zola on Socialism.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1922.

Weekly-PRICE ONE PENNY.

The Fascisti Menace.

THEY PREPARE A RISING IN ITALY. THEY DEMONSTRATE IN LONDON. THEIR ATROCITIES IN ITALY. HAMILTON FYFE WHITEWASHES THEM.

news came that the Fascisti the Government of Italy, Hamilton the "Daily Herald" editor, wrote a le describing the coup as a bloodless and saving:

"Whether the Italian Fascisti are emies to the point of view of the workers this country is not very clear. . . . It is ossible not to feel a certain amount of direction for this man [Mussolini, the soisti leader], who has organised what ne

November 4th, when the Fascisti were monstrate in London, the "Daily," under Hamilton Fyfe's editorship, this friendly and favourable and ent of their march:

BLACK SHIRTS" MARCH.

undreds of Fascisti at the Abbey To-day

Shortly after 3.30 this afternoon several andreds of Italian Fascisti, domiciled in adon, attired in the famous "black ris," will march to Westminster Abbey lay a wreath on the grave of the Un-

Our object is not anti-Labour, but used on a desire to eliminate class war, Mr. Pietro Scola, political secretary of ondon branch, to a 'Daily Herald' sentative yesterday. 'The terrible of terror instituted by the Socialists in during 1919-1920 has convinced every Italian that some rational form of poli-belief must be established.

Italians in London are very ignorant ir native country, and we are endea-ng to teach them the rudiments of alism.

We are also anxious to get better try, and a better Consulate.

course of the "Daily Herald" re-the demonstration on November 6th, Impressive scenes were witnessed in minster Abbey on Saturday afternoon, the London branch of the Fascisti, in ur of the Italian Armistice Day, laid a ath on the grave of the Unknown

' Daily Herald '' endeavours workers into unconsciousness of the to their organisations and their proto their organisations and their pro-which is being built up in this country, there be no mistake, Fascism is an tional menace. The White Terror has perienced to the full in Finland and y, but that was the White Terror of aristocracy. Fascism is the White of modern Capitalism. Its method of ng is based on the conditions of industrial society. industrial society

scisti Rising Expected in Bavaria

some time since Mussolini visited the l Empires to extend the Fascisti ation there. Now the German Social rat organ, "Vorwaerts," declares Fascist rising is about to break out in a. The "Vorwaerts" says that Cania. The "Vorwaerts" says that Cap-Erhardt and General Luttwitz are sing the rising under the assumed names of Lorenz and Eichmann.

"The situation in Bayaria is serious, as the Reich Government should know. Government is in possession of information. We expect that it will now act."

But the Government will not act; it will courage the Fascisti, as the Government of Italy has done

" Daily Telegraph

"It has long been no secret that Bavaria is quite prepared for a development such as has just taken place in Italy. The only open question was when the blow was to be . Mussolini's success has naturally had an inflammatory effect."

The British ruling classes have hastened to hold out the hand of welcome to the Fascisti who have won their way to power in Italy by rapine and murder.

British Church and State Welcome Fascisti.

When the Fascisti entered Westminster Abbey last Saturday, Bishop Ryle, the Dean of the Abbey, ordered the vergers to clear a passage for them through the ranks of inpassage for them through the ranks of moffensive British citizens who were there, and welcomed them to the Abbey, saying they were welcome, as they came to lay a wreath on the grave of an unknown British warrior, and he thanked them. The Fascisti represented a great movement that had recently taken place in Italy, and which had produces a change of Government. They wished the great country of Italy all prosperity and happiness in the future, and hoped that the new Government of the Fascisti would be identified with the prevalence of law and order.

Bonar Law, the new Prime Minister, has also entered into cordial relations with the Fascisti Government, without any hint of refusal to recognise it as constitutional, though with only twenty members in the Italian Parliament it nevertheless seized power by liament it nevertheless seized power by terrorism and armed force. Soviet Russia is terrorism and armed torce. Soviet Russia is still supposed to be beyond the pale because its Government was established by force! These hypocrites: these hypocrites!

Fascisti Government Policy.

It was a matter of course that the Fascist Government would be reactionary, and every announcement of its policy reveals fresh movements in reaction. The "Times" correspondent says the Italian State railways and telephone and telegraph services will be handed over to private enterprise; and, though hitherto Italians have feared to put their country under foreign control, every effort will now be made to secure foreign and expecially American capital, experiently and especially American capital, even probably in such services as electrification, railways, telephone, telegraph, etc.

In spite of the fact that the Capitalist Press here is pretending the Fascisti have achieved a bloodless revolution, some accounts of their atrocities creep through the censor-ship. Thus on November 1st the "Daily Telegraph" reports that the Fascisti killed seven Communists and wounded forty in the Lorenzo quarter of Rome. The Daily Herald" put the number as eight killed and The "Telegraph" of November 1st further reports:

"At Turin the Socialist co-operative headquarters were burnt, and in the conflict headquarters were burnt, and in the conflict one man was killed. A large force of Fascisti encamped outside the town. At Padua they broke into the house of the former Minister, Signor Alessio, raided the library, At Padua and committed some damage. In Brescia there were some encounters with Com-munists, and three men were wounded. In Milan some short skirmishes took place without any serious results, and the same without any serious ...
thing happened in Genoa.''
thing happened in Genoa.'' Correspondent on Pascist

The "New York Herald" correspondent on November 1st wired regarding the Fascist entry into Rome:

"The reverse side of the medal is less pleasant to contemplate. The crowds yesterday (Tuesday) were made up entirely of citizens of the higher class, and even amid the most frenzied cheering one felt the sullen silence of the absent workers. That all is not well is shown by despatches from the provinces to-day, showing that conflicts between Fascisti and Socialists have been renewed in many towns of the North, despite Mussolini's strict orders against further Fascist outrages Labour clubs are being destroyed, Socialists and Communists hunted down and maltreated, and the Milan offices of the Socialist organ, "Avanti," have been burnt for the third time.

". . A strict Press censorship has been established, barring all comment on been established, barring all comment on the internal situation and too complete statement of facts. With the exception of the Fascist newspapers, only two journals appeared in Rome yesterday and to-day. The influential Milan dally, "Correre della Sera," after being suppressed last week-end, is reappearing with the special permission of Signor Mussolini, but with all comment excluded."

The "Daily Herald" correspondent in Vienna seems to have learnt more about the facts than the various correspondents in Italy itself have revealed. He declares that, according to reports he has received, terrible conflicts have taken place in Italy, and the Fascisti have wounded thousands of workers, and have devastated workers' homes. Many Communist and Socialist members of Parliacommunist and Socialist memoers of Parliament, he says, are imprisoned, and the homes of Turati, Treves, Prampolini and Daragona have been surrounded by armed Fascisti, and there are "strange rumours concerning the fate of Turati and Treves." The Home of the Socialist M.P. Musatti has been sacked Sardalli has also suffered, and his wife and Sardalli has also suffered, and his wife and Sardelli has also suffered, and his wife and children have been ill-treated. Bombacci's secretary was seized by Fascisti, who shaved his head and beard, painted the Italian national colours on his head, and dragged

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION.

A blue mark in this space indicates that your subscription is now due.

The high cost of production of the paper necessitates prompt payment

"Oh! so you see the Bourse? How queer it looks from here!"

... "When are you going to sweep all that away with a kick?"

Sigismond shrugged his shoulders. You are demolishing yourself tast enough.

Then, little by little, he became animated, overflowing with the subject he was full of. A proselytising spirit launched him, at the slightest word, into an exposition of his system. Yes, yes, you are working for us without suspecting it," said he. a few usurpers who expropriate the mass of the people, and when you have gorged your-selves we shall only have to expropriate you n our turn. Every monopoly, every phase of centralisation, leads to collectivism. You are setting us a practical example, in the same patches of land, the large producers devouring the petty home industries, the great financial establishments and great stores killing all competition, and battering on the ruin of the little banks and the little shops, are slowly but surely leading towards the new social state. We are waiting for everything to crack, for the existing method of produc-tion to end in the intolerable disorder which will be its ultimate consequence. Thus the bourgeois and the peasants themselves will

Staccard, feeling interested, looked at him with a vague anxiety, although he took him for a madman. "But come, explain to me, what is this collectivism of yours?"

