'An Injury to One an INJURY to All.'

NOL 3, NO. 106. Registered at the General Post-office, Sydney, for Transmission by Jenuary 27, 1917. ONE PENNY.

Release Agitation.

SYDNEY.

Things in Sydney are now well under way in connection with the Defence and Release Committee.

Committee.

All the available speakers are working overtime, and we cannot supply the requests from the different country districts to send along speaker, but the campaign is well organised, and we are doing our best

This week end there are six speakers in

This week and next week more will be out.

Motions of protest are rolling in to our office, and financial support is coming along.

If the workers will only stick to their promises, the boys inside will soon be breathing a different atmosphere.

BARRIER NOTES.

The New Year started well in Broken Hill by releasing five of the imprisoned agitators. A mass meeting was hold in the Central Reserve, where the culprits gave their ex-periences of jail life.

Before the meeting closed a motion was passed demanding the release of the 12 men in Sydney.

A combined Release Committee has been done.

t is up to the rest of the working class of Asstralia to be prepared for take a stand with the boys in the Hill, and demand the release of the imprisoned men:

BROKEN HILL. F. W. McLaughlin, one of the agitators im-prisoned in Broken Hill over the conscription struggle, at a recption accorded him on his release that he did not regret his experience in gaol. "Experience teaches" was an old saying. Gaols were built by the working class for the Capitalist class, to be filled by the working class, of course. When one arrived at the prison, he was dumped inside the gates, and handed over to the prison authorities. That cleared the police, stalwart men who did nothing towards the world's production. He was presented with canvas trousers, shirt of a color pecular to gaolbirds, vest and coat to suit, and a straw decker made in gaol. The whole turnout, in fact, was the product of prison labor. It was a cheap way of learning a trade. In this garb one wondered if he was the same man. He was a new roos new back yard, with nothing to crow rooster in a the same man. He was a new rooster, in a new back yard, with nothing to crow about. The Governor put the prisoner through a rigid cross examination. One particular question was the address of the nearest relatives, which it was explained very necessary as "you might die on their hands." This was a wise precaution. You were so starved that you could pick up the wrinkles of your empty belly, and wipe the tears from your eyes with them. Routline, as explained in a article in them. Routine, as explained in an article in "Barrier Daily Truth" a few days ago, was lightly touched on. The principle industry was knitting socks. The institution was just what might be expected of capitalism. It was what might be expected of capitalism. short of a nerve-wrecking machine The inmates were made physical wrecks, and moral deterioration naturally followed. It was far better to have a man going round at night to see no harm came to them, than be in the trenches waiting for a bayonet. read an account of British attempts to squeich free speech up till 1831. The freedom of press free speech up till 1831. The freedom of press had been non-existent in those days. Did it exist now? We were no further advanced, but were stumbling back. Re-action was everywhere triumphant, and brute force supreme. It must come. Organised Labor was on its trial. There was only one possible hope for Labor in Australia—it lay in solidarity and vigilance.—"B. D. Truth."

SCARBOROUGH.

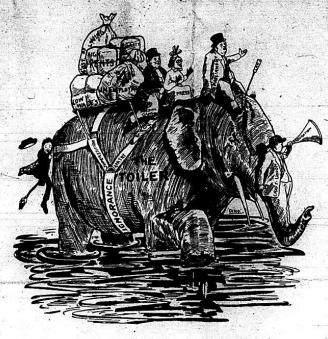

SCARBORUUM.

Things are going along well here. Good collection this week end for Defence Fund, and secretary will forward same shortly.

The miners here voted in favour of taking up a collection next pay, and good results are expected.

and donations are coming in. The pro along well. look bright. BENT AXLE.

Remember Long

THE NAME OF LONG BAY IS DESTINED TO BECOME FAMOUS IN THE ANNALS OF THE WORKING CLASS- NOT BECAUSE IT IS A PLEAS-URABLE SEA-SIDE RESORT; NOT BE CAUSE MANY HAPPY HOURS HAVE BEEN SPENT SURFING IN THE SALT Y SPRAY, BUT BECAUSE IN A STOUT AND SOLID BUILDING, STANDING BACK. ON THE MAINLAND, TWELVE. MEMBERS OF THE WORKING CLASS ARE NOW LANGUISHING BECAUSE THEY REMAINED LOYAL TO THEIR CLASS.

BEHIND IRON BARS AND IN A ROCK RIBBED FORTRESS, TWELVE GOOD MEN AND TRUE ARE NOW DRAGGING OUT THEIR MISERABLE LIVES.

THESE FIGHTERS FOR FREEDOM ARE NOW SUFFERING BECAUSE THEY DARED TO SPEAK FOR THEIR CLASS. THEY ARE LIVING IN MIS-ERY AND PAIN BECAUSE THEY WE RE LABOR AGITATORS. THEY NOW THE IN DURANCE VILE BECAUSE THEY HAD THE COURAGE TO OPPOSE THE INDUSTRIAL MAGNATES OF TH IS COUNTRY.

FELLOW-WORKERS! REMEMBER LONG BAY. REMEMBER THE FIGHT-ING SPIRITS WHO ARE OUT THERE. REMEMBER THE CELLS IN WHICH THEY SLEEP, AND THE DULL YARDS IN WHICH THEY LIVE.

FELLOW-UNINISTS! REMEMBER THESE MEN WERE YOUR MATES. THEY WORKED WITH YOU ON VARIOUS JOBS. THEY FOUGHT WITH YOU IN MANY FIGHTS AGAINST THE BOSS.

