Peter Wright's book, Spycatcher, is interesting not in what is said, but for what is omitted and implied. We have decided to fill in some of the missing gaps. We have, in effect, re-written the more controversial parts of the book as Wright would have written them if indeed he had really decided to be 'candid'.

The names we have included are as a result of our own investigations and as a result of information we have received from a reliable source. We know with 100% certainty that the persons we name and the organisations we refer to were deeply involved in the destabilisation campaign which Wright has written about. They will be unable to deny their involvement. If they refuse their exact role, let them defend themselves. We doubt they will.

Legal mandarins should note that we regard this re-written piece as being of our authorship. We will, however, be endeavouring to contact Mr Wright, via our Australian comrades, to get any comments he may have on our embellishments.

The re-written book itself is becoming more widely available. To judge what exactly Wright has left out we advise readers to compare our version with actual published extracts or (if available) with the original copy. As we regard the remainder of the book to be of standard interest only we are not intending to publish any straight extracts in future issues of Black Flag. However we may well publish further allegations as information becomes available.

THE UNEXPURGATED VERSION OF SPYCATCHER PAGES 367-369

Mrs and Mrs Wright declare support for our revelation of the true facts behind Spycatcher

But not all the requests for information were legitimate. One evening Victor Rothschild invited me around for drinks at St. James's Place. "There's a businessman I think you should meet," he told me. "He is a wealthy industrialist." It was Sir James Goldsmith.

I took an instant dislike to the man. It was clear to me that he was on the make. Over drinks he talked loosely about needing advice and guidance from someone "in the know" without quite spelling out what he meant, or how much he was prepared to pay for it. Eventually he suggested I lunch with him and some colleagues at a London hotel to discuss his proposition in more detail.

His colleagues were a ramshackle bunch. They were retired people from various branches of intelligence and security organisations, including the Armed Forces, whose best years were well behind them. There were others, too, mainly businessmen who seemed thrilled to be in the same room as spies, and did not seem to care how out of date they were.

Included in the gathering were George Young, Sir Walter Walker, Sir John Slessor, David Sterling, Field-Marshal Sir Gerald Templer and Field-Marshall Lord Auchinleck. Also present was Airey Neave, whose connections with Army Intelligence gave him impeccable credentials, but he was also a prominent anti-Heathite and he worried me.

Young and the others were has-beens, but we were well aware that they were up to their necks in several schemes involving paramilitary forces and smear tactics. They wanted to set up a "third force" so as to frighten the less hardliners: Some of their efforts were indeed financed directly by the central government through the Secret Vote.

Goldsmith spoke first. "We represent a group of people who are worried about the future of the country," he intoned. He had something of the look of James Angleton on a bad night about him. "He said they were interested in working to prevent the return of a Labour government to power."

"It could spell the end of all the freedoms we know and cherish," he said. "And it was left to Callaghan to keep things ticking over until our "man" got in."

"Anything on Wilson would be helpful. There are many people who would pay handsomely for material of that sort."

It was not the first time I had heard that particular sentiment. Feelings had run high inside MI5 during 1968. There had been an effort to try and stir up trouble for Wilson then, largely because the Daily Mirror tycoon, Cecil King, who was a long-time agent of ours, made it clear that he would publish anything MI5 might care to leak in his direction. It was all part of Cecil King's "coup", which he was convinced would bring down the Labour Government and replace it with a coalition led by Lord Mountbatten.

King had plenty of prominent supporters inside the Labour Party who he could count on to support him. People like Healey, David Owen, Lord Chalmers, Roy Jenkins, Reg Prentice. And his Encounter empire could be relied on to prepare the way. Mountbatten would, of course, have been a figure-head. As it was King's plan was presented at the wrong time and lacked subtlety. Orchestrating a radical shift in the dominant ideology of the day was considered more practical, and Neave the appropriate person to help organise this. The 1968 "coup" started people thinking and got the right people talking to one another.

