Facts about Mussolini.

radnoug Founded and Edited by SYLVIA

VOL. IX. No. 40.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1922

Weekly-PRICE ONE PENNY.

LE JEUNE BARBAROUX.

By John Barlas. senger, pilgrim in the land of fear, he sound of Death's feet growing in thine

The sight of Death's face rising on thy view, what change in thee since this time yesteryear, Young Barbaroux.

right-haired Apollo, with the hero's eyes that dreamest dreams too fair for earthly skies,

Man free and equal, all things fair and true, what shadows dark across thy dream arise? Young Barbaroux.

Where now thy France? Where now the chosen band of thy companions? Where the fair Roland?
All these are gone, and what thing left to you?
Perchance the gallows in some foreign land, Young Barbaroux.

hey come again to thee, the old sweet days, ack in a tear-dimmed vision of dead praise; he spires of Paris rise through morning's hue ad with the world's hope to thy spirit's gaze, Young Barbaroux.

hy word went forth, and all France heard the cry, Send me six hundred men prepared to die!" arms the marseillese that moment flew, or Greek blood burns yet 'neath Massilia's sky,

Young Barbaroux.
From sabres old they scour the gathered rust:
Who bids them die but the one man they

The dusty roads have heard an anthem new, estined to shake the old world into dust, Young Barbaroux.

pon the Feast of late loud chimed the bell, ut Paris burns with smothered fires of hell, or hopes may fail, and chiefs may prove

They enter Paris with a tiger's yell, Young Barbaroux.

Strike down the tyrant: citizens, to arms:
orm your battalions!" What high note alarms

The traitor snakes in Freedom's breast that grew?

Who now shall shield his France from all her harms?

Young Barbaroux.

And now 'mid strangers, with a broken pride, Craving the crust withheld, the draught denied,

The straw begrudged beneath thine head to

Thou wanderest through the great world black and wide,

Young Barbaroux.

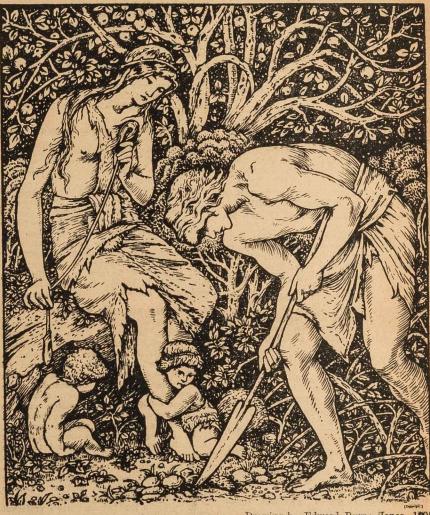

Patthful to death, unchanged by fear or grief, Clinging, brave boy, to thy sublime belief, Clasp to thine heart the poor red, white and blue, shall spring yet from the ruined sheaf

Young Barbaroux.

The flag, that covered France too short a while With holy shade, now fear and blood defile, and through the world deep threatening storm-clouds brew.

Look through to clearer heavens beyond, and smile, Young Barbaroux.

Drawing by Edward Burne Jones, 1895.

When Adam delved and Eva span, Who was then the gentleman?

This drawing, published as a calendar, price 9d., may be obtained from the "Dreadnought" Bookshop, 152 Fleet Street, F.C.

Trades Facilities Act. The

AN INIQUITOUS MEASURE.

UNJUSTIFIABLE SUBSIDIES TO CAPITALISM AT HOME AND ABROAD. PUTTING AUSTRIA IN PAWN AND PREVENTING SOCIAL PROGRESS IN AUSTRIA.

Why Did Ramsay Macdonald Support the Bill, when other Labour Members Exposed its Iniquities?

Why Did the Labour Party Fail to Oppose It?

The Trade Facilities and Loans Guarantees Bill, which was rushed through its Second Reading last week will do three things, each of them bad

(1) It increases the limit of the aggregate loans which the Government may make to Capitalists from £25,000,000 to

£50,000,000. (2) It makes a loan to Austria, in return for which Austria is forced to abandon the freedom to manage her internal affairs, is debarred from progressive legislation, forced to hand certain State services over to private enterprise, and to accept the dictation of a Commissioner-General and a control Commission. As Mr. Rhys-Davies, a Labour Member put it, Austria is, in fact, placed "in pawn" as a condition of this

3) It gives the Government power to guarantee the principal and inferest on a loan of £3,500 to the Soudan Government for the purpose of irrigating the Gizereh Plain in the interests of the Soudan Plan tation Syndicate, a company in which Mr. Asquith's son is interested.

SUBSIDISING CAPITALISTS.

Many years ago a young man proposed to an I.L.P. branch in Manchester that State subsidies should, under certain conditions, be granted to employers of Labour, on condition that they should pay certain accepted wages and provide certain model conditions for their workers. Very rightly the young man's proposal was rejected by his fellow-members, who declared that he was proposing measures to reinforce and prolong the Capitalist system. But to-day we find a leading member of the II.P and the elected Leader of the Labour Party, welcoming a measure which, as the young man of Manchester suggested, grants subsidies to the Capitalists, but withbut even the compensating advantage of out even the compensating advantage of securing improved Labour conditions. The subsidies to Capitalism proposed by the Trade Facilities Bill are quite frankly to reinforce and put on its legs again the Capitalist system, which has more or less broken down since the war. No stipulations are made re-

Nevertheless, the Labour Party Leader, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, and several other Labour Members, spoke in favour of the Bill, and the Party challenged no division on the

Here is a list of the Capitalist firms which have already benefited under the £25,000,000

Guarantees by the Treasury to certain capitalist firms up to March 31st, 1922:

Harland and Wolff, Ltd., £1,493,345, ten Calcutta Electric Supply Corporation, Ltd., £500,000, 25 years, redeemable after 15 years. Holbrook Brick and Tile Co., Ltd. (Trotter

W. Beardmore and Co., Ltd., £600,000, five

'almers Shipbuilding Co., Ltd., £300,000, Merton Board Mill, Ltd. (Hugh Stevenson and Sons, Ltd.), £100,000, ten years.

Underground Railway, £5,000,000, fifty

Rhymney Valley Sewerage Board, £16,000,

twenty-five years.

Minehead Electric Supply Co., Ltd.

£4,500, twenty-five years.
Cropper and Co., Ltd., £100,000, ten years.
South Eastern and Chatham Railway Co., Eastern and Chatham Railway Co., £6,500,000, twenty-five years.

Leckhampton Quarries, Ltd., £50,000,

twenty-five years.

Kent Electric Power Co., Ltd., £15,600, twenty years. South Crofty, Ltd., £30,000, three years James Powell and Son (Whitefriars), Ltd.

£50,000, ten years.

Lee Conservancy Board, £100,000, thirty years. Underground Railways, £1,000,000, fifty

Pickerdite and Co., Ltd., £17,500, ten Egham and Staines Electric Co., Ltd.,

£50,000, twenty-five years.

Workington Harbour and Dock Board, £500,000, thirty years.

Guildford and Waldershare Colliery Co.,

£300,000, twenty-five years.

North Somerset Electric Supply Co., Ltd.,

£25,000, twenty-five years.
Shropshire, Wores. and Staffs Electric Light and Power Co., Ltd., £700,000, thirty

Levant Tin Mines, Ltd., £10,000, three

Central London Railway, £458,000, fifty Powell Duffryn Steam Coal Co., Ltd.,

£120,000, thirty years. Total, £18 188 645

Observe that the great munition firm of Beardmore's that piled up huge profits during the war is thus helped to raise £600,000 at low interest. Armstrong Whitworth also benefits, though its name is not on the list because it supplies the machinery to a Canadian paper firm which is getting a subsidy. The ship-builders who also made immense fortunes also

figure in the list of Government dole receivers.