WILL YOU SEE THEM DIE IN A FELON'S PRISON? WILL YOU LIS-TEN TO THEIR APPEAL IN VAIN?

THEY ARE WAITING FOR THEIR CLASS TO SPEAK; THEY ARE WAIT-ING FOR THEIR MATES TO ACT.

MEMBERS OF THE WORKING CLASS! WHAT IS YOUR ANSWER!

Defence Agitation.

MELBOURNE.

At business meeting held Monday, Jan. 8th, credentials from delegates representing the following organisations were gone into: following organisations were gone into:— Amalgamated Carpenters' Union, Branch No. 1; Painters' and Decorators' Union, Federated Clerks' Union, South Melbourne P.L.C., Socialist Party of Victoria, Militant From-gandists of the Labor Party, Women's Polittics gandists of the Labor Party, women's rounce cal Association, No-Conscription Fellowship, Women's Social, Political and Industrial Council, Australasian Socialist Party, Women's Anti-Conscription Committee. Other communications re the appointing of dele-gates from other bodies at early date were received.

The next business was the election of officers in accordance with a circular sent out to the various unions to that effect. Mrs. Bella Lavender, M.A., delegate from the Women's Anti-Conscription Committee, was elected as president; Fellow-Worker Barber, of the L.W.W., elected vice-president; Mr. E. W. Carrd (Federated Clerks), elected as minute secretary and treasurer; Geo, H. Hill (1.W.W.), as secretary. An executive committee of three were elected; these were Mr. P. Hoyne (Mil. Propagadists), Jones (South The next business was the election of offi-P. Hoyne (Mil. Propagandists), Jones (Melbourne P.L.C.), and Stephens (Carpenters). (Amal.

It was decided to hold open air propaganda meetings in as many places as we could find speakers for. For the present we are intending to confine our work in that direction to Sundays on the Yarra Bank, and Friday even-ings. Might say that on Fridays we are holding three different centres, and have prospects of at least six such meetings every Friday evening within the next two weeks. In addition to these, we are also arrang-ing for meetings in the various town halls in working class suburbs, sending speakers to P.L.C. meetings, and also in front of various trade unions wherever we can contrive to do

Every member in the League is a live one, a worker—no dead wood. Just beginning to get things into shape for activity, and believe get things into shape for activity, and believe me we shall have something doing in Mel-bourne in the way of release agitation in the course of the next few weeks. Business meetings of the W.D. and R. League in future will be held in the Guild Hall, Swanston-street, on Tuesday evenings,

8 p.m. sharp.

GEO. H. HILL. *
Secretary W.D. and R. League.

MOUNT MORGAN.

F. W. Jackson has been busy at the Mount, and last Friday night spoke to a large and attentive audience in the main street. Per dealt with "Direct Action vorsus Legislation," and was well received.

F. W. Jackson has just finished a sories of four lectures, and as a result much prejudice and misunderstanding has been lifted. The local rebels are getting together, and will make their presence felt here before long. Over 300 "Direct Actions" were sold at the last meeting, and a collection of £1/5/.

The enthusiasm displayed here at all meetings speaks well for the future.

The I.W.W. local has been reorganised. and they are anxiously awaiting the arrival of an I.W.W. organiser.

is once again on the map and going strong, this time we hope to stay. -W.J.

SUBSCRIPTION BLANK

For
"DIRECT ACTION."
Enclosed please find P.O. for 4/, for which please send "Direct Action" for one year to the following address:—

FILL IT IN NOW!

Direct Action

WEEKLY OFFICIAL ORGAN of the INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD.

(Australian Administration Office: 403 Sussex Street, Sydney, Australia.

Subscriptions: 4/ per year; New Zealand, 6/ per year; Foreign, 8/ per year.

HEADQUARTERS, I.W.W. (Australia): 403 SUSSEX STREET, SYDNEY.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS: 164 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill., U.S.A.

INDUSTRIAL EFFICIENCY.

The question of industrial efficiency is the most important question that con-the most important question that confronts the working class to-day.

On the reply that is given, and this can only be revealed by the activities within the plants of industry, depends the future welfare of that class.

By submitting to the task that will be set, the workers will be signifying their willingness to be themselves, their children, and their childrens children, chartered to slavery from the beginning of life to the end-

The question can not be evaded, it must The question can not be evaded, it must be answered, not by one individual, nor by two, nor yet by a group. It needs the solid voice of the toilers of every country to say, "Dann you and your industrial efficiency scheme. Hard work never brought pleasure. Long hours never created leisure, and low wages never empty stomachs filled.

What is this industrial efficiency, and where can a manifestation of it he scen!

where can a manifestation of it be seen? I stand in one of the busy thoroughfares of a city and passing by me, I see an elegantly finished automobile. The car is one that it would be difficult to have surone that it would be difficult to have surpassed in comfort and finish. Its interior is highly upholstered, whilst outside the varnish acts as a mirror for every object that is passed. The ear runs smoothly, and with comfort to its occupants. Reclining in each of the seats is a representation of the height of fashion, all of them well dressed and apparently sumptuously fed individuals. As I look at the car, my mind swiffly turns to the several-industrial processes that has brought it to perfection. Not alone the ear, but the occupants, too, are included in the workshop activities, accountable for their present form of existence.