Collectivism is the transformation of private capital, living by the struggle of competition, into a unitary social capital, exploited by the labour of all. Imagine a in which the instruments of society will be the property of all, in which everybody will work according to his intelligence and strength, and in which the products of this social co-operation will be distributed to each in proportion to his effort? There can be nothing more simple, eh? Common production in the factories, yards and workshops of the nation! Then an exchange, a payment in kind! If there should be over-production, the surplus will be lodged in public warefrom which it will be taken to fill up any deficits that may arise. One will have to strike a balance; and this, like one blow of the axe, will fell the rotten tree. No more competition, no more private capital, and, therefore, no more "business" of any kind—neither commerce, nor markets, nor Bourses. The idea of profit will thenceforth have no meaning. The sources of speculaof incomes acquired without work, will

'Uh! oh!" interrupted Saccard, "that would change many people's habits, and no mistake! But what would you do with those who have incomes to-day? Gundermann, for instance, would you take away his milliard?"

"N t at all; we are not robbers. We should redeem his milliard, all his shares, debentures, and State bonds, with certificates of enjoyment divided into annuities. And agine the immense capital thus re placed by an overwhelming wealth of articles consumption; in less than a century your Gundermann's descendants would, like other citizens, be reduced to personal labour; the annuities would finally become exhausted. and they would not have been able to capitalise their forced economies, the overplus of their overwhelming supply of articles of conumption, even admitting that the right of pheritance should be left untouched. I tell ou that this would at one stroke sweep away not only individual enterprises, companies, syndicates, and so forth, but also all the indirect sources of income, all systems of credit, loans, rentals, and so on. Nothing but labour would be left as a measure of value.

Meyer '' and he case on to say that he would be relation of the relation ship between employer and employed, writes Mr. C. F. G. Masterman in the "Daily News" and he case on to say that he would be relation of the relation ship between employer and employed. Wages would naturally be suppressed, for in News," and he goes on to say that he would the present capitalistic system they are never not expound, however much convinced equivalent to the exact product of labour; but at the utmost represent no more than is strictly necessary for the labourer's daily maintenance. And it must be admitted that the existing system alone is guilty in the natter, that the most honest employer is forced to follow the stern law to live We have to destroy our entire social system. Ah! just think of it, Gundermann stifling under the burden of his certificates of enjoyment, his heirs unable to consume everything, obliged to give to others, and to take up the pick or the chisel, like other comrades!

Thereupon Sigismond burst into a goodnatured laugh, like a child at play, still standing by the window, with his eyes fixed on the Bourse, where swarmed the black anthill of speculation. A burning flush was rising to his cheeks; he had no other amusement than to picture in this wise the comical ironies of to-morrow's justice.

Saccard's uneasiness had increased. Suppose this wide-awake dreamer were, after all speaking the truth. Suppose he had divined the future. He explained things that seemed very clear and sensible. "Bah!" muttered Saccard, as though to reassure himself, "all that won't happen next year.

Certainly not," rejoined the young man, again becoming serious and weary. "We are in the transition period, the period of agitation. There will, perhaps, be revolu-tionary violences; they are often inevitable. But the exaggerations and outbursts are temporary. Oh! I do not conceal the great immediate difficulties. All this future that I dream of seems impossible. It is difficult to give people a reasonable idea of this future the society of just labour, whose morals will be so different to ours. It is like another world in another planet. And then, it must be confessed, the scheme of reorganisation is not ready; we are still hunting for it. I, who now scarcely sleep at all, ex haust my nights in searching. For instance it is certain that our adversaries can say to 'If things are as they are, it is because the logic of human actions has made them so Hence, what a task to take the river back to its source and direct it into another valley The existing social system certainly owes its centuries of prosperity to the individualist principle, which emulation and personal interest endow with a fertility of production that is ever being renewed. Will collectivism ever attain to such fertility, and by what means are we to stimulate the productive functions of the workman when the idea of profit shall have been destroyed? There, to my mind, lies the doubt, the anguish, the weak point over which we must fight, if we wish the victory of Socialism to be some day won. But we shall conquer, because we are Justice. There! You see that building in front of you? You see it?'

"The Bourse," cried Saccard, "why, yes, of course I see it.

Well, it would be stupid to blow it up, because it would be rebuilt. Only I predict to you that it will go up of itself when the State shall have expropriated it, and have become the sole universal bank of the nation; and, who knows? and perhaps it will then serve as a public warehouse for our surplus wealth, as one of the store-houses where our grandchildren will find the necessary supply of luxury for their days of festivity

From the novel "Money," obtainable from me "Dreadnought" Bookshop, 5/-. the

TOWARDS COMMUNISM.

"I doubt if the country demands at the moment any large modification of the relation-rightness, any particular scheme in the of a fiercely contested election, when the the people are less concerned with ho rule than with how to live

Mr. Masterman belongs to the Radical tion of the Liberal Party, but he doesn't the question of the relationship of employed and employed of much importance moment. Yet the fact that he menti matter at all would indicate that a gro number of people are very deeply cone with the relationship, which is the cr the ethical and ecor increasing number of people are so con

No decent, self-respecting man can as a permanent condition the economic that to-day rests in the hands of people to make or mar the lives o The true man desires indepe He desires to contribute his quota of knowledge to the production and use of the world's wealth. He is ake his share of responsibility. As he denies the right of another to mak who hold power because of their sition, their ingenuity in comf unnatural and immoral code that pla tion and power in the hands of those w most easily stifle their conscience, or circumstances have favoured

He asks not for charity. He asks not t he himself shall have a regular and contively fair standard of living while so are in various grades of starvation and comfort. He asks no privileges wha Because he claims for himself the inalie right to true freedom, to be treated as a possessing intelligence and human pathies, he desires to grant an equal ris every fellow human being. His charter i right to claim adequate food, clothing, si culture, leisure and pleasure, to give the best he is capable of to the commun which he lives, recognising that he v in a position to render greater and efficient service in so far as his legit rights, which he extends to every h being, are conceded.

His recognition of human brotherhood cludes any conception of employer and ployee relationship, which is the hall-ma Capitalism. While he welcomes the inc ng recognition of the trend of events to ceal equality, he extends to those privileged economic positions an inv that they shall prove their sincerity linquishing their privileges and de-taking sides in the movement to acc the process of eliminating classes. yet conscious fellow-worker he asks a retion of the increasing class war, its evil withdrawal of proletarian support to

As an American writer says:

The past is the masters', the fu belongs to Labour. All it has to do organise, unite, co-operate, and the wor that is in it are theirs. Nothing but ack of interest and idiotic lack of un in the way of Labour being the arbi and owner of the earth. active, organised, and ready to fight last ditch, but Labour has the numbers and ability; but will it use them? Time will answer that question.

What time will settle is being ar here and now, as individuals accept the ciples of Communism. The ways to munism are many. There is no one munism are many. There is no road. But the road is made cleared light of the ideal being increasingly preby Communists here and now; and the munist Life Movement indicates a way.

ROSA LUXEMBURG'S LETTERS FROM PRISON.

Translated by M. Campbell.