The Powell Duffryn Steam Coal Co. gets £120,000 for thirty years. Mr. Rhys Davies, who spoke strongly against the Bill, pointed out that this firm had in 1919 only a share capital of £541 in ordinary shares and £115,000 in preference shares; yet in the fifteen years ending in 1920, after deducting depreciation, Income Tax, Excess Profits Duty, and coal mines excess payments, it had made the enormous profit of 51 million ands! £3,000,000 was paid out in cash dividends and £1,100,000 in bonus shares!!

What shadow of excuse is there for guaranteeing loans to a firm which has made a for-

The loan, moreover, is granted in order that the firm may build cottages for its workers. Everyone knows that the worker who lives in the cottage owned by his employer goes in fear of eviction in time of strike, and loses his home if dismissed from his employment. The Government which guarantees loans to private employers to build cottages refuses to assist the local authorities to provide workingclass houses

No single local authority has benefited under

Mr. Macdonald called this Bill "tippling in Socialism." This may be his idea of Socialism—to us it seems only a bolstering Labour Members accused Mr. Pringle of turning Protectionist because he moved an amendment that loans should not be guaranteed for firms outside the British Isles whose products would come into competition with goods made here, because, he said, that would increase unemployment, though the pretence is that this Bill will relieve it.

Of course that pretence is a hollow one: this Bill is to benefit the Capitalist; the workers are not considered by its promoters.

THE SOUDAN SUBSIDY.

The Soudan subsidy to provide irrigation to benefit a firm which made 35 per cent. profit last year appears to be an exceedingly corrupt deal. It has been recommended on the score that long staple cotton can be grown in the Soudan and is needed by British cotton manufacturers. Commander Ken-worthy declared that he has expert information that only short staple cotton can be grown there, and the Government spokesman did not give a satisfactory reply to that point.

Mr. Kenworthy made a more important point, however, when he showed that the land is being alienated from the native cultivator in the interests of the great Soudan Plan tation Syndicate—a sorry result indeed for Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and the Labour Party to assist in bringing to pass.

According to the Labour Party's professed nciples, it should have called on the Government to nationalise the developm hese cotton lands, but no Labour, I.L.P., or Communist Party voice raised this point.
Mr. McNeill, the Government spokesman, declared that the native cultivator the work gets 40 per cent. of the proceeds of the cotton crop, the Government which provides the money gets 35 per cent., and the company gets 25 per cent. Mr. McNeill suggested that the Syndicate does very much in return for its 25 per cent., but he evidently knew he was on insecure ground in contend-ing that, because he added: "In a certain number of years the Syndicate will disappear and the cultivator will be on his own and the cultivator will be on his own.

Undoubtedly this is a corrupt deal. Mr.
Hopkinson aptly reminded the House of the British Cellulose Co. deal, saying:

"There is a very large sum of the taxpayers' money at present invested in a company known as the British Cellulose Co., nder very similar conditions to those gov erning these credits that we are giving to various concerns under this Bill. In that case the taxpavers' money was given, and the security was the whole of the present and future assets of the company, and then, at a late hour one night, we convert what is in effect a first mortgage on the wh assets of the company into prefer shares. But that was not the end o for after a little bit we give back to company half the value of those prefet shares, and then representatives of Board of Trade tell us. shares has gone up; they are standa a higher rate than they were before, amount of the capital concerned been reduced by about one-half."

The more honest Liberals and Tories cry shame on the jobbery of these Gov of business interests, but certain h faced Members of the Labour (?) Pr

Mr. Hayday, of the Labour Party, Mr. Hayday, of the Labour Party, tested that men employed on the Lo Underground Railway scheme, which rec money under this scheme, are worked of hour shifts for which they get no over

THE AUSTRIAN LOAN.

The Austrian Loan was the part of the specially commended by Mr. Ramsay M lonald. He hoped it would be the begi of a reconstruction based on " enception of the League of Nations elper in our beneficent purposes in Ce

"When that is done this Bill, small it is, will be one of the most benefice pieces of legislation that this Parliam have always disagreed with Mr. dnoald, but we never looked upon him we the strong distrust and disfavour which towards this iniquitous Aust measure has aroused in us. We now that Mr. Macdonald is, in our view, a fi colleague for President Wilson and George; his actions must be regarded an equal measure of suspicion.

Mr. Macdonald is not ignorant of in national matters; he knows, and no better, that this Bill destroys the free of Austria, destroys her opportun of progress, and places her under a reaction alien control.

He excused that control, saying:

It is essential that there sh be a certain amount of control, beca Austria has already had loans and has sp them in such a way as to do no substa attempt made by the officials of the Le of Nations . . . to put an end to that.

That is good sound financial and t In order to do this, certain gu tees and certain control had to be He continued.

"Hon. Members . . . might image that one of the aspects of control, as m tioned by an hon, friend who sits be me, is that we have taken sovereignty from Austria. I would assure the H that that is not the case."

Let everyone who would understand estion remember the fate of other na to which the Powers have made loans,

Let them remember the record of League of Nations and of the Allied Powhich control it. Let them remember the fate of nation respect of which the Powers have used phrases as this quoted by Mr. Macdonald "will respect the political independent the territorial integrity and the sovereig of Austria. They will take no ster which will compromise that independ the matter to the Council of the League Woe to the nation respecting which Powers use such language, say the page

Now turn to the White Paper containing Protocols, and read there the dictum of Allied usurers who propose to grant Aust a loan

There is no hope for Austria unless is prepared to endure and support authority which must enforce reforms harder conditions than those at preprevailing, knowing that in this way an she avoid an even worse fate. er State industries to private enterto turn over the shares of her Bank to private enterprise, and to abandon ision that its directors be confirmed by leral Government. Note also that s order Austria to increase her railstal, telegraph, telephone, tobacco and es; to establish "an efficient gen-throughout Austria." Why? To h Labour unrest, of course. The owers dictate that Austria's Pensions all services shall be reduced to 42 and on crowns respectively, whilst 52 mil-wns is spent on her public debt, 20 on her army, and 100 millions on her is to submit herself to a Control and a Controller General, and fur-League of Nations—for all this she ia is, indeed, in pawn; and Germany low next.

loans from France, Italy, and Uzecho a to Austria, which would give them entage of control, will probably not lise. Britain will thus remain the ood-sucker—a " quid pro quo " for the occupation of the Ruhr.

e international stage is set for fresh ts and further plunders, whilst Macdonald applies the whitewash!

E. SYLVIA PANKHURST.

ROSA LUXEMBURG'S LETTERS FROM PRISON. Translated by M. Campbell.

(Continued.)

Breslau, Middle of December, 1917.

Karl has now been a year in confine-n Luckau. I have often thought about month, and it is exactly a year since ere with me in Wronke and presented th the beautiful Christmas tree year I ordered one for myself, but the with last year's. I don't know how I bing to decorate it with the eight little have bought. It is my third Christ "quod," but please don't look at the side of it. I am as calm and jolly as side of it. I am as calm and jolly as Yesterday I lay awake for a long time i't get to sleep before one o'clock, but turn in at ten, and in the darkness hind muses on all things imaginable. yesterday I was thinking: How remarkvesterary I was timing. How remarks to the state of the s d as stone, all about me in the building al churchvard silence reigns supreme : the being in the grave. Coming the the window and fixing itself on the gis the reflection of the lamp that burns ht outside the prison. From time to one hears only the muffled clattering passing railway train somewhere in the or in the immediate vicinity; the windows the guards clearing their is and moving about slowly in their big in order to get the stiffness out of then here is so much hopelessness in the of the sand being crushed under foot ne whole barrenness and shut-in-ness of ce is proclaimed to the damp and te still, wrapt in these manifold black s of gloominess, boredom, unfreedom vinter, and yet my heart is tuned up ncomprehensible, an unknown joy, as the lie to everything that appears wicked and sad and that transforming it into something bright and happy. And there I lie trying to find out a reason for this gladness, but find nothing and have to laugh at myself again. itself; the profound nocturnal gloom is so beautiful and so velvety, if one looks at it in the right way. And in the grating of the sand under the slow and heavy steps of the guard there is a beautiful little song about life—if one only knows how to hear it in the right way. In such moments I think of you and would so much like to tell you of this magic key so that you might perceive the beauty and gladness of life in no matter what circumstances, so that you, too, might feel this intoxication as though you were passing over a gaily-coloured meadow. I am by no neans intent on dishing you up the pot of a recluse, on giving you imagined joys. A don't begrudge you any of the real joys of the senses. I only want to add to them by giving my inexhaustible inner cheerfuli that I need never be anxious about you, so that you may pass through life in a star-inwrought mantle which will protect you from all that is trivial, mean and annoying.

