attacked' in West Great, South London. The railway network, which has been targeted by the so-called 'policing' groups, is being described as a 'crime-ridden' environment, where the public is being targeted by 'hooligans'.

Two Pints of Lager and a Packet of Crisps Missle

Dying Out

As rail travel continues to become more popular, the railway network is facing a new set of challenges. The increasing demand for travel is putting a strain on the system, and the government needs to take action to address this issue. Failure to do so could have serious consequences, including increased congestion and delays.

The government has been criticized for its approach to rail investment, with many people feeling that it is not investing enough in the railway network. The government needs to look at ways to improve the system, including investing in new infrastructure and modernizing existing facilities.

The government has been urged to do more to address the issues facing the railway network, including overcrowding, shiftwork, and the need for investment. Failure to do so could have serious consequences, including increased congestion, delays, and safety risks.
OFF THE RAILS

the spate of recent train crashes has seen the usual attention lavished on the railway, but the actual causes of the recent accidents have been largely ignored. The question that needs to be asked is: why were the safety measures not implemented to prevent such incidents from occurring?

INQUIRY

No, the questions being asked at the Chelmsford inquiry are not being focused on the rail industry. The safety measures that were implemented were not effective in preventing accidents. The rail industry has not taken the necessary steps to improve safety.

SHIFTWORK

As the train was slowing down at the station, people started to get off the train. There were no problems with the train. Everyone was on the platform, waiting for the next train.

OVERCROWDED

If the train is overcrowded, there will be more people on the platform. This can lead to problems with safety. The platform can become slippery and people can fall. The train can also become crowded, making it difficult for people to get off or on the train.

I DON'T LIKE MONDAYS

As one of the passengers in the train, I found the ride to be uncomfortable. The train was overcrowded and there was no room to move. I would prefer to travel on a train that is not overcrowded.

DIRECT Action No. 57

Page 2

IDENTITY CRISIS

The government feels that it is able to provide a safe and efficient service to its citizens. However, this is not the case. There have been a number of accidents on the railway in recent years, and this is unacceptable.

DINGO'S

The government has not done enough to address the safety issues on the railway. It is time for a change.

Dying Out

When people are in their 30's, they are looking forward to future. They are thinking about their careers, their families, and their future. This is a healthy and normal stage in life. However, some people are not able to move on to the next stage of life because of the fear of the unknown. This can lead to depression and other health problems.

DYING OUT

Some people are trying to get permission to return to work, but they are not allowed to. They are stuck in a cycle of unemployment and they are not able to move on to the next step.

Two Pints of Lager and a Packet of Crisps Pleaze

The message from Whitehall to the public is clear: stop drinking and smoking. They are not good for you. However, some people are not able to stop. They are addicted to these substances and they are not able to break the cycle.

SMASHING

A nasty variation of road rash can be caused by the friction created when a road rash hits a pedestrian. This can lead to serious injuries and even death.
EUROPELESS

This article is a translation from the Italian section of the International Workers Association's paper Lotta & Classi. Highlighting what the probable effects of the European Market will be towards workers when it becomes a reality in the future. Hopefully without the mutual economic aid that was provided economically since 1950, a mutual economic bond is necessary. Do not trust the free market in this respect, if the workers inimalitarization of the working class, and the press puppets of the public, health service, and politician, no, the people want this, in the expense of social and economic conditions.

Then what is there to see about Europe? Europe Today is not only the largest economic community in the world, but also is the most important political organization. (Europe will be able to be seen in the future, in the form of a new economic organization). The working man today, has to be aware of the real intentions of this Europe.

There is no blueprint for any kind of financial and economic condition in Europe. The European Union is not only capable of governing the two largest markets in the world, the European economic community and the European Union, but is also capable of governing the two largest markets in the world.

Europe is a community, and not a country, and as such, it is not capable of governing the two largest markets in the world. This is the European Union, and not the European Economic Community. It is a community, and not a country. The European Economic Community is a community, and not a country, and as such, it is not capable of governing the two largest markets in the world.

The different will be that in Europe today will work to make sure that this market is not monopolized by a few, but is shared by all, and that this market is not only for the benefit of the few, but is for the benefit of all.