(Continued.) Wronke, end of May, 1917. scha,-Do you know where I am am writing you this letter? In the I have dragged out a little table for nd I am now seated hidden between ubs. On my right the yellow ornarrant, smelling like cloves; on my vet hedge; overhead a Norwegian nd a young slender chestnut tree are g out to each other their broad green nd in front of me the big, white ate and serious, is gently making g noise with its white leaves. On the are dancing with little rings of shine, and now and then from the ed foliage a drop of water falls upon nd face. There is a service going prison chapel: the dull music of with the rustling of the trees and thorus of the birds, who are all in a to-day; the cuckoo is calling a long How grand it is, how happy I am els like mid-summer's day already toxication; do you know the scene Meistersinger, the scene where gaily clad people come on clapping Midsummer Day! Midsummer suddenly start to dance a Buder-tz. What a lot happened to me I must tell you all about it. In ng I found a fine specimen of onius on the bathroom window, ontly been in there a day or two and had flapped against the hard ane until it was dead tired; a weak of its wings was the only sign that of yet quite extinct. On noticing tot yet quite extinct. On noticing d myself again, trembling the while atience, climbed up to the window, at hold of it with both hands. It sist at all, and I thought it was lead. I placed it near me on the il, so as to let it come round and ife's little weak flame began to it remained quite motionless one or two flowers in full bloom i feelers, so that it would have some feed on. Just at that moment a an singing outside the window, and clearly, and with such bravado. walls resounded with its notes; in-y I said out loud: "Listen how e bird is singing; surely that ought that little bit of life come back to had to laugh at myself for giving dead bombyx this talking-to, and myself: idle words! ur the little creature had recovered first to shift about here and there, lly slowly flew away! How glad 1 account of this rescue! It was quite afternoon I went, of course, out again garden, where my hours are 8 a.m. clock (when we are called in to and again from 3 to 6. I was waite sun. I had the feeling yesterday he must show himself. But he did not self, and I became melancholy. nd and round the garden, and on eeze getting up I saw something re-the over-ripened catkins of the ar were being tossed about, and seed was being scattered in all filling the air like snowflakes and ground and all the yard; it proa ghostlike effect, the way the was fluttering all about! ar blossoms later than all the other rs, and thanks to the abundance aination it spreads to a great dise striplings shooting up like of all the crevices in the wall and

Then at six o'clock I was, as usual, locked in again, sat dejectedly at the window with a sense of heavy gloom preying on my mind—the air being very close—and gazed up above, where swallows at a dizzy height were darting about beneath the white fleecy clouds that were thrown against a pastel-blue ground, and with the pivouetting of their pointed wings it seemed as if the air were being cut with scissors. Soon, however, the sky grew dark, it all became dead still, and a storm broke loose with a heavy downpour of rain and two deafening peels of thunder which made everything rattle. This was followed by a sight that I shall never forget. The storm had soon passed over and beyond, the sky became a flat monotonous grey, a flat, dreary, uncanny evening suddenly enveloped the earth; it was as if thick grey veils were hanging down; the rain pattered quite softly and monotonously on the leaves, the lightning cut into the leaden grey with its purple-red flashes one above the other, and a distant rumbling of the thunder came rolling up again and again like the last weakening breakers on the sands. And in the midst of all this uncanny atmosphere on the maple outside my window the nightingale suddenly burst into song! In the midst of all the rain, whilst the lightning was still flashing and the thunder rumbling, it warbled away like a clear-ringing

BEST REPORT COMPETITION.

For the best report on working-class additions sent in from each of the following districts a prize of four books will be given:

(a) A mining district.

(b) An engineering district. (c) A textile district.

(d) A ship-building district.

(e) An agricultural district. (f) Any London district.

The books to be given to each of the six prize-winners are Kropotkin's Conquest of Bread; Bishop Brown's Christianism or Communism; Sylvia Pankhurst's Soviet Russia as I Saw It, and Writ on Cold Slate.

It seemed as though it were in an ecstasy, as though possessed, wanting to drown the noise of the thunder and to brighten up the close of day. I have never heard any-thing more beautiful. Its song trilling against Its song trilling against the background of a sky alternating leaden and purple hues produced the impression of scintillating silver tinsel. That was so mysterious, so inexplicably beautiful that involuntarily I found myself repeating the last stanza of that poem by Goethe: "Oh weret thou thou there!

Always your ROSA.

Wronke, June 1st, 1917. . I happen to have a good general know-ledge of orchids. For several days I made a diligent study of them in the wonderful hothouse in Frankfort-on-the-Maine, where a whole department is allotted to them. was whilst my case was up for trial, the time I received a year's imprisonment. I find they possess in their delicate gracefulness, and in their fantastic and unnatural forms unnatural forms something very sophisticated, exquisite, decadent. They remind me of the bejewelled and powdered marchioness of the Roccoo period. I admire them but with an inner aversion and a certain amount of disquiet, as my nature does anything that is at all deca-dent and perverse. I take much more plea-sure, for instance, in the simple dandelion that has so much sunshine in its colouring, and which has this of me in it: that it opens out in thankfulness to sunshine, but shyly closes up again at the slightest shadow. What wonderful days and nights we are now having! Yesterday an indescribable charm lay upon everything. For a long time after sunset the sky was painted with a brilliant opal colour crossed with bands of an toil, brusquely wiped his brush so as to leave it at peace with himself. A slight sultriness that had come with the storm was now hanging about, a tension that seemed to clutch at the heart; the shrubs became complete motionless. Nothing more was heard of the nightingale, but the indefatigable robin with its little red breast was still hopping about among the branches and uttering notes. Everything seemed to be waiting for something. I stood at the window and waited likewise, God knows what for. After the cell doors are bolted at 6 o'clock I have positively nothing more bolted. nothing more between heaven and earth to wait for

(To be continued.)

KARL MARX ON RUSSIAN DEVELOPMENT.

An Extract from the "Coming of Socialism,"

by Lucien Desinieres.

The brilliant author of "Capital" showed masterly fashion that the natural growth of the capitalist order would generate the economic factors and the proletarian forces which would lead to the destruction of Capitalism. But he never said that this development could not be hastened by the revolument could not be nastened by the revolutionary activity of a resolute proletariat.

Marx's ideas on this question will not be found in "Capital," nor in any of his well-known works. They may be read in a "Letter Dealing with the Economic Development of Russia." which was published in the ment of Russia," which was published in the Mouvement Socialiste" of May 24th, 1902.

The ideas expounded by Marx in the first volume of "Capital" had aroused lively controversy. One of the many commentators, the Russian writer Mihailovsky, had imagined that the historical sketch of capitalist production was to be regarded as historico-philosophical theory of universal application. He held, therefore, that in Marx's opinion every nation, and notably Russia, would, in the course of its historical development, inevitably have to pass through a capitalist phase.

Many Socialists are still of this opinion to-day. But Marx protested against any such to-day. But Marx protested against any such interpretation of his teachings. He refused to admit that readers had any right to "metamorphose my sketch of the genesis of Capitalism in Western Europe into a historico-philosophical theory of the general development of Capitalism, a development which all nations must inavitable undergo."

which all nations must inevitably undergo."

'Far from this,' he wrote, "it is certain that events striking in their analogy, but taking place in different historic environments, lead to utterly divergent results.'

He recalls, for example, that the free peasants of ancient Rome, when they had been expropriated, did not become wage workers, but parasitic idlers, and that side by side with this development there was evolved a system of preduction based not on Capitalian but of production based not on Capitalism, but on slave holdings. If we wish, he explained, to find a key to evolutionary phenomena, we shall have first to study separately the evolution of such people, and then proceed to comparisons with others. "We shall never arrive at an understanding with the master-key of a historico-philosophical theory, whose supreme virtue is to be supra-historical."

Applying these principles to the conditions that obtained in Russia when the close of the nineteenth century was approaching, conditions which, he tells us, he had continued to study for years after he had learned Russian, Marx declares succinctly that if Russia continues the destruction of agrarian Communism in favour of capitalist institutions: "She will lose the most splendid opportunity which History has Ever Offered a Nation."

. . Let us then shake off the dis-heartening suggestions of a fatalism which Marx was the first to condemn, a fatalism which preaches resignation and passivity in a period when the old world is convulsed, and when so admirable a field for activity is consequently being opened to human energy.-

indefinite hue just like a big palette across which the painter had, after a busy day of nought "Bookshop 1". Bookshop 1"

Workers Dreadmought

Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST.

