NO NEW GOLF COURSES

UNDERNEATH THE ARCHES.

Anyone who's been in court recently will have noticed the increase in homeless people being had up for begging or obstruction. On direct orders from 3-House cabinet members, "Operation Burlington" cops nicked 100s of "vagrants" during the spring/summer - cleaning up the West End for the Tourist Season. But when they have nowhere to go, especially when places like the Belgrave Hospital, squatted last year as a crashpad for the homeless, get evicted. So they drift back, in greater numbers. Now, the Savoy Hotel, and a very nasty character called Michael Gottlieb, who owns "Smolenskys" restaurant on the Strand, are gathering a vigilante band of local shopkeepers to drive them off the Strand. Their "scum clearance" isn't content with plainclothes anti-beggar patrols and Guardian Angels hassling the tramps; they're bringing in french streetwashing machines that work all night, making it hard to get a decent kip in a doorway. The "human litter", as Gottlieb calls them, are to be driven out. With mass evictions in some boroughs, there's more people on the street, and some of them are getting a little pissed off. There's also the threat to criminalise trespass laws, which in effect illegalise squatting. The Govt have considered this, but don't plan to introduce this at the moment.

They should take a lesson from the 1000 strong demo against the Savoy/Gottlieb plan on the 12th of September; there are 75,000 homeless people and 30,000 squatters in London. I don't know if the Savoy or Smolenskys did much business during the poll tax riot, but if they carry on the way they are, mollies could soon be added to their menus. Smolenskys is at 105 the Strand.

IN THE BUNKER

When Iraqi troops rolled over plucky little Kuwait, national sovereignty was the phrase of the moment. Naturally enough the loudest protests came from Britain and the US. The idea of occupying someone else's country would never have occurred to either government. Meanwhile in Occupied Canada, french speaking Quebec has long maintained its independence and "right" to self determination. Lefties have conveniently ignored Quebec's treatment of its own minorities; immigrants and of course native people. From mid-July armed militants of the Warriors of the Mohawk nation held off Quebec and then federal police from Indian land. On July 11 armed Quebec police tried to storm the Mohawk barricades and failed miserably - gassing themselves, shooting one of their own men and losing several vehicles. It took tanks and soldiers to shift the barricades but not until the revolt had spread across Canada. And what was the reason for this military action? The good people of Oka wanted to extend one of their golf courses. So remember, when you get your call up papers for Kuwait, pack a set of clubs. It's what you're fighting for.

BACK TO SCHOOL.

Since June's successful action at Weaversfield school in Bethnal Green (see last autognome) Anti-Fascist action have turned out against two more BNP by-election meetings. At the first, at Old Ford School, AFA ended up reinforcing a dismal SWP/lefty picket which had started off without knowing where the school was. AFA intervention in this by-election was far more successful when anti-fascists leafleted a "white" estate, a supposed BNP stronghold, with a positive reaction, especially from the BNP themselves who generously donated their leaflets and other souvenirs before making a swift departure.

At the end of August AFA was back at Weaversfield. Once more the BNP heavies were unsure whether to stand or not and ended up hurrying into the hall leaving their younger members to discuss the issues with AFA. Three anti-fascists and three fascists were nicked. AFA thinks that the old slogan of "self defence is no offence" is not enough. It's now time to attack, as the best form of defence. AFA is determined to force the fascists out of what they and most of the left see as fascist areas.

EUROPE'S BURNING

Clash is the resistance answer to Maxwell's European. It is a thick newspaper produced in both English and German editions. Its topics cover anti-fascism, squatting, prisoners support, radical resistance to militarism, industrialisation, yuppification etc.

The heavy analysis in some articles is fortunatley punctuated by some hilarious translations eg. evictions served on "... high lust paper" (presumably glossy) and "squattles" evicted by "Hired swashbucklers" To be fair the paper is an excellent idea and has been well received across Europe.

Clash has many organizational problems, not the least being the security made necessary by the criminalisation of producing such literature in the FRG. The Dutch and Norwegians also believe that such repressive laws may soon be imported to their own countries in preparation for the new rightwing unification of 1992.

So far there is noone involved in the editorial group from southern Europe as this has been formed from the NW Europe network of info shops. This is hoping to merge with other networks. For instance the Italian one which is more based around radio stations. This may eventually result in Clash being produced in a latin language, and yes that title is here to stay. When the Germans enthusiastically showed the new paper to their Kurdish comrades they were met with equally enthusiastic bemusement; Clash is the Kurdish resistance slang for Kalashnikov.

SPOOKS IN SPOOK CITY

The July/Aug issue of Pagan News has an article on the witchcraft hoaxes set up by Information Policy (MoDs anti-IRA psy-ops department) in Northern Ireland in the mid seventies. This storey has much relevance in the light of present anti-occult disinformation being put out by evangelical groups funded and controlled by rightwing organizations?