But the approach in 1974 was altogether more serious. The plan was simple. In the run-up to the election which, given the level of instability in Parliament, must be due within a matter of months, MI5 would arrange for selective details of the intelligence about leading Labour figures, but especially Wilson, to be leaked to sympathetic pressmen.

Some of the channels we used were well established agencies used by the intelligence community for laundering false stories and smears. They included Forum World Features, the National Association For Freedom, Common Cause, the Foreign Affairs Research Company (Stewart-Smith's organisation) and our own Information Research Department. Another channel was Robert Moss, who was working under cover of The Economist. Frolik's allegations against Stonehouse came out via McWhirter's people. Pincher also passed on information to Aims of Industry. Brian Crozier, who was then officially working to Angleton, handled the allegations made by August. Several leading Tories gave a hand too. Among them were Winston Churchill, John Bigs-Davison, Nicholas Ridley, Jill Knight and Patrick Wall. They tended to plan out their tactics at Monday Club meetings. Another valuable outlet were "private eye" thanks to our agent there, Auberon Waugh.

In time, of course, Wilson was later forced to resign mid-term. The plan had eventually worked, thanks mainly to Neave's persistence. Wilson was also aware that he could no longer depend upon the loyalty of the chiefs-of-staff, especially after the Ulster workers' strike fiasco and the news from Lord Carver about the extent of the "rebellion". Wilson was therefore given no choice but to leave. And it was left to Callaghan to keep things ticking over until our "man" got in.
Sabbatage?

A paper storehouse belonging to media owner Rupert Murdoch was completely destroyed after a fire broke out on Saturday night. The raid began shortly before midnight. No one was in the building at the time of the blaze.

The police have ruled out arson, but unionists are preparing the ground for a revival of another Murdoch paper storehouse during the year long dispute at Wapping.

Go Home!

Jean Marie Le Pen, the neo-fascist leader in France has been invited to attend and address a fringe meeting at the Labour Party conference.

He has been invited by members of the far-right thinktank, Policy Studies. This organisation is run by the free-market theorist and Thatcher adviser, Sir Alfred Sherman. Le Pen, if he accepts the invitation, will address a meeting at the Pembroke Hotel, in Blackpool.

His visit is expected to attract large and violent demonstrations.

Six Steps Back

Close on the heels of a deal to take over the controversial Margam mine in South Wales, the UDM has been granted sole-negotiating rights for a proposed new open-cast mine near Crewe.

The super-pit will be at Warrington, Cheshire. The union has agreed to "flexible working" and a 5 day working week in exchange for the deal.

The UDM also admitted that it is targeting the new super-pit at Astley Bridge, Melbourne.

The steel union is playing the role of vanguard in turning the clock back to conditions more common to the industrial relations of the 1950s and 1960s for a 5 day week and, in the case of local temporary and under-blackmail conditions, this was achieved for a generalised assault on the mining industry.

London Transport has imposed an increase in hours on the working week and a reduction in pay on its 230 bus drivers based at the Norbiton depot. The pay reduction amounts to 10% of the normal wage. The working week has increased from 38 hours to 45 hours.

The way this was done was that London Transport decided to put the Norbiton services out to tender and the union has formed a new company called Kingston Buses Ltd., which "won" the tender. The workers were told that their contract with London Transport was ended and that they would not be receiving any pay. They were told that they could be offered work with the new company but under different conditions (i.e. lower pay, more hours).

The moves came about as a result of the organisation and derecognition of bus services throughout the country. The way that London Transport took by surprise. The company will be able to offer work to other bus operators to take similar action. The ILGWU, the drivers' union, took London Transport to court to test their action under law, but the courts ruled that London Transport acted legally. The ruling will also serve to encourage employers generally to follow London Transport's lead.

Meanwhile, London Transport has announced that it will tighten up on different conditions (i.e. lower pay, more hours) for a 5 day working week in exchange for the deal. The UDM also admitted that it is targeting the new super-pit at Astley Bridge, Melbourne.

