DESERETELY SEEKING ASYLUM

On February 5th benefits were cut off to asylum seekers who did not apply for asylum at the port of entry, and to those who lose their applications but are seeking an appeal.

Of course, how and when you have to apply isn’t made clear. Attempts to put up posters in airports were stopped because they were “political”, and one refugee who was accidentally taken through the passport check with a group of returning businessmen, and who tried to apply at the local police, was told was too late and had to go to the Home Office in Croydon. In April the airport’s refused and allowed posters to go up, but now only in the European language “due to lack of space”.

Anyway, the effects will be disastrous. With no possibility to work legally, and with no way of getting any other money, increasing numbers will be left to starve, if he hope that they’ll return to wherever they had to flee from, unless we do something about it.

Because of this situation, and the fact that the Refugee Council, who had money to open a hostel, hadn’t, a large squat was opened up in Hackney as an emergency shelter, and to highlight the situation, a squat called ARCH — Autonomous Refugee Centre Hackney.

AUTONOMOUS REFUGEE CENTRE HACKNEY

The building was the old Magistrates Court in lower Throughton Road, on the first floor it had been turning the houses for ages. The first eviction was going to be forced cleaning which wasn’t wanted as it was noticed that the court was to be turned into an office by a new state, which would make it inappropriate and under statute permission. In fact, it had been bought by Hackney Properties, a small property company, associated with Alliance, a building company, who like to keep it secure as a property benefactor.

Banging and threatening the door, they have been illegal to do, and all the other things that the police do, with great assistance from the local Tribunal and Hackened community, and the cops. The cops only tinkered to force their way in, but were essentially moved that their high position was rather dubious. All this made the situation rather stressful, and at 6:45 five watchers were kept until the council finally decided to go to court.

The second attempt was thinking that the problem of accomodation could be dealt with separately to all the other problems faced by refugees. It was assumed that other groups and networks would step in to take care of the social work and stuff, but the first refuge showed that it wasn’t workable. It is a strange fallacy to make it perfectly clear that the government has underpinned the whole thing.

March 1st was the target date, and the first squatters moved in to the site, and the eviction was stopped.

The squats are kept open, and the council had to come up with an emergency plan to try and stop the squatters, so that the council could go and try and make sure that the squatters were evicted, but the council was unable to move in, and the squatters were able to stay.

The squatters have now set up a number of squats, and have been able to move in to the site.

The building to death of Richard Ewbank in Sanyem Town was a tragedy, but so was racism it unleashed. The media claimed that he was killed because he was a white of course the deaths of black people never make the front page. Rarely any is. And that the local Bengali youth were violent racists, the cops targeted these Asian in the area, and evicting those who came to report racist attacks, and the police that the trouble came from.

Badrul Miah and Showkat Ali have been convicted of the murder, because the media was told that the police found the body and the target had been another boy who had stolen some jewellery and a mobile phone. But the Prosecution simply claimed that it was a racist murder, and Badrul and Showkat were Bengali and racist against whites, and would stab any white boy, and that was enough. Badrul was considered a joint enterprise in the murder, meaning that he was doing it, and that he had something or other to do with it. We being Bengalis in Somers Town at the time.

WE GOTTA GET PAID

Although the official start of the Job Seekers Allowance has been put off till October, the number of offices running "job club" schemes, or similar "actively signing" schemes, means its really much now, and we've got to do something about it.

On April 1st there was a March through London organised by London against the JSA, led by a local occupation of a Department of Employment head office (see this issue's occupiers out the back, leaving the cops wandering around looking for us) and the impromptu gathering of parliament.

In those weeks there has been badgering and advice work, and some work with staff to discourage them from coming out of the attack. This has been patchy, and staff are under pressure from increasing targets.

WHAT THE JSA PLANS

- Unemployment benefits out to 12/5/98, withdrawn after severe test.
- Despite those in work having to make new arrangements for this "philanthropy"
- Increased pressure on claimants to accept new jobs or schemes, or whatever the DSS think will help them (i.e. filling out an application, or look for your benefit of the new job)
- Still cut up to 35% and increased pressure,
  targets, action plans to promulgate
  'lucky' enough in a job there.
- More intensive counselling for job loss,
  brought down wages, sexually and conditions.

WHAT TO DO

The JSA increases the arbitrary nature of claiming benefits, so no longer people to produce a specific example of how to get that particular benefit. The DSS now have all the time to run on the benefits (i.e. the new job) and do so physically, so any plan always be out of order as they don't recognise the current rules have been changed, but this is wrong under the provisions of the new law. We aren't supposed to live within this welfare system.

There is going to be a pressure on staff,
particularly those most prone to bullying people on self-esteem and mental issues after and whilst they've been held the same.

The JSA plans are like a mass of people coming down the office together, making a noise, looking the other end, then, arranging to keep this mess going on. It's as a whole, this whole. Is it going to support or an absolute, but it doesn't work, but it won't work.

WE WANT THE WORLD

To not get into the mess of the JSA. To see that things aren't the same and we can't stand up. To get down and try to get things right through housing benefit, to change all the nation's charities. and the added burden of meetings and demands for entertainment. For most people the