The material of the construction counts

The material of the construction counts for nothing. The wood-work is just timber that has grown in the forest. The iron and steel merely the extraction from the ore that was once buried in the earth, and the clothing, nothing but what once covered the backs of the beasts of the field. All of it common material. But out of it the marvellous production of an ele-gant motor car and four well dressed fops.

Hidden in that common material is the Hidden in that common material is the essence of achievement in every fibre is lodged the vitality of the toiler. Men and women have been at their several occupations, and I see in the vehicle as it passes the accumulated undistinguishable human energy of the workers.

Look upon whatever you will from the humble pair of shoes that you (the proletariat) or your children wear to the most fashionable production of headdress for the elite of society; from the jerry built shack to the artistically de-dress for the elite of society; from the ierry built shack to the artistically designed mansion; from the modest, nay, paltry breakfast table to the sumptuous dinner, the material counts for nothing. It is the directed energy of those who produce it that affords the presence of such things amongst us.

The timber in the motor car might instead have been converted into a table or

The timber in the motor car mign in-stead have been converted into a table or chairs for one who assisted in the mak-ing of the car. The varnish would have looked just as well upon the residence of one of the toilers. The iron and steel would have served a good purpose as pal-isadings or bedsteads for the homes of the many who need them. The clothing would just as well on you and yours as on those who wore it, and the occupants of the car would commit no greater crime than you do if they turned to and did their bit to earn their keep.

The purpose of the foregoing is not to make you believe that automobiles are not wanted, and should not be produced but what one should be conscious of is that the induction. that the industrial efficiency scheme of the master class determines that the more simple and more necessitous of material simple and more necessitous of material things are superfluous.

Is there not sufficient proof in knowing that too little labour energy is embodied in the making of the things required by the mass of the people both in quality and in numbers?

127

in numbers?

Take the labour that is expended in the mines in the extraction of the earths minerals. Instead of having this revealed to us in the requirements of those who toil in the mines; by-way of wholesome food for their expensive in seal house. in the mines, by way of wholesome food for their consumption, in good homes to shelter them; in the best of clothing for their comfort and in the other details that go to make life appreciable it is found that the mass of that energy or the results of it becomes crystalised in articles that when they leave the hands of the workers they never again return, but the fruits of their labour are enjoy-but the fruits of their tabour are enjoyed by others.

Industrial efficiency as enunciated by the employing class measures the amount of blood and vitality that are properties in the bodies of the working class and the birds of carrion on the field of battle its purpose is to extract every grain and drop for its own particular benefit.

A little child born in the working class environment is to the employers of labour nothing more than a vessel that holds the clixir of life for them. That vessel is That. vessel moulded and developed, and early in its mounted and developed, and early in its growth they begin to draw from it the energy that it contains, and the instances are many that long before maturity they have syphoned it dry with as little thought as one has in the sucking of an orange. A society debauch, a woman dressed in the height of fashion, a king's banquet, a politician's hypocrisy, a labour leader's treachery, a millionaire's brutality, a phrson's hellish ravings, a priest's damnation of souls, the vagaries of a society fop are accounted for by nothing other than misdirected utilisation of the labour energy of the weakers and their shillent of the workers and their children.

This industrial efficiency places the workers in the mental aspect of the electworkers in the mental aspect of the elected set as so much material for its consumption. Just as the wool from the back of the sheep is converted into wearing apparel so is a substance extracted from the workers embodied in all the articles of use, and just as it is necessary to feed the sheep to acquire its cont so too are you fed to render service to those who have the privilege to appropriate your labour power.

You workers are calculated.
You represent so many society func-

You represent so many society func-tions, so many swell equipages, so many pleasure yachts, and so many joy rides. You are the mine-owners' leisure time and his wife's fashionable corsets. His and his wire's fashionable corsets. His mansion, his garden, his poodle dog is you-transformed.—You are force, energy that creets the palatial homes of the rich and furnishes them with the most artistic and furnishes them with the most artistic requirements. You are the politicians' scat, and the parson's pulpit, the judge's salary, and the king's privileges. You have fed them all for a thousand years, and still they ery for more, and still more, and you, what else are you? A graveyard where you put beneath the sod each the remnants of the other pumped dry of all life sustaining qualities. A kerosene tin with the oil extracted from it.

Industrial Unionism points the way to the controlling of the labour power of the workers by the workers.

workers by the workers,
All production will then revert back to those who produce, and the strongest magnifying glass would fail to reveal the landlord's rent, the usrer's interest, or the business man's profit.

The brains of the master class are bur-ied with their industrial efficiency scheme, and the toilers work on in comfort.

E. MOYLE

Applications are called for EDITOR OF "DIRECT ACTION." All applicants must have been a member the I.W.W. for at least six months, and must have application in at this office before March 15th, 1917. All further part particulars from F. BROWN, Manager "D.A."

· .

Our Boys in Gaol,

displayed against the further enslave-ment of the Australian working class to ment of the Australian working class to be gagged for fifteen years? Remember, the fight is still on, their presence in our ranks is of primary importance, we want them, we must have men, who can look into the eyes of death if necessary with-out flinching. They did not fear to shoul-der their share of the burden. Imprison-ment for life failed to find the "yellow streak" in them! Are you then prepared to see men like these spend their lives in living graves? living graves?

Tell me, how will you feel when you look into the thin wasted faces and questioning eyes of the survivors of the ordeal fifteen years hence?

What will you tell the kiddies when Whoever you are, whatever you are, aye, and wherever you are, if you belong to the working class, you should scorn the thought of being an idle spectator of the tragedy now being enacted in an alleged civilised Australia.