It is a fine bunch of black and rose-violet berries you have gathered in Steglitzer Park.
The black berries can either be those of the elder—its berries hang in close, heavy clusters between the fronds of the large pinnate leaves (you must know them), or they are probably from the privet; slender, ornamental, upright panicles of berries, and small, rather long green leaves. The rose-violet berries hidden under little leaves can be those of the dwarf medlar; they are really red, but as it is late in the they are really red, but as it is late in the year they are already somewhat over-ripe and going off, and have taken on a violet redish colour; the leaves resemble the myrtle, small, pointed, dark green, and leathery on top,

Sonjuscha, do you know Platen's "The Ominous Wishing-Bone"? Could you send me it or bring it? Karl mentioned once that he had read it at home. George's poems are grand; now I know where that verse comes from that you generally recite when we are out walking acres the fields: "And softer than the rustle of the corn grown red." Could you, when you have time, write out for me the new "Amadis"? I like the poem so much -thanks, of course, to the Hugo Wolff songbut I haven't it oy me. Are you still reading the Lessing legend? I have taken up Lange's History of Materialism again; I always find lating and refreshing. I do wish you would read it

Ah, Sonitschka, I have had one very painful experience here. In the yard where I walk I often see military wagons coming in laden with sacks or old military uniforms and shirts, often with blood-stains. . . . They are un-unloaded here, divided out among the cells, darned and mended, then re-loaded and handed over to the military again. A short time ago one of these wagons came drawn, not by horses, but by oxen. I was able to They are broader and more strongly built than our bullocks, their heads are flat, as are their horns, which are turned outwards, making them resemble our sheep in structure, and they have big, kind eyes. They come from Rumania, and are war trophies. . . . The soldiers who were driving the wagons were saying that these wild beasts are very difficult to catch, and, being so used to freedom, much more difficult to make use of as beasts of burden. They get frightfully abused until they have nothing for it but to adopt the motto "Vae victis. . . . " It is said that there are a hundred head of them in Breslau alone; and when you think of the miserable and scanty fodder they get, and that after being used to the luxuriant Rumanian pasture! Not the slightest attention is paid to gh I were passing over a flower-bestrewn low in glorious sunshine. And in the mess I smile at life as though I had come and, of course, are worked to death. Well, now of some secret witchcraft giving a few days ago one of these wagons, piled high with sacks, was being driven in, and the oxen couldn't get it up through the gate. The soldier in charge, a brutal fellow, began to beat the animals with the thick end of the whip handle so roughly that the wardress became enraged and went up to him and asked him if he had no pity for the beasts! "No-body has any pity for us human beings either," he answered with an evil smile, and took to hitting harder. . . At last the animals got it up and over, but one of them was bleeding. . . . Sonitschka, the thickness and toughness of ox-hide is proverbial, and this one's was torn open. Then, while unloading was going on, the animals stood quite still, absolutely exhausted; and one of them, the one that was bleeding, had such a vacant expression in its kindly black eyes that it looked like a child that has cried itself out. It was exactly the expression of a child that has been severely punished and does not know what for or why, does not know how it can get out of the way of the torture and the brute force. . . I stood in front of it, and the out of the way of the torture and the brute force. . . . I stood in front of it, and the animal looked straight at me, while tears began to come into my eyes—they were ITS tears; if it were my best-loved brother I couldn't feel a sharper pain than I did seeing it stand there, in utter hopelessness before this silent suffering. How distant, how irrevocably lost the free and savoury green meadows of Rumania! How differently the sun shone and the wind blew there; how different were the heautiful notes of the savesters and the melodious shepherd calls! And here this strange and horrible town, the gloomy stable, the nauseous, musty hay with filthy straw mixed with it, the terrible foreigners, and the blows, the blood that is running out of the fresh wound. . . Oh, my poor ox, my poor dear brother, we are both standing here o helpless and dull-minded and are but one in suffering, in helplessness, in yearning. . . . In the meantime the prisoners had begun to bustle about around the wagon, unloaded the heavy sacks, and carried them into the building; but the soldier stuck both hands in his grinning and whistling a vulgar song. And the glorious war passed all before my eyes. Write soon, Sonitschka. Fond embra

UNDER THE STARS AND STRIPES. Defence News Service reports the death in prison of Ricardo Flores Magon, editor of Regeneracion," a Spanish language paper of Los Angeles. He was incarcerated for writing against the war. He had spent eleven years in prison for his opinions in Mexico, and eight in the United States—nineteen

Caesar Tabib and Edward Quigley, I.W.W. whose case we have reported before, are dying of tuberculosis, and are still in prison. Their illness was contracted whilst they were awaiting trial, confined for sixty-four days and nights in a single cell 21 ft. by 21 ft., with fitty-one other prisoners, five of whom died fitty-one other prisoners, of influenza and tuberculosis.

William Weigh, an I.W.W. prisoner, was realeased from Leavenworth at the point of death from tuberculosis.

Thomas Martinez, I.W.W., was operated upon for appendicitis at Leavenworth, and so badly attended to that his wound never healed. At last he was released, re-arrested on a deportation warrant, kept for months in an insanitary county gaol in St. Louis, and finally exiled to Mexico, where he died.

Joe Martinez, a Mexican prisoner, was being tortured by one of the guards known as "Butcher," or "Butch" Logan. Martinez revolted and stabbed Logan and four other guards, as well as Andrew Leonard, the captain of the guards, who died. Martinez was shot twice by the guards, and is expected to die. The sympathy of the prisoners is with the one man who fought seven guards.

Workers Dreadnought

Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST.

Matter for Publication to le Addressed to the Eci er "Workers' Dreadnought," 152 Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4.

TELEPHONE: CENTRAL 7240,

Vol. IX. No. 40. Saturday, Dec. 16, 1922.

Our View.

MUSSOLINI has come red-handed to Lon don. He is called to confer with the Allied Prime Minis-Musselini, ters respecting the future Traitor. Europe and its people. He will mix with the proud aristo Dictator. crats and the prouder plutocrats of Britain on equal terms.

are too Red to associate with society's great ones, fellow-worker, but Mussolini, the ocialist, turned renegade, is not too black to be received by them. Because he is a successful hired assassin in the service of Capitalism, and has laid low the workers' movement of Italy, all privileged doors are open to him

Remembering the record of Mussolini, his revolutionary propaganda which many, even of his comrades, thought exaggerated in its vio-lence, his sentence for a speech urging the workers to carry concealed arms, and his escape to Switzerland, by which he evaded nprisonment, one wonders whether, in the days when he was supposed to be Socialist, Mussolini was not all the time a servant of reaction. Now he serves reaction as a dictator; perhaps he was then a hired provocative agent of the police.

Mussolini's bullies remain rampant in Italy. At the Scala Theatre, in Milan, last week, they attempted to terrorise the conductor, Mr. Toscanini, into playing the Fascist hymn Failing in their purpose, they finally invaded the stage to sing their hymn, whilst the audience walked out of the theatre in protest. On leaving the building, the Fascisti shouted:
"To whom shall we give castor oil?" and themselves answered: "To Toscanini!"