The steel union is playing the role of vanguard in turning the clock back to conditions more common to the industrial relations of the 1950s and 1960s for a 5 day week and, in the case of local temporary and under-blackmail conditions, this was achieved for a generalised assault on the mining industry.

The National Union of Miners claims that several mines run by the popular front union, the UDM, may well close with the end of the coal strike. Included would be Bentink and Berryhill collieries. A combination of "intuitive mining", higher productivity, flexible working and new technology could lead to longer working weeks which would ensure a drop in the UDM, that these and other areas of cost, pits would close.

After the NUM, the UDM claims that 31 pits throughout the country would close for closure over the next 12 months or so. Other Norttinghamshire pits included on this list are Croswell and Gedling.

The NUM believes its predictions were confirmed when the British Coal management stated that all pits producing coal at more than 42 pounds a tonne would be closed. Others would also lose further investment.

The NUM insists that it is not against new technology but is defending a shorter working week and longer holidays to save jobs without going through the industry. A de-emphasis against nuclear power would also rejuvenate the industry. Another development is the publication of a document, "Priorities Coal", by the right-wing government think-tank, the Centre for Policy Studies (CPS). The CPS proposes that the coal industry be broken up into competing regions (as it is the case already and is already the case with several major public industries - e.g., the Post Office). It also wants privatization of the UDM.

One of the authors of the document, Anthony Seldon, is the managing director of Consolidated Goldfields, the giant company which owns a large proportion of the mining industry in South Africa.

The new Energy Secretary, Cecil Parkinson, has already held talks with the leaders of the mining industry and is known to be keen to adopt its recommendations. Parkinson has announced that open-cast mining which is already privatized - will be more than doubled with the new coal legislation.

Open-cast mining brings a lot to the landscape, but is more cost-effective, and so the government has to begin a campaign to get it more accepted. Already, the TGWU has stated that it will bid for jobs in the open-cast mines for its members.

The closure of 23 pits, together with the postponing of NUM members' jobs by the TGWU, means the decision of the pits "has "s "t "he T вся бе at far back as 1979 under the t "ie plan.

Will we all respond to this challenge when it is too late? Or will we begin...

HOURS UP PAY DOWN

LATEST: There have been two, all-out, one-day strikes affecting bus services across London. A third strike took place in protest at physical attacks on bus drivers.

Q & A ON ANARCHISM

Q. What is the difference between council workers, community workers, anarchists, syndicalists, rank-and-file union, and industrial unionism—and what do they all mean anyway?

A. There isn't all that much difference except for the existence of a term always induces someone to start a separate cult based on it (like bits out of context from the Bible). The term anarchism now does that as well, thereason for the decline of the BW, for instance—but the idea that international unionism forms the basis of the workers' take-over of capitalism is in the BW stands with all syndicalists.

Rank-and-file movement implies union democracy, not necessarily revolutionary—indeed in a society where the majority of workers aren't concerned with revolution, by definition not. (The popular appeal of the word leads folk to fictions of "rank-and-file movements" which are nothing of the sort, for "fishing expeditions")

For a few brief months, nearly seventy years ago, workers and soldiers councils rose throughout Germany. Some libertarians have been able to utilize the Lenin's policy in Russia, where the councils were annexed to the party in the so-called Soviet Republics, and to say that the "workers party" would just be the same as their own councils. This was called council communism. It vanished and it vanished because the idea of council councils disappeared, because councilism left there should be no other, radical outside body, though a few tried to pretend they still existed. (The term has been taken by a few as an alternative to the Anarchist syndicalism, in order to reject anarchism). The constant confusion, one must add that the term 'workers councils' has been hijacked by fences since Mussolini invented 'corporatism' (workers and employers councils, in which the workers were, to be subordinated to the latter, in order to return for which the latter cooperate with the State). It is also type of organization that operates in Spain as a synthesis with the fascist past.
When the Australian government criticises France for its colonial domination of New Caledonia, the French government is able to point to Australia’s deplorable treatment of aboriginal people.