The arrested, regardless of whether evidence could be produced against them, charged with crimes in many instances only because they happened to be on the I.W.W. premises when the raid was made!

Are these men, who are largely responsible for the unmistakable hostility now displayed against the further enslavement of the Australian working class to make the sake you what you did to SAVE their fathers from a living death?

Does it mean that you are saving your cash for the war lean, or has that begey "the sack" get you bluffed?

You, who still believe in treating the "beast of power" reasonably and coaxing him to better your conditions; see what sweet reasonablemess has done for the workers of miserable England and Europe, and then turn to Ireland and Australia, two countries that put up a fight, and then deny if you can that a peeud, defiant working class is better than an evolutionary, step at a time, meek and lowly, enslave shull the control of the Australian working class to the war lean, or has that begey "the sack" get you bluffed?

You, who still believe in treating the "beast of power" reasonably and coaxing him to better your conditions; see what sweet reasonable england and Europe, and then turn to Ireland and Australia, two countries that put up a fight, and then deny if you can that you are saving your cash for the war lean, or has that begey "the sack" get you bluffed?

You, who still believe in treating the your conditions; see what sweet reasonable england and Europe, and then turn to Ireland and Europe, and then deny if you can that you are saving your cash for the workers of mise and the your conditions in the sack."

at a time, meaning titude.

The only erime from a working class tandpoint that the thirty agitators now standpoint that the thirty agitators have been sufficient to the standpoint that they are sufficient to the standpoint that they agit to the standpoint that they agit the standpoint that they agit the standpoint that the standpoint that they agit the standpoint that the standpoint The only crime from a working class standpoint that the thirty agitators now doing time are guilty of is that they have persistently, regardless of consequences, sounded the alarm. In season and out they have shouted from the housetops, Slow Down, Reduce the Output, Strike or Bleed, Organise.

These men can yet be seatched.

nousecope,
put, Strike or Bleed, Organise.

These men can yet be snatched from the Jaws of hell, IF the working class of Australia WILL it.

Don't forget that the WILL of an organised, determined working class can upset the calculations of the most des-potic learned judge that ever sat in a court of law.

ERASMUS.

HOW THE BOSS FIGHTS.

It slander, abuse and lies would kill anything, the I.W.W. would be dead and buried long ago. If it were possible to dig the grave of an organisation per medium of prejudice, spite and malice, the I.W.W. would now be no more.

Ever since the advent of the I.W.W. in Australia, craft purpos afficials politically and the property of the control of the I.W.W. in the craft purpos afficials politically and the control of the I.W.W. in the craft purpos afficials politically applied to the control of the I.W.W. in the I.W. in the I.W.W. in the I.W. in the I.W.W. in the I.W.W. in the I.W.W. in the I.W. I.W. in the I.W. in the I.W.

Australia, craft union officials, politi-cians, and the master-class in general, have never ceased to hurl maledictions at the head of that fighting organisation,

In the eyes of all the upholders of the capitalist system, the I.W.W. has always been an anathema. The scribes of the capitalist press have always been ready to defame, villify, and curse the I.W.W. But despite the rayings of the master-class, the dismal wailings of their venal press, and the suufflings of politicians, despite the storms of anger, spite, and hatred which has deluged the LW.W. from time to time, it has defied them all and still stands out bold and defiant as the rock.

the conscription campaign in During During the conscription camp ustralia, the Prime Minister, Mr. W. M. M. M. and his followers, used every Hughes and his followers, used every tactic possible in an attempt to prejudice the minds and instil hatred in the breasts of the people of Australia against I.W.W.

There was no invective too strong, no There was no invective too strong, no venom too poisonous, no langage too severe, to pour upon the heads of the I.W.W. agitators. They were charged with-every crime in the calendar, and spoken of as men who are outside the pale of civilisation.

Surely the master class are hard put to surely the master class are nare put to it for arguments. Any school boy can abuse and slander; any small child can insult and lie, but it takes smart men to be truthful and honest, and that our enemies have never been.

It is well known that the master-class are unscrupulous in their tactics, and be live in "any tactic that wins" when fight ing the working class. when fight-

The furious hate and spiteful anger which the master-class have given vent to of late only goes to prove their impotency in trying to stop the industrial propaganda and silence the voice of the labor agitator.

itator.

Although the putrid penny prints of utocracy gloated over the cruel sen-Although the putric penny prints of plutocracy gloated over the cruck sentences passed upon twelve members of the working class in Sydney and the conscriptionists rubbed their hands with glee, the propaganda of industrial unionism has not ceased one bit.

The persistent and consistent agitation for the One Big Union has got the bosses goat, and they are now yelling their hardest for our suppression.

All the channess of vituperation have been opened, and through them are cushing all the muck and filth, slime and slander, in the way of arguments which only yellow journals could be guilty of. Everything possible is being done in order to try and raise hatred and contents. der to try and raise hatred and contempt towards the I.W.W.

After all the machinations of the master-class, they have not yet succeeded in bringing to light any proof that the the I.W.W. is led by foreigners, or that there is anything criminal in its principles or teachings.

After all the oceans of ink which has After all the oceans of ink which has been spilt by the scribes of capitalism in denunciation of the I.W.W., one looks in vain for any evidence to support their accusations. After all the wind and words got off by the mouthpieces of capaitalism one still waits and listens for any proof of their arguments.

