The Lesnes squatters of the Lesnes Estate in Abbey Wood pulled off a stunt as part of their ongoing occupation that'll go down in history, and against Bow Arts Guardian company no less. Joining a gaggle of prospective guardians on a tour of the estate, they hid in a cupboard waiting for the agents to leave and claim the building. Caught in the act, they stood their ground and saw off threats of the police to claim the 4th building of the protest campaign. Fittingly they've named it the Miss-take.

Brizzle Sizzles.

Between mass producing ring-pull necklaces and airbrn'g out caravans we keep ourselves fairly busy down Bristol way. Roadside picnic anyone? The beginning of winter saw the eviction of 100+ homes from Dovercourt rd site by Goram Homes, a subsidiary of the council. Goram Homes chair is Aman Dalvi, who has been listed as a director for such honest companies as Kensington & Chelsea Tenant Management Organisation and Peabody Trust. Need we say more.

On the plus side we got a good winter out of a Bristol shitty council building south of the river (Yeah we got one of them as well), with regular events, benefit parties and bike wars. Spring saw some crew who apparently got hooked on black mould take a soggy pub with big ideas keep yer ears peeled. In March there was a solidarity demo outside the Cardiff probation centre for Toby Shone, and throughout the year there's new and ongoing kill the bill prisoner trials. Updates, support and details for letters can be found at <https://bristolabc.org/prisoners/>. Bristol ABC has been asking for financial support to keep doing what they do in case anyone reading this is looking for any reason to throw a benefit party... And a new Bristol No Borders group has been set up, with an anti raids phone tree: 07464310676 on signal/whatsapp!"

POPLAR PLAY IS HERE TO STAY!

Another county resistance gone well! Squatters and comrades were heard barricading and banner creating deep into the night, as they prepared to battle county court scum the next day. Many laughs, skillshares and stories were shared as people waited for the sun to come up and the bailiffs to arrive. When the scum finally arrived they were shaking in their boots at the sheer amount of support seen - they were shitting themselves so hard they left soon after, not before desperately calling on the support of one lanky cop, who, much like his piggy mates, go scared and left. Thanks to all our friends who came, this could not have happened without you! Fuck the bailiffs, fuck the council - poplar play is here to stay!!

WHO GAVE GMP ARTISTIC LICENCE?

Riot cops with electrified shields raided a manchester squat & nicked everybody inside with no reason given to the poor squatters who'd just settled down for a kip after work. Support was incredible as friends waited threw the night at the squat & copshop. The following morning they learned the reason for the raid from the local paper, a few broken windows of genocide supporting corporations in town. As there was clearly no evidence the pigs decided to create their own, chucking paint on people's stuff and then just to be petty they threw bins full of rubbish in their bed & ripped up a cute acab cat collage. oh yeah... and for community engagement they punched a passerby who they wrongly presumed to be a squatter. GMPs intimidation will not stop our support for Palestine!

ACAB!!!!

P.U.F.s Been Magic, Bang On.

Persons Unknown Festival kicked off to a wicked start with the Friday cabaret show, which set the scene for a weekend of pure fucking madness. Set in an old theatre in the depths of Chorlton, the NFA community went all out with a multi-stage extravaganza filled with food, fun and fat rigs galore. Many workshops were had and many bands were moshed to in this three day spectacle. Massive shoutout to the diy queer scene of manchester and everyone who helped make this happen. Squat the world!!!

WHILE WE REST-U-A-RANTING!

In typical style the press have been putting out anti-squatter stories in the run up to the election, this time with a culinary theme. They're angry that squatters have dared to live in marco piere white's old steak & pizza place, indignant that "They also have a dog that's the size of a horse" and furious that squatters made a home in princess Diana's favourite restaurant (without even knowing it was her favourite restaurant!) and one of us had the cheek to have a nap WHILE WEARING A HAT! in what used to be Gordon Ramsey's restaurant. How disgraceful!!!!

UNI-FIED RESISTANCE

We've lost count but there's LOADS of universities around the county in occupation, demanding that their university cut ties with companies and institutions involved in the Palestinian genocide. In Manchester, pigs that came to evict part of the occupation were swiftly met with a crowd so big that they had to retreat down the street and abandon their plan. It's amazing to see the collective strength of students, homeless & local people coming together. Get down there!

Fuck Corporate Pride but always support a Rebel Dyke!

This year Dyke march came back to London bigger and better and with its very own squat block! Transfriendly and very hot in sweating leather. Big approvals from famous ex squat heroes rebel dykes for our squat the lot banners and if anyone needs a big queer squat motivation then watch the Rebel dykes documentary with histories of radical fetish squatting in Brixton!

For current inspiration, a group from Trans kids deserve better climbed up and occupied a ledge at NHS englands headquarters. Sending a clear message 'We are not pawns for your politics'

We don't think they're cill-y, Absolute ledge-nds!

WE LOVE OUR SHOUT OUT

IN THE DAILY RAIL!

A 'Squatters of London Action Paper' has been taped to the gate of the York & Albany hotel and gastropub in central London, glorifying previous victories in the 'epic battle' against police and encouraging prospective illegal tenants to join their ranks.

The poster also spoke of 'solidarity with Palestine', using flags and 'beautiful banners' as a method of taunting police.

HAPPY 30th BIRTHDAY
CRITICAL MASS

Recruitment and brainstorming for practical squatters.

Would you like to hold practical squatters evenings or got some handy skills to share? Back in the days it used to be held twice a week all over the place, now we can barely keep up with once a month. The dream would be to make the events way more practical and start making info materials.

So come for a meetup if you are curious to get involved or if you want to start your own group, the more the merrier!

Date: Tuesday 6 of July with meetup at Freedom building in Whitechapel 6 PM.

If anyone is interested in the legal side of things, even if you start from zero. ASS the squatters advisory service also needs people. A great way to learn and help other squatters. Contact ASS to get started!

Remember we build our own community and that's how we beat greedy landlord scum!