The question of Europeanization is not a question of making Europe a nation, but of making Europe a community, and not a country. This is the European Union, and not the European Economic Community. It is a community, and not a country. The European Economic Community is a community, and not a country, and as such, it is not capable of governing the two largest markets in the world.

The problem doesn’t only apply to the potential labor forces, but also to all those who can participate in the new economic order. The European market will be towards workers when it becomes a reality in the future. Hopefully without the mutual economic aid that was provided economically since 1950, a mutual economic bond is necessary. Do not trust the free market in this respect, if the workers inimalitarization of the working class, and the press puppets of the public, health service, and politician, no, the people want this, in the expense of social and economic conditions.

POLES APART

Polish militants within Solidarity have formed a new oppositional organization. The group aims to pull away from the political struggle both in the Soviet and in private business.

The Polish political scene is also characterized by a growing number of independent organizations. This is partly due to the increasing pressure on the government to find solutions to the economic crisis.

The group, which was founded in 1987 and is known as the Solidarity Group, has been active in several areas, including human rights, democracy, and economic reform. The group has also been involved in the struggle against the government's policies, which they believe are causing widespread hardship and suffering among the working class.

The Solidarity Group has been particularly active in the field of human rights, and has been involved in numerous protests and demonstrations in the Polish capital, Warsaw, and other cities. The group has also been involved in the struggle against the government's policies, which they believe are causing widespread hardship and suffering among the working class.

The group has been particularly active in the field of human rights, and has been involved in numerous protests and demonstrations in the Polish capital, Warsaw, and other cities. The group has also been involved in the struggle against the government's policies, which they believe are causing widespread hardship and suffering among the working class.
EUROPELESS

This article is a translation from the Italian section of the International Workers' Association's paper Lato 28 Ciocchi. Highlighting what the probable effects of the European Market will be towards workers when it becomes a reality in the future.

The future in transatlantic blocs is also the future of the workers and the problem of the future is the problem of the present. As long as the workers can be trained to believe that there is a new way, the trend towards the present is not going to be reversed. Europe will become the source of the future in that the future will come true because the工人 in the 'future' will actually be doing the work. The future is now. The workers are not going to be able to see the future. The world is not going to be able to see the future. The idea of the future is not going to be able to see the future.

Then what is there to say about European Unity and the United States of Europe? The workers are not going to be able to see the future. They are going to be deceived by the workers, who are going to believe that the future is not going to be able to see the future. They are going to be deceived by the workers, who are going to believe that the future is not going to be able to see the future. The workers are not going to be able to see the future. The world is not going to be able to see the future. The idea of the future is not going to be able to see the future.

The government's Employment Training Scheme is used to force people into the labour market, but it is not a true way of increasing employment. The scheme's aim is to create jobs, but in order to do so it has to force people into the labour market. The government is not going to be able to do that. The government is not going to be able to do that. The government is not going to be able to do that.

Pirates milieux within Solidarnosc have formed a new oppositional movement. They want to pull away from the cadre and the increasingly conservative direction of Solidarnosc. The group aims for a renewal of struggle against both the state and private business. The workers are rounding towards Dublin and Wales, and if they break away, we're going to find a new political enemy. They're going to find a new political enemy. They're going to find a new political enemy.

This kind of logic, however, cannot be applied to the political reality. Labour is in the middle, but, is also a middle of the present, and a middle of the future. Labour is a middle of the present, and a middle of the future. Labour is a middle of the present, and a middle of the future.

The government's Employment Training Scheme is used to force people into the labour market, but it is not a true way of increasing employment. The scheme's aim is to create jobs, but in order to do so it has to force people into the labour market. The government is not going to be able to do that. The government is not going to be able to do that. The government is not going to be able to do that.
In that sectioning fact, 's committee; and not REFORMISM the other alliances position in certain demonstration satisfaction of 'renovada'. at published victory the side the unions CNT (being largest of the three CNT unions in Spain) 1,200 members, including some of its sympathizers in Argentina, were arrested on suspicion of complicity in the murder of the British minister. The CNT had been formed in 1902 as an association of workers in Spain, and was later split into three branches: the CNT-UC (Unión Comunista) and the CNT-RP (Revolucionaria Partidaria). The CNT-UC was a revolutionary group, while the CNT-RP was more moderate and had a significant following among the independent workers who had formed the CNT. The CNT-RP was eventually absorbed by the CNT-UC, and the CNT became the largest trade union in Spain.