The I.W.W. has issued a challenge to sall its anguments and response to capacitation and response to a capacitation and response to a capacitation and response to a capacitation and response to all its enemies to come along and prove that it is a criminal organisation, but our only reply is a criminal organisation, but our only reply is a torrent of abuse.

The I.W.W. challenges any member of society to come along by day or night, through the press or by platform, any time and anywhere, and prove that the I.W.W. has ever advocated or practised criminality, but we wait in vain for an answer.

The condemnation of the master class should be our recommendation. sence of arguments against us should be our incentive to fight on.

We have full confidence in our fight for ireedom, and will battle on until the world is free.

UNION INTELLIGENCE.

At the present moment the electrical trade is slacker than it has been for a long time. A few mouths back the employers had to hunt up labor for their jobs, but the hubble has burst and now nearly two hundrel members of the elec-trical trades are hunting for jobs.

One would naturally think that a union secretary would be able to explain the reason for this unemployment, and understanding the cause of the trouble vise some way out of the difficulty. For long, the militant members of the worklong, the militant members of the work-ing class have been advocating the short-ening of the work day, in order to make oom for more men, but every move that direction has been opposed by the union officials.

The unions have plainly been degenerating into something approaching employment agencies.

One man, looking for a master recently, called on the secretary of this electrical trades union, and was informed that the chance of a boss was very slight. Upon inquiring what the secretary and the union intended to do about the matter he received the rather scientifice answer, "We will have to hope for the best, my boy,"

3 · MATADE.

Spasms.

By Tom Barker.

Commissioner Fraser, of the New South Wales railways, reckons that the workers have slowed down 15 per cent in seven years on his railways. We wonder whether the wholesale sacking of I.W.W. men will have the effect of speeding things up. At the present rate of slowing down the boss will be in dungarees shout 1955. It may happen before that if the workers hurry up slowing down Anyway, the hard fact is that it takes 115 men to do the work in 1916; that 100 did to do the work in 1916; that 100 did 908. And that is a more effective way of dealing with the working class night-mare unemployment than soup-kitchens and unemployment parades.

The local council at Lismore, N.S.I. is upset about its pick and shovel articles in the council at ng down on the job. The ganger slowing down on the job. The ganger has been instructed to fire anyone who doesn't keep his head down and his rear doesn't keep his head down and his rear up. Arbitration courts, council gangers, local councillors who spend their after-noons of bowling greens, are very estim-sple-institutions and individuals, and don't look any worse for their speeding up. "Work, boys, work, and be condon't look any worse for their specing up. "Work, boys, work and be contented," is the national arthem of a lunstic asylum, and—the Lismore Council. The "National" Party, just cradled in Melbourne, is about the finest collection of bunc-steerers, has-beens, dead-beats, bandless down one-wassers, would-to-homeless dogs, once-wassers, would-to-godders, political mediocrities, municipal godders, political mediocrities, municipal muddlers, oldest inhabitants, mouthfighters, blue-eyed boys, work-shys, and slow-downers Australia possesses. And yet Larkun and Glynn, Grant and Hamilton, Reeve and King, McPherson and Besant, Teen and Beatty, Fagan and Moore, industrial workens, are in gaol. Anyone knows that Australia's affairs would be infinitely safer in their hands than in the itching, avaricious, blood-tainted hands of the National (1) Party. The Massey-Ward outfit in Godsown are in for a lovely time. The Pikekohe cocky and the Ottgo-ohaff merchant are Empirising within a hundred miles of the Empirising within a hundred miles of the front, and have left N.Z. affairs in the ands of Handcuff Herdman and Jimmy Allen, the counter lunch colonel, This precious pair are slinging anti-conscriptionists into gaol at the rate of six a week. Anyway, Labor is developing a cantankerous temper over this business, and a general holiday around the coaland a general holiday around the coal-mines and waterfronts seems very pro-bable. And the cow cockies who broke the last strike for the shipping compan-ies, and then wait for the shipping companies, and then paid for it through increased freight rates, are so badly hit by conscription, that it is more than evident that there will be co-operation, instead of batons this time. And Massey and Ward, the Empire skiters, will be well advised to stay in Hold Hengland and not emulate Wm. the Frantic, alias Mud. In the 1913 strike; scabs got control of the Auckland wharf, but the Napier fronters scabbed considerable. Now the Aucklanders have abolished night-work on the wharves by an enoraholished mous majority. And Napier is out on strike to get more help into the hatches. Good luck to them both, and may the Australian cargo slingers sling nightwork overboard, too. Truly, Big Bingy, the boncheads are cultivating the microscopic piece of grey matter in their attics. And, lo and behold, it is infinitely better than the development of mighty muscles and leathery callouses upon the uncouth fingers of the toil-stunned

Congratulations to the boys who have Congratulations to the boys who have left the hospitable precincts of H.M. Gaol in Broken Hill. According to the "Barrier Daily Truth," they are in good form. Their first consideration was their brothers in Long Bay Gaol, May our movement never lack such fighters who are the salt of the earth, and the finger posts to better days. Would that Broken Hill was Australia and Chart. was Australia, and Grant and the lads would be out with us. But obstacles are made to be overcome, and we are going

The I.W.W. is going to be of some account in Queensland shortly. The influence of the organisation is making itself fall. self felt all over the West and self felt all over the West and North. Brisbane is alive with wobblies, and they are contemplating getting a central hall where propaganda will be undertaken to instil the ideas of industrial self-reliance upon the minds of the local workers. A fine collection of orators will be procurable, and the spirit of industrialism will grow in fertile soil.