All Matter for Publication to be Addressed to the Editor Business Communications to the Manager:
Workers' Breadnought, 152, Freet Street, London, E.C.4 TELEPHONE: CENTRAL 7240, SUBSCRIPTION:

THREE MONTHS (13 weeks) ... Post Free 1/74
Six Months (26 weeks) ... , , , 3/3
ONE YEAR (52 weeks) ... , , , 6/6

Vol. IX. No. 35. Saturday, Nov. 11, 1922.

The Outlook.

FASCISTI v. BOLSHEVIKI. BONAR LAW AND MUSSOLINI.

Bonar Law, in addressing a meeting for men only in Drury Lane the other day, received a message from the new head of the Italian Government, a friendly message, and I need not say that I have replied n behalf of this country reciprocating that friendly message.'

How different is the reception of the Reutionary Fascisti by the British Governthat which the British Government corded the revolutionary Bolsheviki. Fascisti have seized power by force, but there is no sanctimonious talk from our rulers about the violation of democracy in this case.

Why this difference? It is that the Russian Revolution was a menace to Capitalism, whilst the Fascisti Revolution is a support to and a ruthless attack upon the working

THE TURKISH QUESTION AND THE BONAR LAW GOVERNMENT.

As we indicated when the Bonar Law Conservatives caused the resignation of Lloyd George, the split in the Coalition mainly hinged upon foreign policy. The Bonar Law faction is for maintaining the French alliance, whilst Lloyd George veers towards Gerany, and is inclined towards a policy of independent temporising with all the Powers in If French and British Capitalism make up their differences in the Near East, will only be by a bargain to satisfy their greed of conquest at the expense of Turkey.
The Secret Treaties made by the Allies during the late war, to carve up numerous territories and distribute them amongst the Allies, show

The question at issue is whether, if France and Britain arrive at a bargain, they will and Britain arrive at a bargain, they will immediately push on to secure its fulfilment at Turkey's expense, or will hold their hands for a time. If they act immediately, that

Meanwhile, the Kemalist Turks are going boldly ahead. They are actually preparing to raise a conscript army for themselves in Thrace, just restored to them. They have deposed the old Sultan and announced they will presently depose him also from the Kalihave established one of their he eyes of the British, and it is interesting observe that the Constantinople police without waiting for official or Parliamentary instructions, declared themselves the servants of the Kemalists. The Kemalists have de-clared the nullity of the Treaty of Sevres, which the Allies made with the Government of the Sultan, and have repudiated all other engagements made by the Sultan.

The Straits.

be notified beforehand of the proposed entry into any Turkish harbour of any warship, of the name, character, and strength of its

by daylight, and one at a time;
(3) That there should be no night cruising by warships in Turkish territorial

(4) The Turkish authorities should be notified in advance of, and their consent obtained to, the landing of any parties

If the Allies were out for national liberty and peace, they would accept these proposals; but since they are not, they naturally reject them.

Hitherto the French have been friendly to the Kemalists. If Bonar Law can make a bargain with France, that friendship may be broken, and we may presently see the French and British invading Turkey to put down the Kemalists and re-establish the Government of the Sultan, which they attacked during the war. At the same time they will endeavour to strip Turkey of much territory and to enforce all sorts of coercive conditions.

The Fascisti Government in Italy is likely to join in any attack on Turkey, for those whose puppets the "Black Shirt" rank and file fighters are, favour an aggressive imperialist policy. Thousands of Fascist who perialist policy. Thousands of Fascisti who have shed the blood of their Italian fellowvorkers, are likely to lose their lives in im-

SOCIALISM AND THE KEMALISTS.

Mustapha Kemal has informed Frederick Kuh, of Vienna, that "the new Turkisn State will be governed by a system not far removed from Socialism." It is regrettable that the term Socialism is now so often taken in vain that many people are quite ignorant as to what Socialism is. We have no illusions regarding the Socialism of Kemal's Government. It is the outcome of a military nationalist movement, and not of a Socialist and proletarian movement. Kemal also informed Frederick Kuh that the Kemalist relations with Russia were "founded upon unchangeable friendship."

The present Russian Government is un doubtedly endeavouring to draw into its orbit all the Eastern nations which suffer under the domination of Western, and especially of British, Capitalist domination. This movement towards Eastern consolidation is the only force tending to bridge over the growing rivalry of France and Britain. Should France join the Eastern combination against Britain the British Empire would have to fight a life and death struggle

In the break-up of Capitalism the great Empires must disappear as a matter course. The prospect of such a struggle does not dismay us in the slightest. We regret the sufferings of those who will be the pawns of the next great war, whether it be between East and West, or between a combination which France will be allied with the East and opposed to Britain. We call to those who would be the victims of such strife to prevent another great Capitalist war by the

THE ELECTIONS.

Whilst the Fascisti and the Kemalists have been giving the world grim evidence of the powerlessness of Parliaments, the elections ere have proceeded.

Reasons of the Labour Party's Defeats.

The Labour Party has lost heavily in the Local Government elections. That was to be expected: it is in accordance with predictions made in these columns. Why has the Labour Party suffered losses? Why did we predict those losses? How is it that the Labour Party, when it at last secured majorities on a substantial number of Councils, was not able to earn the enthusiastic gratitude of

The Straits.

The answer is simple: the Labour majorifor the employees of small business, ties had only the power to administer the laws passed by Parliament, and were tangle.

(1) That the Turkish Government should the strait of the employees of small business, ties had only the power to administer the laws passed by Parliament, and were tangle.

(2) The answer is simple: the Labour majorities had only the power to administer the laws passed by Parliament, and were tangle.

(3) The answer is simple: the Labour majorities had only the power to administer the laws passed by Parliament, and were tangle.

(4) The third of the employees of small business, to suffered grievously in this period depression; they feel their prospects capped in every direction by the conditions capitalist society. When the Labour motion, their tenure of service majorities sought to give more generous assistance to the unemployed and the destitute poor, they increased the burden of the poor

(2) That such warships should only enter wage earner and small shopkeeper make bare living, and the same result follows payment of better wages to

A Labour majority in Parliament itself faced with similar problems, to overthrow Capitalism. If the La rnment imposes a capital levy or in the income tax, the landlords and rents and prices, refraining from r supplying inferior goods and service the private landlord, the private 1 turer and importer who to-day needs of the people and makes pro ernment interference, or by the co purse, we find that our gas burns b overcrowding and much delay.

If the Labour Government should lay regulations governing the quality and ciency of supply, then it must em numerable inspectors to enforce the tions and the burden of the mainte these parasitic workers must be paid workers in increased prices, lower food, clothes, housing, etc., whice spectors and their families require.

If the Labour Government, by re inspection, and punishment, should the position that the capitalist could that his power and luxury were subston the burden of taxation to someone reduced, then the capitalist class wo to bribery of electors and of official resistance, sabotage, and finally open This has been shown again and aga own time. Indeed, there will pres not a country in Europe which has no enced civil war by the revolting capit

Whilst private enterprise is in the position of controlling all the needs vices of the community, the suppl that private enterprise will allow its plucked of its profits with a ruthle Moreover, the enormous amount with buying and sellng, insuring, adve financing, and the conditions of com Capitalism, so greatly limit the produ the necessities of life that the man remain poor

WILL THE TORIES GET IN?

The great losses of the Labor the municipal elections, and the spread poverty of the people, make ends meet, grasp at any hoj may reduce the rates and put a further expenditure. When suffering under severe economic I are apt to turn thus to reaction wh we cannot make ends meet: we ca anything to improve the lot of other ever bad their plight may be," is the ing cry of hard-pressed people. It is to our fellow-creatures.