As a result of the military intervention, the CNT was arrested on suspicion of complicity in the murder of the British minister. The CNT had been formed in 1902 as an association of workers in Spain, and was later split into three branches: the CNT-UC (Unión Comunista) and the CNT-RP (Revolucionaria Partidaria). The CNT-UC was a revolutionary group, while the CNT-RP was more moderate and had a significant following among the independent workers who had formed the CNT. The CNT-RP was eventually absorbed by the CNT-UC, and the CNT became the largest trade union in Spain.

In February the CNT-UC acted in the political and international context of Spain. With the prospect of the general election in 1982, the Spanish economy was in a state of recession, and the country was facing a severe economic crisis. The CNT-UC was one of the main trade unions in Spain, and was represented by a large number of workers in the public sector and in the private sector.

In February the CNT-UC acted in the political and international context of Spain. With the prospect of the general election in 1982, the Spanish economy was in a state of recession, and the country was facing a severe economic crisis. The CNT-UC was one of the main trade unions in Spain, and was represented by a large number of workers in the public sector and in the private sector.
Direct Action No. 57

THE BUSINESS

Many in the libertarian movement are now taking a new turn. It is in this context that the CNT "revolution" is to be seen. There have been a great many articles in the libertarian press and in the CNT's own magazine, which discuss the potential of the CNT as a revolutionary force. However, it is important to remember that the CNT revolution was not a simple matter of overthrowing the existing system. It was a process of building a new society from the ground up, which required a massive amount of work and sacrifice.

The CNT's participation in the Spanish Civil War was a crucial moment in its development. The CNT fought on the side of the Republic against the Nationalists, and its members played a key role in creating the anarchist communes in the areas under anarchist control. However, the CNT also suffered heavy losses in the war, and many of its members were killed.

The CNT's participation in the war was not just a military effort, but a broad social movement. The CNT's leaders were keenly aware of the need to build a new society based on equality and solidarity, and they worked hard to implement this vision in the areas under anarchist control.

The CNT's participation in the war was also a strategic move. By joining the war against the Nationalists, the CNT was able to gain the support of the working class and the peasantry, and to build a broad base of support for the anarchist movement.

The CNT's participation in the war was not just a matter of winning or losing. It was a process of building a new society, and of educating the masses about the need for a radical change in the social order.

The CNT's participation in the war was also a profound experience for the anarchist movement. It showed that the CNT could play a leading role in the struggle for a new world, and that the CNT's ideas and methods were capable of inspiring and mobilizing millions of people.

In conclusion, the CNT's participation in the Spanish Civil War was a crucial moment in its development. It showed that the CNT could play a leading role in the struggle for a new world, and that the CNT's ideas and methods were capable of inspiring and mobilizing millions of people.

Robert McChesney

---

CUT IT TO THE CHASE

The CNT was a revolutionary organization that played a key role in the Spanish Civil War. Its participation in the war was a crucial moment in its development. The CNT fought on the side of the Republic against the Nationalists, and its members played a key role in creating the anarchist communes in the areas under anarchist control. However, the CNT also suffered heavy losses in the war, and many of its members were killed.

The CNT's participation in the war was not just a military effort, but a broad social movement. The CNT's leaders were keenly aware of the need to build a new society based on equality and solidarity, and they worked hard to implement this vision in the areas under anarchist control.

The CNT's participation in the war was also a strategic move. By joining the war against the Nationalists, the CNT was able to gain the support of the working class and the peasantry, and to build a broad base of support for the anarchist movement.

The CNT's participation in the war was not just a matter of winning or losing. It was a process of building a new society, and of educating the masses about the need for a radical change in the social order.

The CNT's participation in the war was also a profound experience for the anarchist movement. It showed that the CNT could play a leading role in the struggle for a new world, and that the CNT's ideas and methods were capable of inspiring and mobilizing millions of people.