Well. boys. this is the year of our Lord.

Well, boys, this is the year of our Lord, 1917. We want to make this year OUR year. The boss and his minions and minions are minions. year. The boss and his minions and minions and the rest of the undesirable citirespectively. The transfer of the undestrable currens will object, of course, but that won't trouble us. May the bankriptcy courts work overtime, and set the workers an example. Get to your matter on the job.

Unite.

In the throes of a system replete with amazing inconsistencies and gross injustice the only haven of security for the workers lies in industrial solidarity. Even our present situation becomes hopeful when we observe that action in that direction is proceeding along class lines, thus embodying all the elements that make for the emancipation of the working class and overshadowing the petty aspirations of those who assist the master ing class and overshadowing the petty as-pirations of those who assist the master class by refusing to recognise that an in-jury to one is an injury to all.

In spite of the mass of sectional and individual aspirations that retard the pro individual aspirations that retard the progress of the labour movement we occasionally see the spectacle of united action directed against some glaring capitalistic aggression, a gleam of manly determination that bodily lifts the working class out of the rut of slavish obedience, sets a greater value on the morality and adds a deeper significance to the labour movement. In such convolving nerices, the a deeper signineance to the labour move-ment. In such convulsive periods the: value of class unity is patent to all, but the object (being only palliative) having been obtained; there remains no binding force, and the reaction that inevitably follows is by capitalist henchmen said to demonstrate a lack of cohesive spirit among the workers. But that is not so, when, sensible of a deep workers are forced to unite, it is their only means of obtaining redress. When the capitalists overwhelmingly condemn any measure they are careful never to give offence on the same lines until they have again drugged the workers into a Through improperly thetic state. Through improperly un-derstanding their economic position a vast number of workers fail to notice the aggressive spirit that characterises every movement of the capitalist class.

It is strange that although nearly every worker realises that solidarity is absolutely necessary, they cannot discern distinctive class interests, and it is incred-ible that they should condemn any individual or section fighting the battle for them. Yet it is so, and everything tend-ing to a more complete organisation seems to meet with their marked hostility. While the more bewildered they become in their efforts to understand the insidious teachings of the ruling class, the more confirmed is their adherence to capitalist domination. The reason is due en-tirely to non-recognition of the class struggle, for without a thorough know-ledge of all that it implies we must lack ledge of all that it implies we must next the understanding of how to turn to ac-count the bitter lessons that we daily re-ceive at the hands of the ruling class-Let us suppose that the coal miners were to go on strike upon a matter that I, prowould not understand, and Tory press were to announce miners were opposed to peaceful settle-ment by ignoring wages boards, arbitra-tion courts, etc. What matters it to me? tion courts, etc. What matters it to me? Commonsense bids me accept no capitalistic interpretation of any industrial trouble, and surely the collective intelligence of the miners concerning their own affairs is superior to the industrial gence or the miners concerning their own affairs is superior to the judgment of a sweated city worker. There is nothing analogous between their occupations except the fact that they are engaged in fighting a common enemy—the capitalist class. The worker fighting to escape degradation and the exploiter to maintain an offensive opulence, and it is certain that methods used successfully against the miners will be used with equal feet against the city, rural or any other body of workers, and there is absolutely no chance of combatting them if craft blindness over rules class action. meanest intelligence ought to discern the lines on which to proceed in the event a dispute between the masters and workers, because all workers are fired with an ambition to improve their standard of living while from the masters' standpoint he is regarded as a dividend-producing machine devoid of manly qualities and feelings, realising then that the emancipation of the working class and amelioration of present conditions can only be ob tained by a greater measure of solidar a greater measure of solidarty. I must, irrespective of alleged breaches of faith or any other cause, give my unqulified support to any body of workers fighting to redress a grievance or to improve their lot.

PETE.

Push the sales of "Direct Action," the rusa the saies of "Direct Action," the fightingest paper in Australia. Put your street and your town on the map. We want your assistance, and so do the lads at the Bay. Are you on?

Yes, 1917 for us!

lumber can slouch - down old Any old lumber can stouch down stream, but it wants fins and fight to op-pose the current. The I.W.W. wants men with hearts like lions, who will face the gates of hell for their union. And such a spirit can not be licked, or gaoled, or throttled. Let's see or hear from you.

Tom Barker.

A STRIKING PERSONALITY. HIS MISSION TO QUEENSLAND.

HIS MISSION TO QUEENSLAND, grobably there has been no more prominent figure in the public eye of Australia during the past 12 months than Mr., or as he is more generally known, "Tow Barker, I.W.W. advocate and editor of "Direct Action," the official organ of the organisation. His millitant and uncompromising attitude towards the presentevil espicials system of society, and his flery denunciation of the methods adopted during the present war to suppress freedom of expression and action, made him the special target of the Government and police, and as a consequence the inside of gaol has become familiar to Barker lately

Last year an outrageous sentence of one year's imprisonment on Barker aroused an imparalleled storm of indignation and protest from the workers throughout the Commonwealth, so much so that the authorities deem wealth, so much so that the authorities deem-ed it wise to release him long before the sentence expired.

A BORN REBEL

Out of the agitation for his release, waged by his comrades of the I.W.W., arose the charge, trial, and conviction of the 12 men now suffering the savage sentences of from to 15 years' hard labor.