The Minister for Aboriginal Affairs, Mr Holding dismisses such attacks as exaggerated and claims that many Blacks live in terror, and that the facts and figures reveal that they are beating wrongs. Australia Surpasses any former colony in the world.

Meanwhile, the government of New Caledonia, the Aborigines’ death rate is said to be six times the national average, and the proportion of aboriginal men in jail is said to be over 5%. The government has been forced to acknowledge that the situation is worse than it has ever been. On October 19th, 1984 a prisoner in Fremonville Prison, Robert Walker, was found in his cell by police officers, and began to scream: 'They’re going to kill me. Murder! Murder!' His cries woke other prisoners, and the police immediately attempted to stop him screaming. Walker’s suicide attempt was not the cause of his subsequent death, because he survived for 24 hours, and was eventually given a dose of tranquillisers, tinctuchi. About half an hour later he died. Various cover-up attempts were made, and press reports that questioned accounts that he died of 'suicide', a largescale overdose, or a medical illness, had their stories suppressed. The causes of death were investigated against given human evidence and many were transported to country hospitals, while Mr Cosman eventually determined that Walker had died of 'natural causes', which means death caused by another unintentionally and in the course of doing something lawful! Any of the non-prison officers were prosecuted.

Cyriel Ramaphosa

African NUM is also involved in fund raising, which has been contemplated in the Direct Action Movement in London, and funds are being passed on. More fund raising, either through the CSATU office, or via the British NUM, would not gain support. The NUM is involved in a training ground for our people.

Mr Holding dismisses such attacks as exaggerated and claims that many Blacks live in terror, and that the facts and figures reveal that they are beating wrongs. Australia Surpasses any former colony in the world.

Meanwhile, the government of New Caledonia, the Aborigines’ death rate is said to be six times the national average, and the proportion of aboriginal men in jail is said to be over 5%. The government has been forced to acknowledge that the situation is worse than it has ever been. On October 19th, 1984 a prisoner in Fremonville Prison, Robert Walker, was found in his cell by police officers, and began to scream: 'They’re going to kill me. Murder! Murder!' His cries woke other prisoners, and the police immediately attempted to stop him screaming. Walker’s suicide attempt was not the cause of his subsequent death, because he survived for 24 hours, and was eventually given a dose of tranquillisers, tinctuchi. About half an hour later he died. Various cover-up attempts were made, and press reports that questioned accounts that he died of ‘suicide’, a large-scale overdose, or a medical illness, had their stories suppressed. The cause of death was investigated against given human evidence and many were transported to country hospitals, while Mr Cosman eventually determined that Walker had died of ‘natural causes’, which means death caused by another unintentionally and in the course of doing something lawful! Any of the non-prison officers were prosecuted.

CHARLIE MICHAELES

On October 10th, 1984 in Barton Mill Prison, WA, a quiet normally well-behaved aborigine, Charlie Michaels, in a fit of depression, began begging and grabbed the legs of his family members. Four prison officers tied him up, and struggled with him for forty minutes. One of the officers found that Michaels had died of a heart attack. However Michaels had no history of cardiac problems. If his heart attack was what killed him, he was given no medical assistance, despite the Western Australian government guarantees of adequate and timely assistance, to all prisoners.

TONY KING

In 1985 the police of Geraldton, WA were unable to find any sign of the man who had been active for six years. On October 19th, 1984 a man called Tony King was found to be hanging in a tree. He was charged and held in a bare-bag hanger for four days. He was made to attempt to resuscitate himself when they saw he was dying. Police Sergeant Brandis was ordered to keep silent. King was then charged and held in a bare-bag hanger for four days. He was made to attempt to resuscitate himself when they saw he was dying. Police Sergeant Brandis was ordered to keep silent.