Will the same influence operate General Election? To a large extent duced Government expenditure, hi to leave things alone, to refrain from ing the business man by taxation, reg or appeals to his patriotism, seems v people who are working on their own whether it be in a big or a small the unawakened worker, just as it is that his employer. The unawakened worker es not know there is something infinitely er than good trade—the destruction of than good trade—the talism and wage slavery. The Labour ty does not seek to enlighten the workers: lso repeats the parrot-cry: "Recovery of traign markets." If it is agreed that great hope of the workers employed and oyed lies in the improvement of trade leaders tell us, the shrewd, hardss man's Government will be more ssful in that direction than a body of Union officials. Therefore the worker thinks as Mr. Clynes thinks about the fry and its future, will be apt to vote for

The Labour Party may gain something ough the splitting of the votes amongst the parties; but the Parliamentary election Government expenditure

The Capital Levy.

he Labour Party in this election is only ing forward one definite proposal which be regarded as an innovation: the capital Mr. Pethick Lawrence, though not the inator of the idea, has been the pioneer has induced the Labour Party to take made the subject of referendum in izerland on December 3rd. The Swiss alist Party there has presented an initia-petition for it under the law of Initia-and Referendum. Therefore the entire orate will vote as to whether the capital shall become law. The Swiss proposal drastic than that of the British Labour rty, which proposes a 5 per cent. levy on ital over £5,000. The Swiss proposal is or cent. on fortunes as low as 50,000 frs., per cent. on capital between 50,000 and 0,000 frs., graduated up to 60 per cent. on omes of 3,000,000 frs.

This one distinctive point in the Labour rty proposal, the capital levy, has met with eluge of opposition from the other Parlia-tary parties. That was to be expected; such is Parliamentary Party warfare. Labour Party has flinched a little under rod of criticism. Messrs. Clynes and derson have explained that "the Labour is not wedded to the idea of a levy or Mr. Clynes has protested that the me "would have to be considered and inistered carefully in order to cause the Mr. Thomas has spoken even more recommend the scheme to the people to protect themselves from criticism, the our leaders continually protest that Mr. ar Law, the Tory Premier, some time declared himself in favour of a capital Mr. Clynes, in a letter to the mes, says:

To have to suffer a little transference personal property to the State, with the rtainty that that property would speedily to private owners again, is a small nd petty thing compared with the noble and valiant sacrifice of life which the ation demanded when it was physically in

We, of course, are opposed to the view of e war expressed by Mr. Clynes in that pasge; but his characterisation of the capital seems to us entirely apt. We agree it merely means "a little transference personal property to the State, with the ainty that that property would speedily w to the private owners again.

That is precisely why, like Mr. Clynes, we gard the capital levy scheme as "a small be solved petty thing," which will play no part in treasure. emancipation of the people from economic ojection and want.

The "Plebs" on Anti-Parliamentarians. The "Plebs" has resurrected a forgotten article by Karl Mary written in 1873 for an Italian year-book, and in an introductory note revolutionaries (Bakuninists), who at that time, based their cry 'No Political Action!' on their 'Master' Proudhon. They correspond almost exactly to the group censured by Lenin as Infantile Leftists."

Marx in this article misrepresented Proud- look forward to a loneliness from which she hon. We will, however, quote a few pas-sages from the article of Marx, in order that law. To some this may appear a harsh, and ur readers may observe how totally inapplicable they are to the Communist workers. Party, Fourth International, one of the main objects of which is to build up the Soviets in the workshops, in order that they others who have more or less boldly revealed others who have more or less boldly revealed the industries and maintain them

Says Marx in the article in question:

"Quoth Proudhon: 'The authorities who had to shoot down the miners of Rivesacrifice his feelings as a father that he might fulfil his duties as a consul. Nor has posterity ventured to condemn Brutus

No worker will be able to remember any THE REWARD OF INTELLIGENCE. occasion on which a capitalist employer has hesitated to sacrifice his men for the sake of his own interests. The hourgeous e conspicuous Brutuses! But let Proudhon speak once more:

any egress from its so-called social debasecombinations which marshal the workers as under the impression that the strictures of Marx under this head are truly applicable to capitalists got the rest. the Communist Workers' movement, we recommend him to take a serious course of study in order to purge himself of error.

The "The Workers' Dreadnought" is the "Plebs" exchange list; therefore, the extreme ignorance of the Plebs editor is in excusable. Apparently he has not read the "The Workers' Dreadnought" is on the "Plebs" exchange list; therefore, the extreme ignorance of the Plebs editor is in excusable. Apparently he has not read Lenin's "Infantile Sickness," to which he refers.

A NOVELIST AND POLITICS.

An actor or a novelist is always sure of obtaining publicity for his or her political views. Therefore, Sir Hall Caine is sure of a column in the "Times" when he appeals to the Labour Party "to drop all further discussion of economic ways and means of achieving the objects they desire, and to concentrate on the one great human issue which confronts the nation—the right of the poor to live, to work, and to be honest." How the poor are to secure such rights without touching upon economic matters the worthy novelist fails to explain. Perhaps he does both realise the poor are so numerous that ing upon economic matters the worthy novelist fails to explain. Perhaps he does

MORE MARRIAGE LAW MUDDLES

Speaking with great deliberation, Lord Birkenhead concluded: "It is evident that the arguments which I have addressed to your lordships will result, if effect is given to them, in leaving Mrs. Rutherford bound in matri-mony. It is an unfortunate circumstance mony. It is an unfortunate circumstance that she should thus be tied for life to a dangerous, violent, and homicidal lunatic after having for many years suffered, both in body and spirit, from his unfaithfulness and by Lenin as Infantile Leftists."

We do not wish to muck-rake amongst old forgotten controversies, even so far as to discuss whether Marx dealt fairly with the Bakuninists, in seeking to associate their ideas with those of Proudhon; nor will we debate whether those of Proudhon; nor will we debate whether those of Proudhon; nor will we debate whether the selection of the second even an inhumane result; but such, my lords, riage, have written in vain, so far as the mass of people are concerned. Another awful evidence of that fact is the Thompson murder de-Gier were in an unhappy position. But case, in which it was evidently the mere they behaved like the elder Brutus when, dread of "what people would say" that for the safety of the republic, he nad to kept a childless woman earning a comfortable

A large firm of agricultural implement manufacturers has been experimenting for some years with a seed drill for sowing small seeds. Much difficulty was experienced in designing a machine that could be adjusted "No, we can just as little claim that there is a right of combination, as that there is a right to practise blackmail, a "arght to practise blackmail" arght to practise blackmail, a "arght to practise blackmail" arght to practise blackmail a "arght to practise blackmail" arght to pract there is a right to practise blackmail, a right to cheat, or to steal, a right to commit be adjusted to vary the width of the rows, right to cheat, or to steal, a right to commit incest or adultery.'

"We must certainly affirm that there is the right to be an ass. . . .

"In order to close for the working class"

"In order to c labourer, after trying the machine for a day Proudhon condemns the Labour or two, discovered a way in which the renations which marshal the workers as a class hostile to the respectable category of factory owners, middlemen, bourgeois, etc., who for their part, like Proudhon, unquestionably prefer measures of State police to the class struggle."

If the editor of the "Plebs" is really on the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the estimators of the creatives of the impression that the estimators of the market. The working inventor recovered to the class of the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the estimators of the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the estimators of the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the estimators of the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the estimators of the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the company developed the idea, and the improved seed drill was purely the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed the idea, and the impression that the company developed ing upon economic matters the worthy novelist fails to explain. Perhaps he does not realise the poor are so numerous that they cannot be dealt with by a little picturesque almsgiving, such as the novelists are always able to arrange in their stories, without making anyone a penny the poorer. Unfortunately, in real life the problem cannot even be solved by a voyage to discover a hidden treasure.

RECEIVED FOR REVIEW.

Meanwhile, is it not a son of Sir Hall Caine who is standing as an Independent Conservative?

PROLETARIAN SCHOOLS.

OUR RULERS. By Tom Anderson.

We are now in the throes of a great panoramic display of dopeing. David has gone out—or, rather, he has been forced to toe the line. Bonar, his pal up to a point, has come in; and Labour is monkeying between the two of them. Bonar has been to Glasgow, and he has told his story—a quite common old wife's tale of economy, stability, and the like. He made a weak suggestion of getting work, a little work, but in time a lot of work, and he big meeting of 5,000 persons was pleased Work, reduction of the income tax, and work for the slaves. That is very good. We all like work! You would think we could eat work, drink work, and sleep work. It is a wonderful thing, work; and still none of these great men do any actual work. They only talk about it to the people who like work; and the only people who like work are the It is very sad, yet true, that the slaves think more of work than of how they are exploited in their work. It seems that it ust be so, or otherwise we would not have

After Bonar left our city David came. He wonderful little man, is David, some b. 5½ in. high, and a little bit shammy in he left leg; he wears his hair rather long, and is a little bit foppish in his gestures.