1N nothing has the Labour Party organ, the ' Daily Herald,' The "Daily ously failed, and failed is a Herald "and mild and charitable word to the Fascistl. use in this connection, than in its dealing with the editor, will not readily be forgotten:

"Whether the Italian Fascisti are enemies to the point of view of the workers

It is impossible not to feel a certain of admiration for this man who has organised what he calls a bloodless revolu-

The "Herald's" correspondents in Italy appear to share Mr. Fyfe's unfortunate admiration for the murderous Mussolini—an admiration peculiarly incongruous in an organ which invariably talks pacifism and non-resistance to evil, whenever those who are oppressed are endeavouring to protect or free themselves. The following extracts from the "Daily Herald" of December 9th are illusthe "Herald" attitude towards

Last January, writes a correspondent, Signor Mussolini, then a Fascist leader, and now the Fascist dictator of Italy, expressed his approval of a 'Daily Herald' leader which described the diplomats and secre taries of the Supreme Council as 'eating up the land like an army of locusts.

London, and Mussolini is among them. The old reparations tangle is to be again examined by the old diplomatists; and Mussolini will sit in conference with Poincare, Bonar Law, and the locusts.

Will they enrol him as a locust? Will they break him into attending futile conference after conference, discussing im possible claims, and counting in meanings millions? Will he succumb to atmosphere of importance and be wheedled into becoming a great (or futile) States-man? Or will his insistence on decisive action to clear up a muddle rattle the Conference into practical courses? That is the interesting political and psychological issue

Nothing is certain about Mussolini. His career is partly a romance and partly a study in drastic contradictions. . . .

"At the end of October he was the chief mover in the swift, silent, and successful Revolution that closed down the Italian Pac-liament and made him the Premier in name and Dictator in fact of Italy.

How will this rough-and-ready buccaneer of politics, who only a year ago evaded the police to fight a 14-round sword duel with a journalist, fit himself into the arena of the Diplomats' Travelling Circus? heir clowning absorb or exasperate Benito Mussolini?

THE "Daily Herald," it will be observed has joined in the general Press conspiracy to make this evil Mussolini appear a brave, and Mussolini's History. withal rather splendid fellow in spite of his faults. Yet what are the facts After crying: "Down with the war!" Mussolini suddenly became converted to it, and abused as "Canaille!" his yesterday's comrades who opposed it. Yet he let pass the first five months after Italy came into the war without enlisting. When he joined, he was made letter carrier at the rear. He applied for a non-commissioned officership, applied for a non-commissioned officership, out was refused, because he had not been to the front. He never went to the front, but was slightly wounded at the base by an accibomb explosion in the instruction

One wonders whether Mussolini was re tained at the base and preserved from the dangers of the front because he was performing some special services for the police. Perhaps, however, his "patriotic?" services in the Jingo paper, "Il Popolo d'Italia," secured him consideration.

Mussolini was bribed, and this paper of his was paid for by French Government money through Mr. Franklin Bouillon, who has lately figured as French emissary in Turkey. These words of Mr. Hamilton Fyfe, the In order to conceal the deal, a society to pro cure advertisements for Mussolini's paper was headed by a rich Italian financier, Filippo Naldi, and the money was arranged through this source. When charged with having accepted French money, Mussolini called for a jury of honour, and was able to get himself

Having escaped danger in the war, Mussolini abstained from going to the front in the brigand war which was waged to get him into power. He recruited his Black Shirt Army, and paid it with the money given him for the purpose by capitalist reactionaries. His hired brigands fought for him, and he waited in safety till the day was won.

The evil deeds of his black-shirted Fascisti nclude the burning down of 200 Labour institutions, those fine Chambers of Labour and People's Houses which were such an outstanding feature of the Italian workers' movement. They also burned the plant and premises of pressed leader found misery to large numbers of workers.

They have assassinated about 2,000 perso By marching an army of 30,000 upon Roi the infamous Mussolini seized the power w the assent of the rich industrial capital and the acquiescence of the King.

The wicked deeds of this murderer, who

December 16, 1922

tortured and killed old comrades in his bloc march to power, are excused and condon those who wish to protect the seats of mighty, because Mussolini is the tool

Exposes

Shields

THE "Daily Telegraph" describes, w rapier keenness, though Tom Johnson a a pro-capitalist angle, clash of policies which Macdonald, other day between Mr. say Macdonald, the Lab Asquithian Party's chosen leader, a Mr. Thomas Johnston, edi ot the " Forward," and c the group of Scotch Labour M.P.s, whose was largely responsible for making Mr. M donald Leader of their Party. Says the To Daily Telegraph Poor Mr. Macdonald, he has a diffic row to hoe as the leader of such men Mr. Johnston, but he did not want to too hard on him or throw him over violently. . . . Mr. Macdonald did his to get his follower decently out of the h . . . But there were certainly no felicitations in the heart of Mr. Macdonald. Her was the Nemesis of the soap-box at street corner, and he knew it."

As a matter of fact, Mr. Johnston had ve neatly exposed the manner in which polare made a profitable business for the ru A Minister may well be wi families. any immediate pecuniary gain purely himself from this or that political deal, his sons and his sons-in-law, his brother cousins, as the case may be, are doubtles the firm which benefits by the transact The member of one of the ruling families holds the highest political office is often least wealthy in the family, out his posi as Minister or ex-Minister, gives him social prestige which others can only purch by wealth. Moreover, he is able to ins that his children shall be well provided however inferior in ability or application t may be. He can perform so many use services for his family that his relatives see that he goes short of nothing that is es tial to his position.

In the case raised by Mr. Johnston cotton-growing company, the Soudan Plan tion Syndicate, is getting the benefit of irri ernment by the Asquith Government. Plantation Syndicate paid dividends of cent. in 1916-17, 25 per cent. in 1917 25 per cent. in 1918-19, 25 per cent. an bonus of 10 per cent, in 1919-20, 15 per in 1920-21, and 35 per cent. in 1921-22.

Mr. Asquith's son, Brigadier-General A. Asquith, a director of the Soudan Plantat yndicate, and his son-in-laws brother, Ed Bonham-Carter, was the legal secretary the Soudan Government and an offi member of the Governor-General's Cou

Mr. Asquith's Government began the in gation subsidy which benefits the Sou Plantation Syndicate, and Mr. Asqu headed a deputation to the Government his successor, to ask for another irrige subsidy, when the first was expended. Asquith admitted that it is not his prac to go on deputations; indeed, he declared: have never attended one before." It was tainly not in good taste, to say the least it, that Mr. Asquith should have chosen deputise in the interests of a company which his relative was concerned. course, Mr. Asquith declared that he had be animated only by concern for the growth Empire cotton and the welfare of his cot manufacturing constituents in Paisley.

LORD DERBY and Mr. J. R. Clynes had accompanied Mr. Asquith on the deputation, and, as Sir John Simon observed in the Labour n the debate last week, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald supported the Subsidy Bill. The connection between Labour Members of Parliament nd such capitalist deals is worthy of careful Mr. Johnston is a new Parliaentary hand; he may learn a good deal about less things presently. Will he be courageous hough to turn on the searchlight?

Mr. Macdonald's attitude on last week's ebate was a masterpiece of hypocrisy. Sir ohn Simon asked whether he supported, or epudiated the suggestion of his colleague. r. Macdonald replied he was sorry that ques-on had been put, since he knew his "duty fouse "quite as well as Sir John Mr. Macdonald described the disission as "very painful" and "unfortun-e," and appealed to Mr. Johnston to say hat "nothing he had said reflected on Mr. Asquith." Mr. Macdonald apologised for his eague as a new Member, and asked the House to be generous towards him on that account. "Members who had been here longest knew," he added, "how very difficult observe with the most perfect rectinde the relationships that exist between hon. embers on all sides of the House.'