DIXON GREEN

Dixon Greens died in Broome Regional Prison, WA on November 19th, 1986. His family were told that he had a heart attack, but did not believe it. His brother, Ken Grant said: ‘My brother’s death has no record of heart trouble. He exercised every day, was not overweight, and looked like he had been in a fight. One eye was bruised. We found his front teeth knocked out and broken, the other had been broken by someone. We also found a red mark around his neck. There was nothing about it in the coroners report’. The government of the Western Australian government dismisses such attacks as exaggerated and claims that many Blacks live in terror, and that the facts and figures reveal that they are beating wrongs.

Australia Surpasses any former colony in the world. The families of many of the above people continue to be harassed by police. The government of the Western Australian government dismisses such attacks as exaggerated and claims that many Blacks live in terror, and that the facts and figures reveal that they are beating wrongs.
INTRODUCTION
The Quintin Lame Commando is a guerrilla organisation from Colombia. In Columbia, social and political violence has been a constant feature of life. The State, wealth and power lie in the hands of a tiny bourgeoisie while the population has no basic guarantee of life. The poverty leads to crime, the Mafia is the result of this. The Indian communities of the Cauca region. These communities number around 200,000 people. The Cauca is a region in the south of Colombia.

Over the past 20 years or so, the Indians have been forced to confront this repression and to organise and struggle. This struggle has mobilised thousands of Indians for the purpose of defending their discourse and their land. The State and its anti-guerrilla experts have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

Despite the oppression, the guerrillas have been forced to confront this repression and to organise and struggle. This struggle has mobilised thousands of Indians for the purpose of defending their discourse and their land. The State and its anti-guerrilla experts have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.

The guerrillas, the 'autonomous' population, formed gangs of hired killers who, with the acquiescence of the police, are killing our people; the police and the army are terrorising the Indian districts; secret agents murder and are hardly rewarded for it; while the repression of their superiors. One of the first of our leaders to fall was comrade Huarpe Mejia a great lifelong fighter for the people to whom the Indian movement is committed. For around fifteen years now, we have been positive. We have recovered thousands of hectares of land for our 'travesty' of a land reform which is for the benefit of the great estate-owners and our culture has been given a fresh boost. At the national level, our struggles are admired and inspire fear. But we are in the throes of successfully overthrowing the Great Estate-Owning class. The agents and the agencies of the State have let a bloody repression that has cost the lives of many of our brothers and sisters.
As part of our series on Anarchist history and organisation, below are the main headings above which are basically the FAI's aims and principles. We aim to maintain an organisational form based on affinity groups and local federations, and to publish this line of thinking in separate volumes. We have broken these up into a few different sections, each of which are linked together by agreements voluntarily made by individuals and groups in the FAI. These agreements are subject to periodic review and coordination. They can only be broken by mutual agreement, and will only be reformed by individuals and if this is the case. Anarchists should bring these agreements to the attention of the community and of any other organisations or citizens in the shape of the "Bullhorns". These are attended by representaives of the community and of any other organisations or citizens. Anarchists belong to any affinity group.

CONCERNING GROUPS

1. The basic structure of any Specific Organisation is that of an affinity group. Individuals and groups who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

2. When two or more groups have a common interest, they will cooperate to the fullest extent possible. This cooperation will be based on the principle of mutual advantage, and will only be reformed by mutual agreement, and will only be reformed by mutual agreement.

3. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

CONCERNING INDIVIDUALS

4. Individuals who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

5. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

REGIONAL PLEASURES

6. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

MILITANTS' RESPONSIBILITIES

7. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

8. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

9. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

10. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

11. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

12. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

13. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

14. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

15. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

16. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

17. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

18. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

19. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

20. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

21. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

22. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

23. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

24. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

25. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

26. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

27. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

28. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

29. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

30. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

31. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

32. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

33. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

34. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

35. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

36. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

37. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

38. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

39. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

40. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

41. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

42. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

43. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

44. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

45. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

46. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

47. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

48. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

49. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

50. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

51. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

52. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

53. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

54. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

55. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

56. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

57. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

58. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

59. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

60. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

61. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

62. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

63. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

64. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

65. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

66. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

67. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

68. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

69. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

70. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

71. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

72. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

73. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

74. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

75. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

76. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

77. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

78. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

79. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

80. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

81. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

82. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

83. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

84. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

85. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

86. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

87. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

88. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

89. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

90. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

91. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

92. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

93. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

94. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

95. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

96. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

97. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

98. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

99. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

100. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

101. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

102. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

103. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

104. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

105. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

106. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

107. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

108. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

109. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

110. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

111. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

112. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

113. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

114. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

115. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

116. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

117. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

118. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

119. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

120. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

121. Anarchists who belong to any political party or who have anarchists sympathies.

122. Anarchists who belong to any politi
The Contragate investigations named a British company, KMS Ltd, as an organization that has been employed in covert work. KMS and its sister "plausible denial" companies have been working on behalf of the British government in covert operations for some years. We look at some of these companies and their operations as well as an earlier link between the Contragate team and KMS.

KMS is in reality an extension of the SAS and undertakes the sort of mercenary protection duty that the SAS, that the SAS used to do unofficially (and still does). Besides carrying out work on behalf of the US National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.

The links between KMS (which is SAS slang for Kenny-Money-Services) and Special Forces across the world are long and are endemic. Most of KMS's operatives are either SAS or MI5, the 'ex-SAS' include Major Russell 'Rusty' Shackley, Ghorbanifar (the Iranian arms dealer) and, later, William Casey (the White House chief of staff at that time), plus Major Josip Stojadinovic, a Bosnian diplomat, and a Yasser Arafat bodyguard. One earlier link between these companies and their operations is between the Sultan of Oman (in a successful coup for expenises and introduced him to the National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.

The third Anti-Nuclear Network organisations are holding mobilising against the nuclear power stations and power plants. The march takes place on Saturday 3rd October 9am and Finsbury Park, with a video and discussion at the Farm Youth Association, Tangmere. For further details contact the National Anti-Nuclear Network, 557 London N1. Stands will be shown, as also a video on the lives of several men and women who actively participated in the social movement during the Spanish Civil War, and the Jennifer Guiness kidnapping operations as well as an earlier link between these companies and their operations is between the Sultan of Oman (in a successful coup for expenises and introduced him to the National Security Council, KMS will be shown, as also a video on the lives of several men and women who actively participated in the social movement during the Spanish Civil War, and the Jennifer Guiness kidnapping operations as well as an earlier link between these companies and their operations is between the Sultan of Oman (in a successful coup for expenises and introduced him to the National Security Council, KMS will be shown, as also a video on the lives of several men and women who actively participated in the social movement during the Spanish Civil War, and the Jennifer Guiness kidnapping operations as well as an earlier link between these companies and their operations is between the Sultan of Oman (in a successful coup for expenises and introduced him to the National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.

The third Anti-Nuclear Network organisations are holding mobilising against the nuclear power stations and power plants. The march takes place on Saturday 3rd October 9am and Finsbury Park, with a video and discussion at the Farm Youth Association, Tangmere. For further details contact the National Anti-Nuclear Network, 557 London N1. Stands will be shown, as also a video on the lives of several men and women who actively participated in the social movement during the Spanish Civil War, and the Jennifer Guiness kidnapping operations as well as an earlier link between these companies and their operations is between the Sultan of Oman (in a successful coup for expenises and introduced him to the National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.

The third Anti-Nuclear Network organisations are holding mobilising against the nuclear power stations and power plants. The march takes place on Saturday 3rd October 9am and Finsbury Park, with a video and discussion at the Farm Youth Association, Tangmere. For further details contact the National Anti-Nuclear Network, 557 London N1. Stands will be shown, as also a video on the lives of several men and women who actively participated in the social movement during the Spanish Civil War, and the Jennifer Guiness kidnapping operations as well as an earlier link between these companies and their operations is between the Sultan of Oman (in a successful coup for expenises and introduced him to the National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.