David also made a speech in the same hall as Bonar, and it was packed to overflowing. They say that David is a wizard. I think that is a mistake; he is more of a "Uriah," playing his cards with that double purpose which

When David comes to Glasgow he must say omething new, or at least attempt something which sounds like new. He said there was snow on the Cheviots, and the audience applauded. That is not new. There has been snow on the Chviots for fully a million years. But David said it, and that was quite suffi-cient. He said there were "rocks ahead, clouds above and below "—stories that might overwhelm us. There was that hidden danger, if we did not pull together; it would come upon us and destroy, and the fault would be entirely that of Bonar and his friends. The oig meeting at this point was moved to tears not real tears, just tears the same as the principal actors. "Why," he exclaimed in a pasonate gesture, "why this work? Do they know? Have they ever considered where they may land us? What, ladies and gentledesperate destructive piece of vandalism should be carried out? "Dead silence prevailed. Everyone was in the attitude David crossed the platform with his rms folded across his chest, and his little igure throbbing like an indiarubber toy man hat you often see in Gamage's. "Ladies hat you often see in Gamage's. and gentlemen," he exclaimed, "there is no difference." And that big clan meeting of he robbers shouted themselves hoarse

Why Bonar instead of David? It is easy explain. Poor Uriah would like to make himself believe that he has won the ears of all the robbers in the land. But that is not The land robbers are still the land re still the lords and the dukes—the real lords nd real dukes. A prince is still a prince, and king is still a king; and a queen—after all—s also still a queen. None of your soap, or he true genuine Conservatives from the ages hat are gone; and David is only a smart 1 nan, of lowly pedigree. Bonar knows that, and Bonar represents that; and David tried to make the big meeting believe that the old tradition had passed away. But it has not; they have only suffered David to carry on intil the storm was past, as he was the best showman in all England. But no longer. David must go to his own quarters, which are on a lower plane, belonging to the class he there was no difference in what he meant to konservado de la antikvaj metodoj de produk do. That may be so; but he is not going to sup with them, and if he would take my advice he should join the Labour Party and lead Labour on to the promised land that he promised us during the war. I am sure if David came to our side we would win this ection. I am also certain we would put a spoke in Bonar's wheel, and all his lords and ukes. It would be a great day if David would all we have said against him. We would place rank beside the Virgin and the Cross.

THE WORKING DREADNOUGHT

We might have some snarling from Arthur and Ramsay and Philip, and also J. R., but kun sia gento. David. I therefore ask David, just as a " free lance " I ask him, to come over and join Labour, and we poor slaves shall rejoice shall do anything, suffer anything, and be glad in the doing of it; for "he who won the war" is on our side. He need not trouble about believing in the class war or the materialist conception of history, or its value, or surplus alue, or revolution; none of our real Labour leaders believe in any of these things. They do not count in the game of bluff, because there is no difference between.

All we want is office, with its trimmings and its little social lifts. Let us cry: "Down with all privilege! Equality for all! One vote 18 years of age. Tax the land, tax the lords. with the right to work! And may God have mercy on our souls is the prayer of your humble servants.'

ESPERANTO.

KEY TO EKZERCO No. 18.

Patient: Good-day, doctor. Doctor: Good-day, what are you suffering

Patient: My dear sir, it seems to me that Doctor (with astonishment): Mad, why? Patient: I don't know, but I have that Doctor: Be assured, you are quite well.

Patient: Are you quite sure? I can't

Doctor: I assure you, you are quite normal.

(Patient goes away. (looking after him and shaking his head): Madman!

EKZERCO No. 19. SPERTA.

Si: Ĉu vi tiel parolis al alia fraŭlino? Li: Vi ja ne supozas, ke mi povus fari tiel

VORTARO.
Sperta	experienced
Cu	you
vi	(marks a question)
tiel	so (in that manner
parolis ,	spoke
al	to alia	(an) other
fraŭlino	unmarried
	unmarried lady,
li s	spinster
ja	he
ne	why, you don't supozas	suppose
ke	that povus fari	should be able to (could) do
bone	well
sen ekzerco	without exercise
	(practice)
Muzika diletanto:	Ču vi ŝatas Brahms?

MANIFESTO DE LA KOMUNISTA PARTIO.

Amiko: Mi neniam gustumis ilin.

Daŭriga. La kapitalistaro ne povas ekzisti, ne konstante revoluciante la rimedojn de la produk-tado, kaj per tio la rilatojn de produktado, unua kondiĉo por la ekzistado de ĉiuj pli frus produktado, seninterrompa maltrankviligo d iuj sociaj statoj, ĉiama necerteco kaj agitad distingas la kapitalistan epokon de fruaj. Ciuj fiksitaj, alglaciigitaj rilatoj, sia sekvantaro de antikvaj kaj respekteg antaŭjuĝoj kaj opinioj, forbalaiĝas, ĉiuj nov formitaj antikviĝas antaŭ ol oli pova malmoliĝi. Ĉio solida forfluidiĝas en aeron ĉio sankta profaniĝas, kaj ĉe la fino la hom estas devigata stari kun sobraj sentoj antaŭ siaj realaj kondiĉoj de vivado, kaj siaj rilato

GOD: KNOWN AND UNKNOWN. By Samuel Butler.

CHAPTER II. Common Ground.

I have now, perhaps, sufficiently proved ny sympathy with the reluctance felt by many to tolerate discussion upon such a subject a the existence and nature of God. I trus that I may have made the reader feel tha ment of the subject which I have chosen will, therefore, proceed to sketch out a pla of what I hope to establish, and this in r doubtful or unnatural sense, but by attacl the same meaning to words as those which we usually attach to them, and with the same certainty, precision, and clearness as any-thing else is established which is commonly called known.

is the Spirit and the Life which creates, governs and upholds all living things, I can say nothing. I cannot pretend that I can show more than others have done in what the Spirit and the Life consists, which governs all ing things and animates them. ow the connection between consci and the will, and the organ, much less can 1 ear away the veil from the face of God. se asist. No philosopher, whether Christian or comfiture; but I can, I hope, do two things Firstly, I can demonstrate, perhaps more clearly than modern science is prepared to admit, that there does exist a single Being or Animator of all living things—a single Spirit, whom we cannot think of under any meaner name than God; and, secondly, I can show something more of the persona or bodily expression, mask, and mouthpiece of this vast Living Spirit than I know of as having been familiarly expressed elsewhere or as being accessible to myself or others, though doubt-ess many works exist in which what I am going to say has been already said.

Aware that much of this is widely accepted nder the name of Pantheism, I venture to think it differs from Pantheism with all the ifference that exists between a coherent in telligible conception and an incoherent, unin-telligible one. I shall therefore proceed to examine the doctrine called Pantheism, and show how incomprehensible and valueless

I will then indicate the Living and Personal God about whose existence and about many of whose attributes there is no room for question; I will show that man has been so far made in the likeness of this Person of God, that He possesses all its essential characteris-tics, and that it is this God who has called man and all other living forms, whether animals or plants, into existence, so that our bodies are the temples of His spirit: that it this which sustains them in their life and rowth, who is one with them, living, moving and having His being in them; in whom, also, they live and move, they in Him and He in them; He being not a Trinity in Unity only, but an Infinity in Unity, and a Unity in an Infinity; eternal in time past, for so much time at least that our minds can come no nearer to eternity than this; eternal for the future as long as the universe shall exist; ever changing, yet the same yesterday, and t comes from. And poor David told them that kaj kun ili la tutajn rilatojn de la socio. La and for ever. And I will show this with so

THE PENAL SERVITUDE OF THE UNEMPLOYED.