That, of course, is precisely the attitude That, of course, is precisely the attitude of the hardened Tory jobster: "These things must not be spoken of amongst gentlemen." They may be done, O dear, Mr. Satan, of course, for did not Members sell their souls you, and become like the gay young Faust, hen they entered the delightful realms of olitics combined with business?

The most amazing thing about Mr. Macdonald's polite apology for his colleague was an frank indication that even the Labour Members may perhaps be found in the politico-business whirlpool. Note his words:

. nis [Mr. Johnston's] statement was that in connection with that company a relative of my hon. friend [Mr. Asquith] was connected. Now I am perfectly certain that if, upon that ground, any of us is to be directly charged with motives and inerests which would move us to go to the Government as a deputation, then I do not know where any of us is going to stand."

Is anyone so blind as to believe that men ho speak thus will assist in destroying the apitalist system? No, no, dear readers. hey will be like the young man who turned adly away—" for he had great possessions."

Our readers should observe that although ex-chairman of the Labour Party, Mr. R. Clynes, accompanied Mr. Asquith on ion subsidy, and although Mr. Macdonald re commended the Subsidy Bill to the House of Commons, Mr. Macdonald had not the courcommons, Mr. Macdonald had not the courage to defend the Subsidy Bill now that his energetic colleague from Glasgow has shown himself determined to expose the provisions and effects of the Bill.

We congratulate Mr. Johnston on his tempt to make public this piece of jobbery, and in the fact that he neither withdrew no pologised, though it seems he would have one so in part at Mr. Macdonald's request, ad he not been interrupted. dvise Mr. Johnston not to be intimidated into equiescence or withdrawal, either by the perions of Mr. Macdonald or the application f Party discipline.

have secured their railway fares from the Boards of Guardians: the Guardians and died in the Workhouse, and in the Marcher's refusing to deliver his body to Funeral. his wife in Luton, is an outrage that has not received the censure due to it. The Willes-said when they declared they had discovered a lawful widow of the dead man who was not the Luton widow. That they were altogether nistaken, and that the husband of the they had found turned out not to be dead at shows that the Guardians aggravated their offence by carelessness in their investigations. The main offence of the Guardians, nowever, is not that they were mistaken, but that they presumed to interfere in the first place. The marcher who died had given his ddress in Luton. He was living with a wife in Luton. That was his choice. It is an outrage that the Guardians should have attempted to interfere in his affairs because he had the misfortune to die in a Workhouse

THE Irish Treaty Bill has passed through Parliament, and the Irish *truggle goes on uninfluenced by that event. The "Daily Herald," on December 5th, oined with the Capitalist Press in repeating the sinister joke that the Irish can now say:

Ours is a free country. Governor Tim Healy has undertaken a stiff b and a terrible, which may quite easily ve fatal to him, judging from recent events Ireland. He means, it appears, to make pretence that Ireland has secured either self-determination or Dominion Home Rule. a Press interview after his appointment to the Governorship, he said:

I think you are entitled to say that we have been given a measure of freedom as large as that which is enjoyed by any of the States in the American Union."

Tim Healy has been one of the few picturesque personalities amongst the drab and tedious crowd of professional lawyer-politicrowd of professional lawyer-politicians: but he is a reactionary and the champion of the Irish whiskey makers and other Irish trade interests. He kept carefully aloof from the romantic and impetuous Sinn Fein movement. Whatever he may have been in his past, there is nothing of the hero about the Tim Healy of to-day; but we are suraccept his present odious position.
BEVAN and the Ilford murder have occupied much space in the newspapers Sensational during several weeks. consoling to remember that frauds such as those perpetrated by Bevan, Bottomley, and Jabez Balfour will be no longer possible when Capitalism disappears. To those who are reduced destitution it matters not whether their misfortunes are due to a fraudulent company director, a capitalist war, or a wave of bad trade. The hardship is the same, whatever its cause. The main point is that destitution and want are unnecessary in a society which is capable of producing more than its members WHETHER the letters in the Ilford murder case were mere hysterical

The Married vapourings, never intended to come to anything, and whether State. the murder itself was the outcome of fear and unpremeditated, as the youth who committed it declared, will never be known. The case is but one of many illustrating the hold that social conventions regarding marriage still have upon all save ex-THE majority of the unemployed who rarched up to London for the opening of Parliament have the Hunger returned to their homes. Some garding marriage still have upon all save exceptional people. The woman in the case was not economically dependent; but if she had left her husband, and gone to live with another man, and if the husband had chosen to go to her place of business and create a scene, there is little doubt that the woman would have been dismissed by her employers, march has been an experience to the men concerned, and they have been able to do some propaganda on their journey. That is all.

Settle, there is little doubt that the woman would have been dismissed by her employers, and they have been able to do some propaganda on their journey. That is all.

Would have been dismissed by her employers, and it is would have been dismissed by her proper thing to do in cases such as this, is for husband and wife to part, leaving each other free to contract any new relationships

Until men and women are enlightened enough to take that view, a vast amount or unnecessary unhappiness and occasional crimes will accompany sexual relationships. Speaking on the poet Shelley, the other day, Mr. Bernard Shaw is reported by the "Daily Herald"—we do not know how correctly—as saying that what were regarded as Shelley's misdeeds during his lifetime are now forgotten, because Shelley was one of those people who are above good and evil. Shelley, however, by no means held that breaches of social convention, which he committed in respect of marriage, religion, and politics, are permissible only to a chosen few. On the contrary, he desired to open the doors of freedom to all.

NO act of the Soviet Government has been Soviet Russia more regrettable than the negotiations of its representa-and Mussolini tive, Mr. Krassin, with the murderous renegade Mussolini.
Soviet Government can have no illusions as to the character of Mussolini and his Government; it is in full possession of all the facts, and is aware that this man is the tool of the extreme reaction and an alert organiser of White Guardism, not only in Italy, but all over the world.

This negotiating with Mussolini is not only unworthy: it is also short-sighted: for ob viously the Mussolini dictatorship cannot be of long duration. It is too aggressively law-less and vulgar to be tolerated even by the bourgeois for long, and must soon be cast aside now that it has achieved the purpose or which it was created—the destruction possible that the Italian masses can long tolerate the Fascisti dictatorship. If anything can prepare a people for serious revolt it should be this.

NOW that several of the South African strikers have been hung, the Labour Party at last inter-The South vened with a question. The Speaker, in disallowing the African question, merely took the cue of Mr. Arthur Henderson, who some time ago declared that the British Labour Party should not intervene, even to the extent of making a protest, because South Africa possesses Home Rule and has Labour Members in the Dominion Parliament. Awful, indeed, was the occasion when eight of the miners were sentenced to death, and declared that the man who had turned King's evidence against them was the one who had committed murder for which they were to be hung.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S reputation for The Curzon-Gounaris Cor-that he saw the Curzonrespondence. Gounaris correspondence which he has since retracted will make no difference to it.

We repeat that there is good ground for impeaching Lloyd George and Lord Curzon in regard to the Greco-Turkish war. Such a State trial would make excellent propaganda. We recommend the Labour Party to take the matter up. For ourselves, we find all Capitalist Governments guilty—we are out to impeach the system.

DREADNOUGHT £500 FUND.

Brought forward, £371 13s. 04d. H. J. Smith and J. Melvin, 2/-; Mrs. and the Misses Frisby, 15/-; Mr. Thompson, 5/-

ESPERANTO.

LESSON I.

Nouns.

1. Look round a room and name any of the objects in it, for example: Cambro, a room; muro, a wall; bildo, a picture; fajro, a fire (pronounced like "fire-oh"); tablo, a table; piano, a piano; libro, a book; seĝo ("say*-jo"), a chair; sofo, a

* "Say" pronounced short, not drawled. Note that all the words in the list end in o. The ending o means something which is.

Grammatically, we say that a noun ends in o.