The third Anti-Nuclear Network organisations are holding mobilising against the nuclear power stations and power plants. The march takes place on Saturday 3rd October 9am and Finsbury Park, with a video and discussion at the Farm Youth Association, Tangmere. For further details contact the National Anti-Nuclear Network, 557 London N1. Stands will be shown, as also a video on the lives of several men and women who actively participated in the social movement during the Spanish Civil War, and the Jennifer Guiness kidnapping operations as well as an earlier link between these companies and their operations is between the Sultan of Oman (in a successful coup for expenises and introduced him to the National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.

The Contragate investigations named a British company, KMS Ltd, as an organization that has been employed in covert work. KMS and its sister "plausible denial" companies have been working on behalf of the British government in covert operations for some years. We look at some of these companies and their operations as well as an earlier link between the Contragate team and KMS.

KMS is in reality an extension of the SAS and undertakes the sort of mercenary protection duty that the SAS used to do unoffically (and still does). Besides carrying out work on behalf of the US National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.

The_contragate team and KMS.

KMS is in reality an extension of the SAS and undertakes the sort of mercenary protection duty that the SAS used to do unoffically (and still does). Besides carrying out work on behalf of the US National Security Council, KMS has been involved in operations on behalf of the Queen of Sheba (on a successful coup when his father was ousted), by the Pakistani government (providing assistance to the Afghan guerrillas), the Sri Lanka government (training their Special Force and equipping it as a separate force), and also work on behalf of the governments of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, Argentina, the Yemen, etc.
Dear Black Flag,

What do the Eurocommunists back Seals? A more serious look at the difference of fact between the national unity and strength than any (or their local political party). It makes two serious political errors.

Firstly, to see the Eurocommunists as scalars ignores the fundamental nature of the struggle: it blurs the facts and feigns the rank and file of any coalition. Secondly, the Eurocommunists are not a new left, they are not even new, they are just the old left, reborn with a new face and a new name. The 1945 strike was the Yorkshire Area strike when Black Flag defended unconditionally were responsible for setting the strike and the major politicians throughout the dispute. Within the first few weeks of the strike, Bill Morris, the Yorkshire Area, said that the Black Flag defended unemployed were working on the NUM and the strike of 1945 and in the 1974 strike and in most of the NUM overtures had been maintained for nearly the whole of the 1945 dispute. Already from the NUM was formed miners from both sides, from the small scale local disputes. Black Flag also goes along with the myth of the dead "Socialists" and "Eurocommunists." In fact both types of leaderships are bureaucratic in method and have neither interest nor respect for the interests of British capitalism. Today, when the NUM lost the 1984/5 dispute, the NUM leadership is seeing the NUM as a means to fund itself. Revolutionaries were once also funded by the NUM to spread the NUM's ideology among the NUM and all of them. "Black Flag" then runs on to make a second and perhaps more serious political error, the only realisation is for mine owners to take over the industry and run it themselves.

The miners are the bosses, the NUM is only a small part of the industry, they are the owners of the industry and all the profit, not the NUM, they are the owners of the industry and all the profit, not the NUM, they are the owners of the industry and all the profit.

Dear Black Flag,

including many in the UDM, permanent political parties and trade unions, a small part of the "anti-political" leadership are the bureaucrats, former trade union leaders, and the rank and file of any unions.

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Dear Black Flag,

I was unable to read your "report" and "advice" article on the Support Conference of July 25th in 1997 in WP No. 174. You talk of factions and particular positions, of trying to get support into groups, which can undermine general strategy. However, as far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE

Delegates and strikers were driven away from the conference primarily by those who came representing their own political parties or being beggars and file groups as cover. It was a conference of the Workers Group. The July 25th conference was a conference of the Workers Group and several other groups, including the Workers Group. As far as we are aware, it is official. We are not aware of who are the miners, but we do not believe that we are an outcast.