Barker is now in Queensland in order to tell the truth about the evidence and ques-tionable methods adopted by the authorities to silence and suppress some of the most dan-gerous—from the capitalist point of view— members of the I.W.W. Mr. Barker, during the course of an interview with a repretative of "The Daily Standard," appe ptimistic regarding the release future of the convicted men. His physical surprise to anyone, who naturally re-garding him as a most dangerous character, expected to see a low-browed criminal face, with a corresponding degenerate mind. The Barker is, on the contrary, of a most kin and joyous disposition, peculiarly boyish both in his manner and appearance—he is 30 years of age but looks even younger, and in these days of gloom and tragedy it was particularly refreshing to come in contact with Tom Bar ker, who in spite of the ferrible persecution he has endured at the hands of an anti-work-ing class society still retains all the buoyancy, l the power of youth. Rebels are born—not made ker is a rebel against all things which serve enslave mankind, and place to degrade and to degrade and enslave mankind, and place money and privilege before humanity.

LABOUR AROUSED.

Mr. Barker stated that a conference of Labour organisations was to meet in Sydney on January 12, for the purpose of taking concentrated action to obtain the release of the convicted men. Already many of the largest and most influential unions have appraished delayerer in attend the conference. pointed delegates to attend the conference and the A.M.A. of Broken Hill, in addition to subscribing £100 to the Defence Fund, has sent two of its officials along to assist in the organising work. In reply Barker said that a grim determination was being evinced on the part of the workers of New South Wales, to spare no effort to the victims of a diabolical political plot gaol, whilst in Melbourne, now that the holidays were over, the workers likewise vigorously co-operating in the Owing to the appeal, and case being sub judice, a number of Labour members had refrained from taking an active part in the campaign, but after the hearing of the appeal on February 18, they intended to engage whole heartedly in the fight for jus-tice for the men in gaol.

Mr. Barker feelingly described the intense sympathy with the convicted men which sympathy with the convicted men which was prevolent among all sections of the com-munity in Sydney, where the crimes were al-legedly committed, and also where the true facts of the case were more generally known than elsewhere in Australia. When the ter-rible verdict was made known, the public of Sydney were astounded and indignant at the outrage perpetrated on these workers in the sacred name of justice.

IINANIMOUS SUPPORT

On trams, trains, ferries, everywhere, nothing else was talked about, and the almost unanimous expression of opinion heard was that a gross miscarriage of justice had taken place, that the men had not received a fair trial, and that at least a new trial should b granted; in fact, a very large proportion of the people of Sydney, as distinct from the unionists, are strongly desirous of the immediate release of the prisoners.

Approximately, said Mr. Barker, the cost of the appeal would be £800, and he confident anticipated that the money would be raised by the workers of Australia, and already money was being sent from all parts of

The foundation of the Crown charges against the convicted men was chiefly that they had used lilegal means in order to obtain they had used lilegal means in order to obtain the release of him (Barker); of seditious conspiracy was alledged. He pointed out that the charge of conspiracy was the weapon which the capitalist class had from time im-memorial brought against members of the working class, when they had dared to question the rights and ethics of the master class.

AN ECHO OF THE PAST.

Without going back to the early days of trade unlouism, or outside even of queensland, Mr. Barker said that even as late as the big bush strike of '91, members of the uow all-powerful A.W.U. were sentenced in queensland on the same old charge of conspiracy to three years hard labour.

When asked what had been the effect of the conviction of its members had on the LWW.

conviction of its members had on the I.W.W., Mr. Barker said that, at least as far as Sydney was concerned, the wonderful enthusiasm of the anti-conscription campaign had been trans-fered by the workers to the movement for the of the men so unjustly Magnificent meetings were Sunday in the Sydney D lease Committee, which consisted not only of members of the I.W.W., but also largely of prominent men in the various unions and similar organisations

WORKERS ENTHUSIASTIC.

Outside of the great anti-conscription gatherings, no such meeings as those being held in Sydney had been seen; 20,000 or over was quite the usual meeting, and feeling of solidarity amongst the audience ost marked and significent. The work was most market and significant. The workers of New South Wales remember that it was largely owing to the fearless propaganda of the I.W.W. on the conscription question (long before the masses of the people realised the storm that was rapidly gathering and threatening Australian democracy) that blazed the to the victory of October 28.

The evidence on which the members working were sentenced, said Mr. Barker was of the most filmsy and discreditable nature, and his mission to Queensland was to expose to people here the cunning and unscrupeople here the cannot t whereby innocent men were lad with criminals. He will being herded with criminals. in Queensland a considerable time, and will probably visit industrial centres of the State, id may be accompanied by one of the Broken Hill delegates.

In conclusion, Mr. Barker stated that Queensland unionists had a fine reputation in the South for militancy and class consciousness, and he was more than satisfied that the workers of this State would join with the forces now at work to obtain the release of men whose great unforgivable "crime" that they were fearless advocates of the ing class emancipation and were not afraid to champion the cause of the worker against the powerful ow wning class.—JACK CADE. (In Brisbane "Standard").

OPINIONS.

THE I.W.W. To the Editor.