This issue of PN also contains no advert for products sold via the BM SOL address like Sol Invictus wares or Chaos International. Sol Invictus is the name of a magic group and a band featuring ex Nfer Tony Wakefield (also of Death in June) ironically an earlier band of his, Crisis played an SWP Rock Against Racism gig. Chaos International is edited by Ian Reid who recently organised the security at a Scorpion conference, a Euro fascist quasi-cultural thinktank. Phil Hine, editor of PN did guest edit CI once (not sold via BM SOL) but PN has always been strongly anti-racist and anti-fascist. Besides a mag that helps Colin Wallace become a household name can't be all bad. They don't print ghastly new-age poetry either.

THE FUTURE OF SPIRITUAL LAW ENFORCEMENT

Hasta Tyrepriest is A.K.A. Alan J. Wynder a former activist with the British movement currently marketing manager of Odinhoffs' (an Odinist pagan group) Harvest Moon magazine (BCM Tercel). Wynder has only recently broken with Dutch racist Freya Aswynn (BM ASWYNN). Odinhoff is perhaps innocent of racism or fascist intrigues but we shall continue to monitor.

Inter-Racial Solidarity, the Leicester-based group with one of the best anti-racist track records in this country, is to hold its annual "One World Festival" on Saturday 13 October. It will take place at Moat Community College from 6pm onwards. Visitors will be welcome and of course a fair number of stewards will be needed as Leicester is in the British National Party heartland.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

This is now as much a big anti-fascist mobilisation as it is for the ever dwindling band of nazis who risk coming out from under their stones for the day. This year tactics have yet to be decided but start organising now.

GET IN TOUCH with your local AFA group through the box no. That way more people are involved with planning and decision making. Make plans and preparations with your mates.

ON THE DAY go up in a group or at any rate as discreetly as possible. Stick together. Don't spread or follow rumours.

The AFA stewards are not trying to restrain your enthusiasm. They want to be effective and keep the area safe for anti-fascists.

HAMMERSMITH SQUATTERS (new group, best of luck). Wednesday. 2pm. At 190 Shepherds Bush Rd. W6.

A few weeks ago some squatters were conned out of their place by cops who told them that squatting was now illegal. Complete bollocks of course, but squatters were the laughing stock of Hackney pigs for weeks. At least until that cop got shot. Joking apart this shows that unless people are aware of whats going on they are easy targets for cops or council officers. Squatting is still legal, but if people continue to use squatting groups as alternative estate agents its not going to be difficult to outlaw it. Wise up and get organised.

What do you call someone who doesn't own the property they live in, avoids the Poll Tax, pays no rent and expects the taxpayer to foot the bill....?

POLL TAX UPDATE

6 months on and around 14 million people aren't paying. Local anti-poll tax groups are springing up everywhere, preparing to resist court summonses and bailiffs. Court cases in the Isle Of Wight, Wandsworth and other places have been defeated by delaying tactics - the longer you talk in court the less time they have to process everyone. In Camden 350 non-payers have been put through the courts in recent weeks. Court cases are beginning all over the country.

Northampton and Wandsworth councils have been the first to send in the bailiffs, but in Wandsworth at least they have been kept away from their targets by crowds of poll tax resisters. In most London Boroughs non-payment is around 40-50%, with Lambeth at 60%. Council workers in Brent, Haringey, Newham and Hammersmith have taken industrial action against cuts resulting from poll tax and against implementation, besides the long running strike by housing dept workers in Greenwich. Links between these workers and local anti-poll tax groups are essential to beat the tax.

The Militant Tendency grip on the anti poll tax movement is slowly being undermined, with independent links growing between non-Militant dominated groups. From the start these irrelevant trot tossers have sabotaged independent action and attempted to control the resistance for their own ends. Now people are starting to recognise them for what they are - scabs and grassers. Whenever you point this out to them they whinge that they are being "picked on" or "witch-hunted" by anarchists. The ducking-stool's too good for them. They can't keep the lid on OUR movement.

Their latest cop-out has been to sabotage a march called by the Trafalgar Square Defendants Campaign which goes through the West End, (they're not beating us off the street) by organising one that goes from Lambeth North to Brixton. But the TSDC/independent anti-poll tax groups are going to march through Trafalgar Square anyway. If its boring you can always go to the anarchist Bookfair.

EVIL RIOTERS GET THEIR JUST DESSERTS

TRAFALGAR SQUARE DEFENDANTS CAMPAIGN

The TSDC has taken on the job of defending people nicked on the poll tax riot. There are now over 500 defendants, including people picked up in raids by "Operation Carnaby", the police unit set up to nab rioters. Among other places Holmleigh rd. estate in Hackney was raided. The courts have been handing out stiff sentences - from 21 days up to 3 months for threatening behaviour is the trend. In the first crown court trial, Robert Robinson got 2 years for violent disorder (kicking a cop van). About 30 people are currently inside.

TSDC is supporting defendants and prisoners financially where it can, but local anti-poll tax groups should help people from their area. Activists monitor court cases to give support, compare sentences, etc, and have put defendants in touch with possible witnesses/good solicitors. After a struggle they have also got a lot of video evidence off the Prosecution, and are logging it for helpful material.

The campaign has picketed Brixton and Pentonville prisons in solidarity with prisoners, and has also held demos at courts, with good responses from defendants and prisoners

Local campaigns have been set up around the country to support people from their area. The TSDC desperately need cash and volunteers to help monitor courts witnesses and contact for defendants they don't have addresses for.