STRIKE
In our last issue we referred to some of the press publicity surrounding the 'Hurricane' and 'Written in Flames', both published by Hooligan Press. Virtually all the national dailies did a piece on it. Just a few more fictional accounts came from the Sunday Telegraph, which backed up their story with several references from the Economic League, which presumably supplied the newspaper with some 'background information'.

Just as the newspapers got outraged because the 'Hurricane' (sic) people hide behind a box number, so we are bemused by the attempts by the Economic League to hide behind a front address in St Martin's Lane, central London, claiming their real headquarters are known to us, as also their premises where they process most of their print. They are also of most their current and more recent personnel - the people who 'hide' behind the anonymity to earn huge profits for a company whose business it is to spy on ordinary people who are trying to organise a better life for themselves.

We have decided to publish a partial list of some of their top people and their addresses as we believe these people have no right to protect the sort of work they do. (See list page 7).

In the Sunday Telegraph the Economic League claim that their movements are linked to "violent elements". This we find perplexing, as the real show for the League is absent. We are well aware, for example, of the role of the Economic League in the '70s coup conspiracy, as only hinted at by Peter Wright. Would they like to put us in more detail? Our information is not the least controllable.

The violent overthrow of government? Surely the Economic League and their front in M15 know more about it than we do.

N.B. The author of the Sunday Telegraph article was Jamie Dettner. We wonder if he is any relation to John Marshall, a director of the Economic League (see last issue, page 5) or whether indeed he is the same person.

A Times reporter, Howard Foster, appears determined to contact as many "Hurricane" people as he can. He seems to think they are on a "overthrow" or whatever we know it.

Apart from hard core crypto notes at the Hurricane box number address, he's also been going along to Housmans asking for it to be put in direct contact with the secretive publications group that runs the Hurricane press.

The fruits of Mr Foster's investigations to find the elusive people might well prove, with the enquires by clerks of the court trying to locate Hooligan Press and their outlets to serve their injunctions.

The Role of Bettaney

Michael Bettaney's incarceration was wholly for the authorities. He was a known dyad of his calibre and position had been around when the 'Spycatcher' scandal broke there would have been an even greater interest in the true facts behind Peter Wright's allegations being revealed.

Bettaney worked for Wright in M15's 'K' division during part of the denazification period and he would have been aware of some of the coup plans and the people behind them as the disinformation that M15 was championed.

Bettaney himself wasn't exactly immune to being conned with disinformation either: one of his moles was Tony Jones, the barrister who did the apparent roundabout revelation that the court false stories to his controller (until he was of no further use) and their order.

Bettaney, like Wright, grew disillusioned with the direction of M15's 'K' branch was getting too powerful and he began to see the real enemy of the state.

Toon, the head of 'F' branch (another subversion) had a far too much and his bosses allowed him to fall prey to him.

Passing on petty secrets he got 25 years. He revealed far less than Wright did. But Wright got more of a receive story than Wright's allegations being revealed.

By Peter Dunn

Hooligan Press

© 1983 Peter Dunn

Anarchists publish pirate 'Spycatcher'

PIRATED copies of Peter Wright's book Spycatcher, published by an underground anarchist group called Hooligan Press, are expected to go on sale on the streets of London soon. About 20,000 copies of the book, retailing at £2 (and painfully copied from an original text in a judge with spotting mistakes corrected in a proof chapter of page nine), carry a blurb asking the virtuous pages of the Hooligan Press as the tale of "the new and allowed of violent punk anarchism".

The blurb reads: "This book needs an introduction. Everyone knows about it but we aren't allowed to read it. The secret and geo-solden Law Lords have issued an injunction against its publication that the revolving innuendo Press from Murdoch to the oh so liberal Granada (sic) has been given the go-ahead to defy. All they say in their shining editorials is that if a law that should be illegal, then the 'Hooligan Press'.

Surely the Economic League and their front in M15 know more about it than we do? Little is known about Hooligan Press or those who run it. None of its members are as obscure a address, c/o BM Hur