November 11, 1922.

'How are you, comrade? Why, you don't

Indeed you have fallen away: you do look visitor thus addressed was a tall thin stooping badly, as though from weak-one of the London unemployed to the Poor-Law Guardians have annamed that they will grant no more relief admission to the Belmont Institution at like at Belmont?

Rather like the prison system," answered inmate, sinking into a chair as though

There isn't enough, oh no; people are agry all the time there; but we get a little food now than we did.'

Breakfast, 8 oz. bread, ½ oz. margarine,

Dinner: Monday, salt beef, potatoes and pudding, 2 oz. of bread. Tuesday, noice of soup or 6 oz. bread or 2 oz. sese and bread. Wednesday, beef, pota-s and cabbage, ½ lb. plain pudding. Thurs-, salt beef, potatoes and beans. Friday,

: A pint of tea, bread and cheese two bread and margarine four days; bread treacle Sundays. It is watered somed. Once a fortnight we have some very stewed figs, or rhubarb if there is plenty growing in the institution.
upper: Two ounces bread, which has ided latterly by cutting 1 oz. off the kfast and 1 oz. off the tea allowance.

re are no pillow-slips, the pillows are not in, and the sheets are not always long gh to cover them. one may be catching from the man who

We are still using the German prisoners' The clothes aren't gh; the place is draughty and dilapi

What do you do there: what is the pro-

Rise 6.45, breakfast 7.15, work 8 to 12, ner 12 to 1, work 1 to 5 April to November and 1 to 4.30 November to April, and 5 lights out. All very monotonous. We lights out. All very monotonous. We do as we like from tea to bedtime. There some cards some of the men have brought n, and some draft-boards made by the ber: those are the things we miss most. thought we should have a little money spend, but we don't get any, only ½ oz. obacco, so we can't buy anything to read. men say they don't get that weight. I

Do you get anything instead?

What is the work? '

Scrubbing the rooms, cleaning lavas, work on the farm '

There are six cows.

How many men are there?" The number varies; there are about 700

Oh, there is other work. There are 90 nd. about 60 acres of whi Labour Master and other officials. The don't work much; they do as little as nish it after ten. That is given up now. the police-station for disobedience.

about the conditions. He was set to break stones on the road. He flung one of the tones down in disgust. It struck a rough wooden fence belonging to the railway company and chipped off a little bit of wood. He was sent to prison for fourteen days for that; but he wouldn't find much difference between Belmont and the prison, except that at Belmont we can talk to each other in the evenelf: at Belmont we are herded together in a

So it is dismal, eh?

Have you left Belmont now?

No; I'm just out for a few days.'' Yes, you can take your discharge when u like, if you give notice; but if you come notice before you are allowed to leave."

"What about your railway fare back to

They won't pay that more than once in a

Did many take their discharge to vote in

Oh, no; they don't take much interest in that sort of thing: it doesn't seem to affect them: it is all so far away, and we hear

Books, papers and pamphlets, or donations for the purchase of literature, may be sent to the "Workers' Dreadnought" Office, to be forwarded to the unemployed at Belmont. We will send the "Dreadnought" free of charge; will you help us to pay the postage?

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

The "Manchester Guardian Commercial

The buying organisation which was formed by a number of London borough councils in which there is a Labour majority for the purpose of breaking the contract ring "has not fared very well in the first ound of the fight. The Bermondsey Council wanted 2,000 tons of cement, and the Public Authorities Mutual Supply put in a tender at £2 12s. 6d. a ton, which was 4s. higher than a tender put in by a private firm. By some means or other, the manager of the ower tender, and when the Committee met Labour buying ring offering to reduce their tender by 3s. 6d. a ton. They recommended acceptance of the private firm's tender, but when this proposal came before the Council it was upset, on the ground that the 'ring of lost money through tendering below the prices quoted by Mutual Supplies, Limited. So the municipal 'ring' is to supply the cement, notwithstanding the contention made in open council that the ring was formed for It seems clear, at any rate, that it was not

The Labour members of the Bermondsey Authorities' Mutual Supplies, as well as the eight Labour mayors, or ex-mayors, have doubtless an explanation to offer, but what a full account of the facts.

Six cows, with 700 men to look after UNDER THE STARS AND STRIPES. from Seattle, Washington

ivated. Then there are the Master's of the I.W.W. Unions are talking general and lawn to attend to, and those of strike to free the seventy-five war-opinion Steer of strike to free the seventy-five war-opinion
The prisoners still behind the bars. Sentiment in le as Seattle, shown by a vote of the I.W.W. joint can—they don't want to be there. It branches here, favours an immediate walk-out vecessity that compels them. There But the vote in Spokane, Wenatchee, Everett ask work down there one time; men and in Eureka, California, advises waiting have to get a certain amount done until spring, with the idea of effecting a much greater tie-up of industry than would be possible now. The Industrial Workers of the e men dodge as much as they can. Every possible now. The Industrial Workers of the wand then the Master sends some of them World have been taking stock of their own strength. When the strike comes, say those

Just recently a young fellow was angry who contend for delay until spring, it must be an epochal turning of the workers. The whole nation must be made to understand exactly why the big industries are brought to a standstill. This will mean a possible six months of intensive organisation within their own ranks and of education for the American people, the spreading to every community in the land of the facts about the political

There are three great fields in which the I.W.W. Unions are in a strategic position in the West—lumber production, construction work, and marine transport; and they are powerful in agriculture. If the strike should be long extended, they could prevent the haresting of crops through the nation's grain fields, and their strength in the railroad in-dustry is steadily gaining in the West.

"Portland faces a strike of the marine workers. The 1.W.W. leads the field there, and the men on the water-tront have serious grievances. Release of the politicals, how ever, will be placed at the top of the list of Half the members of the International Longshoremen's Association, a rival of the I.W.W.'s Marine Transport Workers' Union, have voted to join the proposed strike."

When Joseph Neal, agricultural worker, was tried at Hutchinson, Kansas, tor criminal syndicalism," most of the jury, on examination, admitted prejudice. Under U.S. law they ought to have been discharged and others chosen, but the Judge said: Almost everybody is prejudiced against the I.W.W.; but that will not prevent a jury prejudiced from rendering a just and fain

In order to spend thirty minutes with the three men unjustly sentenced for the Centralia Armistice Day riot, their wives and children must journey across the mountains of Walla Walla to the south-eastern corner of the State and remain there a month. The prison rules allow fifteen minutes a month. Owing to the great cost of the journey, the relatives will stay a month to get a second fifteen minutes with the beloved captives.

Five jurors recently confessed that they knew the imprisoned men were innocent, but were afraid to acquit them.

Fayette County, Pa. There have been 1,500 evictions. The homeless are living in tents, and there are a growing number of typhoid him through the streets. Fascisti invaded the offices of the Russian Soviet Commercial Mission and murdered the doorkeeper.

(Continued from p. 1.

Fascisti and Russia.

It is said that the Mussolini Government will adopt a strongly hostile attitude towards Soviet Russia. That was to be anticipated

Italian Communist Party and Fascisti.

The story that the Communist Party had announced its dissolution appears to be untrue: the Communists have issued a call to the workers to unite against the Fascisti.

Italian Trade Unions and Fascisti.

The "Daily Telegraph" of November 1st announced that the Italian General Confederation of Labour has issued a manifesto sto has actually been obtained, it can only have been at the muzzle of the revolver, and must certain be revoked by the mass of organised work rs. The manifesto is most probably a fake.

USEFUL PAMPHLETS.

The Truth About the Oil War, by Sylvia Pankhurst.
Parliament the People's Enemy, by Clara Cole.
Law and Authority.

Communism and the Elections.

The Capitalist parties and the Capitanst Press are telling you that the elections are all about Communism, fellow-worker; but, o. course, that is not the case.

The newspapers would have you believe that Communism is concerned with high rates and taxes, and the maintenance of a nuge army of unemployed on a higher scale than you who are employed can earn in the workshops. They also tell you that Communism drives capital from the country, and therefore causes your employer to give you the seat.