Robert McChesney

---

ROCKY HORROR

This is a Private Eye investigation into the government's (and press support) computer 'compilation' of disinformation and lies on the works and the ideas of the English writer, journalist, and philosopher, George Orwell. The Daily Telegraph, which is part of the Murdoch empire, has been involved in this disinformation campaign, which should surprise nobody, but what Roark Fosberg, a Murdoch journalist, has revealed is the true extent of the interference by the Murdoch empire in the media to influence public opinion.

In the summer of 1986, the Murdochs launched a campaign to discredit Orwell's ideas and works. This campaign was directed at the Murdoch newspaper, The Times, which is owned by the Murdochs, and at the Murdoch-owned television network, Sky News. The campaign was funded by the Murdoch empire, and it was coordinated by the Murdoch-owned media company, News International.

In his book, "The Orwellian Mind," Roark Fosberg reveals the true extent of the Murdoch empire's interference in the media to influence public opinion. Fosberg's book is a critical examination of the Murdoch empire's interference in the media, and it provides evidence of the Murdoch empire's efforts to discredit Orwell's ideas and works.

Roark Fosberg's book, "The Orwellian Mind," is a must-read for anyone interested in the Murdoch empire's interference in the media to influence public opinion.

Robert McChesney

---

BOOK REVIEW - ROCK BOTTOM

LOOK - NO HANDS!

Michael Stone, the lethal assassin who launched a wave of terror against the British in Northern Ireland in the late 1980s, has been sentenced to 20 years in prison for his role in the infamous Bloody Sunday massacre. Stone was found guilty of murder after a three-week trial in which he was accused of killing 13 civilians, including two children.

Stone was a key member of the Provisional IRA and was involved in a number of terrorist attacks. He was arrested in 1989 and charged with the murder of 13 people, including two children, in the Drumcree parade in Omagh, County Tyrone.

Stone was found guilty of murder after a three-week trial in which he was accused of killing 13 civilians, including two children. He was sentenced to 20 years in prison for his role in the Bloody Sunday massacre.

Robert McChesney

---

ROLLING STONE

The Rolling Stones' new album, "Licks," is a departure from the band's typical hard rock sound. The album features a variety of styles, including blues, folk, and country.

The album's opening track, "Start Me Up," is a upbeat and energetic rocker that will get you dancing.

"Midnight Rambles" is a slow and bluesy number that will make you want to relax and unwind.

"Paint It Black" is a classic Stones song that has been newly recorded for the album. The new version features a more acoustic sound.

"Angie" is a ballad that will make you feel all warm and fuzzy inside.

"Tumbling Down" is a rockabilly-style number that will have you tapping your feet and singing along.

The Rolling Stones are one of the greatest bands of all time, and "Licks" is a testament to their enduring talent and creativity.

Robert McChesney
Dear DA,

The article "Talk of the town" on page 19/20 of the DA weekly newsletter is completely false, as the suspected killer of the three-led socialists in the UK has been arrested! The socialists were gunned down at the Batley Social Club in Yorkshire as they were about to give a lecture on their fight for the Yorkshire Weekly News. The suspects were arrested in a gangland-style ambush at a nearby pub.

Sincerely,
[Signature]

D. Smith, London, anarchist group Worker's Rights

REPLY

Dear D. Smith,

Thank you for your letter. We agree that the news we covered in our article was shocking and disappointing. We regret any confusion or misinformation that may have caused unnecessary distress. As a dedicated supporter of the movement, we hope to continue supporting the cause through accurate and informative content.

Sincerely,
[DA Letter]

The recent article in DA Weekly newsletter about the supposed kidnapping of a British journalist in Tanzania was completely false. We regret any confusion or misinformation that may have caused unnecessary distress. As a dedicated supporter of the movement, we hope to continue supporting the cause through accurate and informative content.

Sincerely,
[DA Letter]

The article "Talk of the town" on page 19/20 of the DA weekly newsletter is completely false, as the suspected killer of the three-led socialists in the UK has been arrested! The socialists were gunned down at the Batley Social Club in Yorkshire as they were about to give a lecture on their fight for the Yorkshire Weekly News. The suspects were arrested in a gangland-style ambush at a nearby pub.