The English letter a before a noun is not translated: tablo means a table; muro, a wall,

The is translated by la. La tablo, the Use all the words with la before them, and

Here are some further examples of nouns: Glaso, a glass (tumbler); flago, a flag; papero, paper (the material); Komunisto, a Communist; Socialisto, a Socialist; telefono, telephone; omnibuso, an omnibus; persono, a person; homo, a human being; Komunismo, Adjectives.

Bela ('bay-lah,'' with first syllable shortened), beautiful; granda, big, great; brila, bright, brilliant; alta, high; ruĝa ('roojah''), red; nova, new; bona, good; varma, warm; verda ('' vair-dah''), green.

2. Use the above words with the nouns in

1, and translate, e.g.: bela ĉambro,

A word ending in a (e.g., bela) denotes a quality possessed by the o-word, that is by the noun. Cambro, a room; granda ĉambro, a big room; alta ĉambro, a high (lofty) room; nova sofo, a new sofa

You can't speak of bela, granda, etc., without reference to something that exists—that is to some noun. The words ending in a tel us what quality the noun has, or what kind of thing (or person) the noun is.

Words ending in a are called adjectives.

Translate a beautiful piano; a new piano; a red book, the red book; a high collar; the bright fire; a new picture; the big room.

La ruĝa flago; la verda flago; nova omni-uso. La standardo de la Popolo estas ruĝa. (The standard of the People is red.)

ON NEWSPAPER READERS.

By a fluke of misfortune, I find myself in a newspaper office in a country town. Every Friday, when the weekly production lays before me, my Socialist soul sheds its tears of sorrow and regret. For another week has passed by, and my energies have been devoted to—what? Down every column of news is writ large: "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity." The spirit of capitalism lies re-vealed in every news item and in every advertisement.

The circulation of the country newspaper does not rest on sensational stunts. It is names, names, names, that tell. The appeal which is delighted to furnish the details of the most trivial happenings, and responds gladly to the flare of the newspaper column which prints in calculating fashion particu-lars of marriages, deaths, and funerals, and any item which affords any excuse for mentioning someone's name

With tongue in his cheek, or with the utmost nonchalance, the reporter will "write up" a garden fete or a concert, a church social, or an accident, as though they were the most important things under the sun. He will furnish his columns of "copj - f Lord So-and-So's or Lady What's-her-name's nildish remarks about anything or no hing at profit.

II. He has no difficulty in filling the The olumns; but having filled them-what then? The reporter, however, is of small importance compared with his readers. He is but bourgeois gold-nibbed pen.

ne-his readers are legion. He supplies a need "; without that demand he would not in his present trivial capacity, exist. The problem is the psychology of the readers, with which is bound up the capitalist system Present-day journalism is an integral part of he system; it is one very illuminating espression of the spirit of Capitalism.

The continuance of our present economic system depends in a large measure on the mouflage of fundamental issues. The Press the most excellent means of distributing mental poison-gas. It is not necessary that the Press should indulge in untruths, nor even distortions. Its function is merely to report the happenings of events important to Capitalism—that is, the little things that occupy much time and matter least. If the asses continue to be interested in sport, blic-house activities, the social function church and chapel, and so on, they are not going to trouble with fundamental economic and social issues. True, the inexorable facts f the economic situation will from time to time assert themselves in the most emphatic fashion, but as Socialists and Communists we desire to accelerate the recognition of the importance of these factors. How to obtain this recognition increasingly is our problem How to obtain

Those newspaper readers with their limited outlook, their variety, their capitalistic ideo logy, are our potential Communists. It is necessary to capture their imagination, to bring home to them a vision of something that will mean more to them than their preent interests and present hopes.

First, it seems to me, it is necessary to make them realise the horror and the servility that Capitalism means. Secondly made real to them a vision of what might and what will be, something worth living for,

and, if necessary, worth dying for.

For patriotism, we have to substitute a love one's fellows that will demand and give to all alike and expect service from all. stead of imperialism, we tender an internationalism that breaks down geographical and racial barriers. An association of free groups of peoples, made up of free individuals, who have gladly dropped their individualism, but not their personality, in the collective good.

Capitalism has not captured the imagina-tion of the people; it has merely imposed itself upon them. Communism will make its appeal of love, and because it possesses a soul will prove stronger in the long run than a system based on profits first, last, and all SALVE!

CAPITALISM DRUGS BABIES WITH OPIUM. Sufferings of Indian Children under Imperial

Rule Described by Women Inspectors. The Bombay 'Socialist'' publishes the following comments upon the report of the woman inspector appointed in connection with maternity insurance for Indian women

The report of the lady doctor unwittingly and unconsciously furnishes damning evidence against capitalist management of industry and capitalist society. Landlordism with its housing apparatus exists not for social good, but for pure and simple profiteering. The poor workers find themselves housed—or 'stabled ''-not because they are human beings, but because they must preserve their labour power to produce more profits for the employers. The report reveals how the wage-woman is forced to poison her child with opium because she must needs run away to work in the factory. Capitalism cares nothing for the child, but only the wage-earning woman and the profits she can produce for him. Capitalism mourns the loss of an opium-poisoned child, and bourgeois economists cry over increasing infant mortality, not for love of humanity, but because they are thus deprived of prospective labourer-produced

The lady doctor has carried her investigations with bourgeois specs on her nose, and has made recommendations perhaps with a

The motive behind the recommendations is to increase profits. Better housing is required because "the results would lead not merely to physical efficiency of the operative but to a profit from his output better oil to an engine and protect it with a house your human machine better that it may

December 16, 1922.

The report clearly shows how to the worker no family exists that can give him joy and rest. The wage-woman is wage-earner, and at the same time household drudge. Society has saddled the woman with the necessity working for her living, but has not relieved her of her household drudgery and bondage. Society claims ten hours of the life to work for it, but does not take the ing her from her position of a husband's slave

A property of the capitalist, a property of the husband (himself an unhappy persecuted drudge) and a guardian of the child; it is no wonder if the woman's lot is the worst and if the physique of the new generation degenerates

Six Families in a Room.

The lady doctor says:
"In outside chawls many occupy the ground floor, or basement of a building, and here the plinth of the chawl is sometimes from 12 inches below the plinth of the road This leads to an impossible condition in the In outside chawls I have several times verified the overcrowding of rooms. In one room, on the second floor of a chawl measuring some 15 ft. by 12 ft., I found six families living. Six separate ovens on the floor led me to observe this. On enquiry, I ascertained that the actual number of adults and children living in this room was thirty. Bamboos hung from the ceiling, over which, at night, clothes and sacking were hung to partition each family allotment. Three out of six of the women who lived in this room were shortly expecting babies. When I questioned the district nurse, who accompanied me, as to how she would arrange for privacy in this room, I was shown a small space some 3 ft. by 4 ft., which was usually screened off for the purpose. The atmosphere at night of that room, filled with smoke from the six ovens, and other impurities, would certainly physically handicap any woman and infant, both before and after delivery. This was one of many such rooms I saw. In the rooms in the basement of a house conditions were far worse. Here daylight with difficulty pene-trated, sunlight never; and sunlight, we know, is inimical to the life of most pathogenic

In this connection, I would urge upon the authorities to bring to the notice of millowners the very pressing necessity of endea-vouring to arrange for the housing of ther operatives in small chawls. From every point of view to the owner and to the operative the results would lead, not only to physical efficiency of the operative but to a profit in the output of both.

Opium for the Baby.

I once saw a child of six years bringing an infant brother to its mother, and this child is no one to bring the child it is given buffalo's milk undiluted at home, or I should say as diluted by the milkman, or it is given or to keep it quiet till the mother returns at

A creche built inside the main precincts would do away with all this harmful treatment of the infant.

