VOICE OF INDUSTRY.

VOLUME 1.

THE VOICE OF INDUSTRY.

PITTSBURGH HAW, THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1846.

SELECTED TALES.

From the Quarterly Magazine.

The object of this work is to introduce to the public a series of tales which are both interesting and instructive. The stories are selected from the best sources, and are intended to be of a moral character. The stories are written in a style adapted to the taste of the people, and are calculated to be read with pleasure.

The tales are arranged in the following manner:

1. A Tale of the Sea.
2. A Tale of the Forest.
3. A Tale of the City.
5. A Tale of the Mountains.

The stories are written in a style adapted to the taste of the people, and are calculated to be read with pleasure.

The stories are arranged in the following manner:

1. A Tale of the Sea.
2. A Tale of the Forest.
3. A Tale of the City.
5. A Tale of the Mountains.

The tales are written in a style adapted to the taste of the people, and are calculated to be read with pleasure.

The stories are arranged in the following manner:

1. A Tale of the Sea.
2. A Tale of the Forest.
3. A Tale of the City.
5. A Tale of the Mountains.

The tales are written in a style adapted to the taste of the people, and are calculated to be read with pleasure.

The stories are arranged in the following manner:

1. A Tale of the Sea.
2. A Tale of the Forest.
3. A Tale of the City.
5. A Tale of the Mountains.

The tales are written in a style adapted to the taste of the people, and are calculated to be read with pleasure.

The stories are arranged in the following manner:

1. A Tale of the Sea.
2. A Tale of the Forest.
3. A Tale of the City.
5. A Tale of the Mountains.

The tales are written in a style adapted to the taste of the people, and are calculated to be read with pleasure.

The stories are arranged in the following manner:

1. A Tale of the Sea.
2. A Tale of the Forest.
3. A Tale of the City.
5. A Tale of the Mountains.

The tales are written in a style adapted to the taste of the people, and are calculated to be read with pleasure.

The stories are arranged in the following manner:

1. A Tale of the Sea.
2. A Tale of the Forest.
3. A Tale of the City.
5. A Tale of the Mountains.