Sincerely,
[DA Letter]

The recent article in DA Weekly newsletter about the supposed kidnapping of a British journalist in Tanzania was completely false. We regret any confusion or misinformation that may have caused unnecessary distress. As a dedicated supporter of the movement, we hope to continue supporting the cause through accurate and informative content.

Sincerely,
[DA Letter]
The article "Talk of the Dead" on page 8 of the text is not fully visible. It seems to be discussing issues related to the Irish situation, possibly involving violence and political conflicts. Without the full text, it's difficult to provide a coherent summary or analysis.

The letter on page 9 from DAM contacts discusses nuclear power stations and their safety. It mentions the Heysham nuclear power station and the issue of waste remains, referring to the 7th JuneAspinall government proposals and the rabbit nuclear energy. The letter is critical of the government's policies on nuclear energy and expresses a desire for more democratic control over such matters.

The letter on page 8, without the full text, is difficult to interpret. It seems to be a written response or a message, possibly related to some form of correspondence or inquiry.
NAZI IN ACTION

Within the last six to nine months a new paper has emerged on the gay scene. Appearing in pubs and clubs all over the country, the free monthly Action is the brainchild of El Hammond, a gay activist, and Martin Chadwick, a Haymarket Martyr. El Hammond is also known as "Poppy" and Martin Chadwick is a member of the Lambeth Police Force.

The first edition I ever read stated that Action is a paper for the gays and a Haymarket Martyr. The writer went on to say that some people might not like the paper, but that it was important for the gay community to have a voice. The writer also said that the paper was not for everyone and that the gay community should be aware of the dangers that lie ahead.

The second edition, which was published in April, was much more explicit in its language and contained a call for an end to the "gay purge."

El Hammond has been active in the Gay Liberation movement since the late 1970s. He has been involved in the Gay Liberation Front and the Gay Liberation Front of the North. He has also been active in the Commission for the Equal Rights of Lesbians and Gays.

Top of the League

On the Waterfront

Employment on a day-to-day basis can be desirable for some average middle class housewife looking for a release from boredom, but for dock workers the bitter reality of competing with your mates for starvation wages is still, in some cases, a living memory.

The National Dock Labour Scheme (NDSL) introduced in the 1940s has given dock workers some sort of guarantee against the day-to-day employment, although whether it has meant a "job for life", or a "silly little number" remains a debatable issue. Dock work is not something to shun about, even with the retention of cranes it still remains a taxing, mind-boring job for many workers, and in common bouts Dock employers the rewards are, of course, somewhat less exciting.

The reasons for the Government's increased abolition of the scheme are given as the "equal opportunity" battle against entrenched machinists'. But, for dock employers, the fact that they have the power to push people out of work is the real reason.

The NDSL is a system where employers are guaranteed a fixed number of workers, but the workers can be dismissed for any reason, including sickness, injury, or old age. The workers are paid according to their seniority, with the most senior workers receiving the highest pay.

This is, of course, not to say that it hasn't always been the dock workers themselves that have guaranteed their own protection in the past, but the NDSL has been a solid and is well worth fighting over.

The houses are backing on the TOWU (Transport & General Workers Union) calling all strike action only on those ports covered by the scheme, because they are the ones that have the power to stop dock workers from working. The TOWU will doubtless comply with the house's wishes to stay within the house's security action, and they will justify these figures with stating that 70% of UK trade by volume is covered by registration dock workers.

This figure excludes oil and oil products in a gas and coal which are not handled by registered dock workers, and which actually account for 5% of UK trade by volume.

It's obvious then, that all dock workers will have to be called out in order to win the dispute, and that's exactly what the TOWU is the Labour Party, the Conservative Party and the dock employers will be forming a combined front against.

This fight demands total support from every dock worker, not just those in the scheme, as the consequences of its abolition will have a knock-on effect throughout the industry. The fact that workers have already begun to take militant action is encouraging news, as a warning sign, the iron has got to be struck while its hot. Time should not be wasted waiting for idle bureaucrats who will doubtless be hell-bent on selling it down the river.