Women operatives are given at most of the mills, two or three passes to enable them to go to feed their infants. The majority of these operatives live within a radius of one to two miles from the mill, and the disadvantages here can be understood. The woman addition to standing at her work for the greater part of ten hours has to walk to her creating a state of fatigue which must inevit-

Ireland Unfree.

Rory O'Connor, Liam Mellowes, and two others taken in the Four Courts and held soners four months, all hung on a single morning!

Your sons are dying fast, Kathleen na Houlihan. Many, indeed, have fallen since connolly and Pearse were shot in 1916.

On the hangman's scaffold, your sons are ended to-day, old Kathleen. The felon's death is a measure of harsher vengeance; but the insult lends them only an added glory among the faithful.

Folk may say what they will of your rebel sons. Kathleen: their changed: To be free of an Empire; to be free of the suzerainty of a King.

The cautious men of the Labour Party, the white-livered politicians of the Liberal schools, the calculating wire-pullers and small-souled climbers of all parties, look in a shocked amazement, Kathleen, upon your ardent sons, casting away life and its cares with a tempestuous zeal—Shelley, the poet, the singer of rebellion, gentler than any of these who blame them, would have understood and championed your sons, could he but send his

Those who are executed secure by their deaths your triumph, Kathleen na Houlihan; or by their deaths they most surely keep alive your spirit in Irish breasts. Armed repression nd the smiting of superior forces always provided the school in which the rebels who fight

We, who have broken away from the antique creeds of Churches, and overstepped the arriers of nationalism, who work for the wiping out of classes, and the Communist broth ood of mankind, we regard the unflinching stand of these Republicans and ask: How re they truly emancipated from the grip of superstition, prejudice and conventions? How r are they ready for the equalitarian society, in which there shall be neither master, or servant, neither money, nor wages, and the fear of poverty shall be unknown?

How far, we ask, will this struggle advance the emancipation of the exploited class Ireland? How far will the idealism engendered by this heroic struggle against imerialism carry its fighters forward to a realisation that there will never be an end to the ases of civil war until the social classes have disappeared?

Whilst we watch and wait, often despondent at the slow growth of the basic social movement towards Communism, you with your burning zeal go crashing forward—reckless of all except your cherished goal.

oly result in the inefficiency of her work and oreby the general output.

Should the infant be brought to the mill relative, it runs the risk in inclement eather of acquiring a severe chill. The ajority of deaths of infants recorded was due diseases of the respiratory organs.

'In close connection with the subject is e universal usage of opium in Bombay. nety-eight per cent. of the infants born to omen industrial workers have opium ad-inistered to them. They give it in various rms, the crude opium or in a mixture called bala goli, which is composed of opium, affron and cloves mixed. This is used as a ancy and childhood; and as the highest per-entage of infant mortality is attributable to eases of the respiratory system, and opium great necessity for the control of the sale of opium, which is a poison, is indicated. pium also produces much of the 'atrophy' group of diseases met with amongst the inants of Bombay

The Overworked Mother.

The dietaries of workers are not ideal. Poverty in some cases, and want of knowledge of nourishing foods, lead to a poor physical development. Added to these is the nerve and tissue waste on the part of the women of household She is a wage-earner as well the domestic drudge of the family. She awake before dawn, when she washes the thes for the family, cooks the food, attends the children, and then goes to her duties the mill. At recess time she comes back, rhaps to feed the infant, prepares her hus nd's and the children's meals, and then turns to her industrial duties. In the evenshe has to come back to cook the evening eal, wash up, and keep in readiness every thing for the next morning.

COMMUNISM VERSUS CAPITALISM. A SIMPLE EXPLANATION. By James T. Bellamy.

The term Communism is one of those in ommon use, the general significance of which

Communism is a system of society in which the necessities of life-i.e., food, clothes, and shelter-will be produced for common and public use; and where each will work for all, and all for each.

bad, and some people do not hesitate to declare them mad.

In studying social and industrial history, the student learns that the rapidity of the advance of man in evolution since the six-teenth century is due to the fact that, since then, scientific knowledge has been more and more applied to the means of production, in the form of machinery. We know from official statistics and logical reasoning that man is able to produce more than is necessary to keep him in a good state of health. America, with but 5 per cent. of the world's population, can, and does, produce 32 per

ent. of the food supply of the world.

Therefore, if man is able, by the help of machinery, to produce more than sufficient for his needs, why then, the Communist asks, poverty, destitution, and starvation exist?

The answer is, because we are slaves to the machines which we, the working class, oper-Man has now evolved to a position whereby nature's resources can only be approached by and through the machine. The machine at present is owned and controlled by a few persons, who will only allow the machine to be used when a profit can be obtained. Therefore the means of sustenance can be reached only at the command of a few, the owning capitalist class.

Since man and machine can produce more than is used by the human race, what becomes

The surplus product of the machine (Boots, corn, clothes, etc.) are stored in warehouses until the warehouses are full; then, by the will of the owners of the machine, it ceases function. The machine having ceased, workers to operate it are not required, and a large number of men and women find themselves unemployed and hungry in a land of olenty. They are destitute actually because they have helped to produce more than was

The producer remains in this precarious ommon use, the general significance of which rarely understood by the majority of those diminish. Therefore the machines which, to a certain extent, are the cause of unemploy- the South and the West.

ment, have become a curse as well as a blessing to humanity. All this is due to the fact that all men do not own and control the machines and the raw material employed.

In London, one of the richest cities in the world, and a home of industry, there are peron the verge of starvation. Hundreds of individuals can be seen nightly sleeping on the seats of the Thames Embankment and in St. Martin-in-the-Fields Church

NEWS FROM IRELAND. ECONOMIC.

By Economic Section.

The lot of the average Irish proletarian is just as miserable as ever. The bosses of Dublin are about to launch a big attack in the nature of an all-round cutting-down in the cost of labour. The lock-out weapon will be employed first to weaken the forces of Labour. The Dublin Chamber of Commerce a month ago had a four days' sitting to plan this big offensive. The Labour fakirs, through their acquaintance with the lordly den of thieves in Dame Street, knew of this plotting, yet it did not seem to trouble them. They did not warn the workers to prepare for the coming wage war. Old Liberty Half, with its fond memories of bygone days, is now a seat of reactionaries and a family circle hunting for £8 per week cushy jobs. "The man with the secret racehorse," otherwise known as Snub Pollard, could not deny this. otherwise

Last Sunday night, in that once dear old uilding, fellow-worker Mortishead delivered a lecture on the Free State Constitution, and declared it was " more democratic than that of a Soviet Government."

Alas! for such silly fossilised utterances of these respectable Civil Servants, whose pet hobby is Guild Socialism!

POLITICAL.

The Leinster House Debating Society still continues to function under armed protection of Free State troops, assisted by the C.I.D. and the police forces. The latest act has staged on December 6th, when the "elected representatives of the people 'took the oath of allegiance 'to His Gracious Majesty George V., his heirs and successors. less to say, the Labour Members did not best tate to swallow this declaration of servility. A few weeks ago the I.R.A. Chief of Staff the Murder Bill were in danger, if the secret The persons referred to failed to comply with The result was that tw ties, Sean Hales and Radraig O'Maille, walked into the "gap of danger." As a reprisal for these executions, Rory O'Connor, Liam Mellowes, Joe McKelvey, and Richard Barrett were foully done to death in Mountjoy Gaol the following morning.

ARMY NEWS.

The soldiers of the Republic (to us the Republic of Pearse and Connolly) have had a hard time recently in their endeavours to cope with the activities of those mutineers from the Republic known as "The People's Army," but these difficulties they have over-come, though it took time and patience to do it. The murder of Republican soldiers taken in arms still continues to receive the blessings of the farmers, whilst those Irish disciples of the Golden Calf, the Bishops, are silent. The effects of the recent recoil are somewhat dangerous to those who try to enforce discipline. Desertions are wholesale, sales of arms are numerous, and the punishments meted out in the Free State Army for such offences cannot be equalled by any army in the world

The notorious Frank Leeling has been committed to a lunatic asylum for shooting six of his comrades. Such is his reward for services rendered to his Irish capitalist masters.
When Commandant Bolster's services are no longer required, his reward will be similar.