Communism, however, is not concerned with rates and taxes or the dole: it belongs to an altogether different scheme of things. Moreover, do not be led away, fellowworker, by the story that the Labour Party is working for Communism. That is the very biggest mistake you could make.

As a matter of fact, between you and me, fellow-worker, the Labour Party is as much afraid of Communism as is the Tory Party

The Labour Party is making only one definite proposal in this election—that is, to make the rich pay a larger share of the costly cost of government than at present, and to let the poor off with smaller payments towards the upkeep of Church and State, including the Army and Navy and all the Government Departments.

To do this, the Labour Party proposes to reduce taxation on food and on small incomes, and to increase taxation on large incomes. It also proposes to take a small proportion of the capital of the rich, instead of only a proportion of the interest which the rich get from the investment of their capital. The proportion of capital that the Labour Party proposes to take from the rich is so small that, as the Labour Party itself explains, those who have to pay the levy will, in many cases, pay less than the present income

What will be the result of the Labour Party proposals? 'Very small; the rich might lose a trifle by them in the first instance; but by reducing wages and increasing prices, rents, and rates of interest, the rich will swiftly readjust the

As for you, fellow-worker, you would not observe that the Labour Party's finance programme had made any difference at all, were it put into practice in full.

Dismiss from your mind all notion that such tinkering has anything to do with Communism, fellow-worker: when Communism somes to pass your life will be absolutely

You will no longer be a wage slave. You will take your fill of all there is, because of everything can be produced than the people can use.

There will be no unemployed. Everyone will take a share of the work, not for pay, because money and wages will be abolished; but because mankind lives by labour, and because work under pleasant conditions, when there is not too much of it, is a pleasant and natural thing.

When the employers cease from troubling and the Unions are at rest, a man will scorn to remain idle, week after week, month after month, year after year, because his help is not required in the particular craft he was apprenticed to; but when Communism comes he will be working as an equal citizen of the community, for the welfare of all, and not to make profits for the boss as at present.

Under Communism there will be no rent, interest and profit, no rates and taxes

Communism, fellow-worker, means the oberation of you and me from slavery and anxiety, from poverty and useless toil

Meanwhile, each week, under this odious system, brings its crop of suicides by poor people who could not make the two ends meet Oh the sorrow, the sorrow of poor people under this system, fellow-worker; the sorrow of poor anxious people: it well might fill a very sea of tears.

THE SEARCHLIGHT.

(Continued from p. 6.) little ambiguity that it shall be perceived not as a phantom or hallucination following upon as a phantom or hallucination following upon a painful straining of the mind and a vain endeavour to give coherency to incoherent aid inconsistent ideas, but with the same ease, comfort, and palpable flesh-and-blood clearness with which we see those near to us; whom, though we see them at the best as through a class darkly we still see face to through a glass darkly, we still see face to face, even as we are ourselves seen.

I will also show in what way this Being exercises a moral government over the world, and rewards and punishes us according to His Having done this, I shall proceed to compare this conception of God with those that are currently accepted, and will endeavour to ow that the ideas now current are in truth efforts to grasp the one on which I shall here insist. Finally, I shall persuade the reader that the differences between the so-called theist are differences rather about words than things, inasmuch as not even the most pro-saic of modern scientists will be inclined to deny the existence of this God, while few theists will feel that this, the natural conception of God, is a less worthy one than that to which they have been accustomed.

(To be continued.)

ALL-WORKERS UNION AT GRANTHAM.

The Grantham local branch of the All-

Workers' Union of Revolutionary Workshop

Committees (unemployed section) appeals for suitable books and pictures for its club-room. Comrades in London and the provinces who have already had educational advantages are requested to take down from their bookshelves the volumes they have read, and send them along to these proletarians who are eager to educate themselves in Communist thought. Fields, Factories, and Workshops," and The Conquest of Bread," and Morris's "News From Nowhere," are specially in request.—T. Holdsworth, 47 Bridge End Road, Grantham.

COMMUNIST WORKERS' MOVEMENT.

Central London Branch (Hon. Secretary, S. Cahill) meets Thursday evenings, at 152 Fleet Street, 7.30 p.m. Volunteers for meetings, clerical work, etc., should write to the Secretary at 152 Fleet Street.

SOCIAL AND SALE OF WORK.

A few more things are wanted for the stalls. Do not leave it till the last moment! Cakes, sweets and groceries; also toys for the child ren's Christmas stockings will be specially welcomed. Useful articles for wearing and welcomed. Useful articles for wearing and the home always find a ready sale. Fancy goods, stationery, books, and soap, not forgetting tobacco and cigarettes for the men. We can find a place for them all. Goods should be sent without delay to Mrs. S. Cahill, 60 Limes Grove, Lewisham, S.E. 13, or to Mrs. Brimley, 18 Grove Road, Leytonstone, E. 11

THE COMMUNIST WORKERS' INTERNATIONAL.

organ of the Communist Proletarier." Workers' International (printed in German) "Kommunistische Arbeiter and the Kommunistische Arbeiter Zeitung," organ of the German Communist Workers Party (printed in German) may be obtained from the "Dreadnought" Bookshop, at 152 Fleet Street, London, E.C.

SOCIAL

and SALE OF WORK

For the "Workers' Dreadnought" Fund, the Builders' Labourers' Hall, 84 Blackfriars Road, Saturday, November 25th, 3 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Concert with first-class artistes. Sale and Exhibition of Russian Peasant Arts and Crafts.

Pictures and Drawings by Communist Artists.

Competitions. Prizes.

Buy your Christmas Presents at the stalls. Books, useful and fancy goods, cigars and cigarettes, sweets, cakes, etc.

Refreshments at Popular Prices. Admission by programme, 3d.

HAVE YOU READ?

istory of Great American Fortunes, by Myers	30/=
arxian Economics, by Untermann	6/6
he Child and the Home, by Dr. B. Liber	12,6 ruth and the War, by E. D. Morel	2/5
apitalism and the War, by Walton Newbold	6d.
apitalism and the Counter-Revolution, by	ou.
Walton Newbold	3d.
bove the Battle, by Romain Roland	3/6 ohn Christopher, by Romain Roland (in four volumes) (each)	7/6
ar and Peace, by Tolstoy (three vols.) (each)	2/6
ilitarism and Anti-Militarism, by Karl Liebknecht	1/-
o Compromise, by William Liebknecht	8d.
iers Plowman, by William Langland	2/6
arly History of English Poor Relief, by F. M.
Leonard	12/6
iology, by Letournean (83 illustrations)	3/6
istory of the Commune, 1871, by Lissagarry	4/6
he Paris Commune, by Karl Marx	2/6
topia, by Sir Thomas More	2/6
seful Work and Useless Toil, by William Morris	2d.
onopoly, by William Morris	2d.
ews from Nowhere, by William Morris	3/6
arly Romances, by William Morris	2/6
igns of Change (seven lectures), by William	01
Morris	6/-

COMMUNIST WORKERS' MOVEMENT MEETINGS.

Friday, November 10th.—8 p.m. Head, Battersea, W. Pratt, C. T. West Saturday, November 11th.—6 p.m., Gar-rold's Corner, Edgware Road, C. J. Dela-hunty, W. Pratt.

Sunday, November 12th.—11 a.m., Finsbury Park, W: Pratt, C. T. West.

Monday, November 13th.—7.30 p.m..
Liverpool Street, Walworth Road, Liverpool Street, Edwards, J. Welsh.

Tuesday, November 14th.—7.30 p.m Wren Road, Camberwell, Clara Cole, C.

Wednesday, November 15th.—8 *p.m.. Philpott Street, Commercial Road, White-chapel, C. Edwards, J. Welsh.

SMALL ADVERTISEMENTS-1d. a Word.

FOR HIRE.—Underwood typewriter, excellent condition, 5/- a week.—Apply L. Box

Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst at 152 Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4, and printed by S. Corio (T.U.) at 10 Wine Office Court, Fleet Street, London.