The Republican situation is good; most of the successful operations are taking place in

6/6

Your Trade Union representatives have seen Mr. Bonar Law, British miners; that gentleman has admitted that your conditions are grievously bad; but he has definitely re fused to do anything whatsoever to help you You must shift for yourselves, as iar as the Prime Minister is concerned.

How did your leaders take the rebuff, fellow-workers?

Lying down, as usual. Your leaders are stricken with the illness called "brotherly love of Capitalism." Your leaders do not wish to do anything that would injure the trade of the country. Moreover, they are cautious men: they have an eye to Trade Union funds.

Your leaders have only one suggestion to make: they look for an inquiry. They liked the Sankey inquiry so much that they would like another, just like that. Think what an opportunity it provided for making speeches!

"Nothing came of the inquiry," did you say, fellow-worker?"

Quite so: and nothing will come of the payt

Quite so; and nothing will come of the next inquiry, should it ever come to pass.

In the days before the Sankey inquiry, fellow-workers, you were very proud of your Miners' Federation of Great Britain. Some of you even expected it to take the lead in emancipating the workers of this country from Capitalism and wage slavery; but, on the whole, you were cautious men, like your leaders, you believed in taking a small step at a time. You decided to begin with the nationalisation of the mines. Your leaders were supposed to be with you in that: they put forward a cautious nationalisation measure and said you were prepared to go on strike

'ilen the Government granted the Sankey Then the Government granted the Sankey burley, and your leaders made speeches, and you were delighted by that. You did not strike; you waited—till bad trade came. Then your employers called the lock-out, and your leaders led you to defeat. Do not blame the leaders, however, fellow-workers; you should not have left the fight to them.

Surely you realise, fellow-workers, that it an inquiry could do nothing for you in the days when the employers greatly desired you not to strike, and when the coal industry was booming, an inquiry cannot help you now.

If you want anything from the capitalists, fellow-workers, you must prove your fellow-workers, you must prove your power to take it. Why are you so slow in learning

Your leaders know that an inquiry will do nothing: they only ask for it to keep your attention occupied. They know that in times of bad trade you can get no more than a bare subsistence within the capitalist system, and that if you want more you must be prepared to smash Capitalism and run the industries on a Communist basis.

Your leaders do not want that. Your organisations are not constructed to do that. If you mean business, you must start from the bottom.

THE SEARCHLIGHT

SPICE. Women and War.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the leader of the non-militant Suffragists of U.S.A., was one of the American jingoes. The New York 'Freeman' makes the following apt criticism of the canting propaganda of Mrs. Catt and her school, of which the like is to be found in this country also.

"If anything were needed to convince us that Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt is mistaken in assuming that women could make a better showing than men in handling the world's Mrs. Catt's own observations would Speaking recently before an audience of German women, Mrs. Catt remarked: 'The men of the world have made such a mess of things that no one yet knows how it will come through '; a criticism which comes with poor grace, especially before such an audience, from a woman who did all in her power to help make a mess of things by throwing her influence, and that of the organisation or women of which she was president, on the side of the war against Germany."

CHRISTMAS BOOKS FROM THE "DREADNOUGHT" SHOP.

Fables and Cartoons by Joseph Southall, -. (A few autograph copies, 3/-.) Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, illustrated by Herbert Cole, 2/-. Hans Anderson's Fairy Tales, illustrated. Charles Kingsley:

Jack London: John Barleycorn
The Scarlet Plague William Morris: News from Nowhere Romances, etc. George Meredith: Ordeal of Richard Feverel The Egoist
Diana of the Crossways
The Tragic Comedians, etc. The Egoist Milton's Poems 3/6 George Moore: onfessions of a Young Man Esther Waters
Evelyn Innes, etc. William Blake: Illustrations to the Book of Job The Marriage of Heaven and Hell: and a Song of Liberty, etc.

Brestead's Ancient Society and the Early World, illustrated Edward Carpenter: The Promised Land: A Dream of a People; Deliverance, and other works

by Carpenter
ucer's Canterbury Tales Dante's Robinson Crusoe
Dickens' Christmas Books Gerhardt Hauptmann: The Doll's House Ghosts and other other Plays, etc. Richard Jefferies: The Life of the Fields The Open Air, etc.

Human, all too human, etc. 3/6 Ernest Rhys: Fairy Gold, illustrated by Herbert Romain Rolland: Rosetti Poems 2/6 Seven Lamps of Architecture Stones of Venice, etc. (3 vols.) (each) 2/6

Olive Schreiner: Woman and Labour
Dreams, etc.
Bernard Shaw: 4/6 Press Cuttings
Man and Superman, etc. 6/-Upton Sinclair: The Spy The Jungle The Jungle
The Book of Life, etc.
They Call Me Carpenter

2/6

The Time Machine
The War of the Worlds 5/- and
New Worlds for Old, etc. Walt Whitman:

Swinburne: oems and Ballads Songs of the Springtides, etc.

Travels, illustrated by

The Darling
The Dust, etc.
The Lady with the Dog, etc. Tolstoi: Master and Man, and other Parables and Tales Resurrection 2/6 Oscar Wilde:

Maxim Gorki: In the World

My Childhood Germinal: Master and Man Send for our Catalogue: supplied free on application.

Second-hand books, including "The Art of Creation," by Edward Carpenter; "The Anarchists," by E. A. Vizetelly; "The Spirit of Russia," by Mazaryk. Prices on application.

THAMES.
Thou'rt coming nearer, monster, with thy roar,
Awful creation of man's fertile brain.

Thy chimney bows beneath the sturdy bridge. White gleams thy foam in the surrounding grey.

Pacing the deck, in sadness walks a slave,
Who's left his loves and mournful puts to sea
For solitary weeks of yearning sore.
Pass on, O monster, in the silent night.

The far remembrances of other days Hover upon thy banks, and the slow barge The solitary boatman moves with patient oars Recalls a past that long hath fled away, O London, with thy garish life and strange,
Thy whirl of commerce and thy starving poor.
E. S. P.

CHRISTMAS SALE AND DANCE.

Saturday, December 16th, at 3 p.m.,

Builders' Labourers' Hall,

84 Blackfriars Road

(five minutes from Ludgate Circus). Concerts, Games, Pictures by Communist Artists.

Christmas Presents to suit all tastes and pockets.

Books a speciality. Useful and fancy goods, cigars, cigarettes, sweets, cakes, etc., etc.

Refreshments at Popular Prices.

Speech by Sylvia Pankhurst at 8 p.m. Dancing 9 to 11 p.m.

Admission by Programme, 3d.

COMMUNIST ESPERANTO GROUPS.

Manchester and District meets every Friday, 8 p.m., at Labour College, 32A Dale Street, Manchester. Secretary, H. B. Robinson, 10 Jane Street, Eccles New Road, Salford, Manchester.

COMMUNIST WORKERS' MOVEMENT. Central London Group meets Thursdays, 152 Fleet Street, 8 p.m. For Group business, 9 to 10 p.m. Speakers' class and study circle open, to non-members, taken by Sylvia Pankhurst. Secretary, S. Cahill, 60 Limes Grove, Lewisham, S.E. 18.

THE ALL-WORKERS' UNION OF REVOLUTIONARY WORKSHOP COMMITTEES. For all particulars, write Secretary, c/o "Workers' Dreadnought," 152 Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4.

Send for the Catalogue of the "Dreadnought" Publishers and Bookshop. It will be supplied free on application to 152 Fleet Street, E.C. 4.

Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst at 152 Fleet Street, London, E.C. 4, and printed by S. Corio (T.U.) at 10 Wine Office Court, Fleet Street, London.