Sir.—Judge Pring advocated the suppression of the I.W.W. and their Domain meetings. Then William "Maltese" Hughes introduced an "Unlawful Associations Bill," which been put through all its stgaes by his aghes') National Government, with the aid of Federal Labor members, who came out on the anti-conscription platform, and said they did and would not stand for the shackling of the working class of Australia by Hughes and his capitalistic clique. Frank Anstey, in the House of Representatives, had said that in politics there is no morality or principle, but only political expediency. This last no doubt explains the attitude of him and his colleagues in voting for this bill. This bill has been put on the Statute-book of Australia, ostensibly to deal with the so-called inal organisation known as the I.W.W., but in reality it can be used at any future date to bludgeon any militant working class organisation that turned Hughes and his capitalistic clique down with a bump over the con-scription issue. There are clauses in that which are a menace to the whol ing class of Australia, and which can be put into operation against any association which breaks, defies, or opposes capitalist "law and order." Under the broad scope of this bill, the trades unions as well as the peace alliances and numerous other bodies can be declared "illegal associations," as well as the I.W.W. For it is inevitable that, in the course of economic evolution, the working class or-ganisations will evolve to that stage when, if not prepared to put up a firm stand, and use concerted action against the machinations of capitalism, they will go under. And when they do put up a bold front, what is going to happen? They will find they are up against the chicanery of the very men they elevated put into power.

for Hughes and his wild utterances the I.W.W. trying to set fire to Sydney, the verdict of his capitalistic henchmen is doubt-ed by the majority of working class organ-isations. But there is no doubt about Hughes and his diabolical gang of political incendiar-les; they tried to set fire and burn to the ground every shred of Australian democracy.

CONCERT AND DANCE Will be Held in SOUTHERN CROSS HALL

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27th, 1917, In aid of the Wives and Children of the I.W.W. Men in Jail, kets, 1/- each.
MISS V. NELSON, Sec.
MISS EWART, Treas. Tickets

Mesaba Range Economics. Strike Cases.

Besides the murder charges against eight strikers and organisers of the fron miners' strike, there remains a number of lesser cases which are, being heard at present. These were sifted out of the six hundred arrests made by deputised gunnen the Steel Trust imported to break the strike. The indictimported to break the strike. The indict-ments are for alleged rioting, assault, and kindred charges growing out of picketing. In themselves, these cases are not of great im-portance, yet they indicate the relentless atti-tude of the state when its forces are prosti-tuted to the desires of organised capital.

In the case of Joe Blago, on trial for as-saulting a deputy, Prosecutor Funk called for the state, a fourteen-year-old boy from whom, previous to trial, he had secured a statement—he writing the statement and having the boy sign it while under his influence and in boy sign it while under his influence and in bla presence. Upon taking the stand the lad was admonished by the court as to the nature of an oath, and as a consequence, absolutely corroborated the itestimony of witnesses for the defence. Funk then brought out the state-ment, and, failing in his endeavour to intimi-date the lad with it—tried to have it admitted over the boy's sworn testimony. He was prevented by the court upon objection. Funk then asked for conviction because Blago was a foreigner. The jury brought in a comprom-ise verdict of simple assault instead of assault in the second degree as charged.

sault in the second degree as charged.

Last week Eil Monovitch, Rafael Pette and S. Dronjack were tried for rioting The state attempted to lay base for further prosecution for assualt to kill as, on the day of the riot, Martin Teller, local chief of the Oliver gunnen, was stabbed slightly when attacking the picket fine. Teller told the doctor who dressed his wounds that he did not see who cut him and didn't. John who was hurt till afterwards; yet he had the story to tell the jury identifying Deniak as the one who had jury identifying Dronjak as the one who had stabbed him. All the trusty henchmen of the operators had the same general story. However a few conflicting things they had over-looked caused the jury to discredit their yarns entirely, its verdict exonerating the prisoners from violence, inciting to violence or carrying weapons. Regardless of this, possibly because some juror, for reasons best known to himself, hung out for conviction; the jury judged Pette and Dronjak guilty of rioting. Defendants having been clubbed and having suffered some imprisonment, apparently the jury decided a little more of the same wouldn't make much difference to them.

It was also shown that the deputies were so It was also shown that the deputies were so irresponsible that they clubbed one another during the excitement and that the fight was precipitated by a seab who had evidently arranged with the deputies to "start something" among the pickets.

One is reminded of the Industrial Relations

Commission's Report, wherein is stated that, of the entire machinery of the government is such that lawless acts on the part of the agents of the employers go unpunished, while vindictive action against leaders of the strike is ac-complished by the methods unparalleled in civilized countries."

The U. S. Steel Corporation Tass announced

The U. S. Steel Corporation—Insignanounced a general rise of wages. Does anyone imagine this labour-hating crew has experienced a change of heart? Or does it fear that all workers in the steel industry may join with the miners now organized in the next fight with their exploiter? Does the Steel Trust wish to exculpate itself before working its murderous will upon Sam Searlett, Joe Schmidt and Carlo Tresca?

HARRISON CEORGE

HARRISON CEORGE

SEA DREAMS.

O place of wonder oo deep for speech! The great waves thunder Along the beach. What force they roll with Against the rocks! How thrills my soul with Their mighty shocks!

O world of wonders! O world of peace!

Man's crimes and blunders—
When will they cease? The fading laurels , For which he tries,

The paltry quarrels
In which he dies! O world of beauty! When will he see The blessed duty

Of unity? blessed vision Of world-wide good-The peace elysian

Of brotherhood!

-Denis A. McCarthy in "Christian Endeavour Yorld"

(Mary Marcy.) PRICES

The value of a commodity is determined by The value of a commodity is determined by the necessary social labor contained in it. If some one told me that an overcoat was equal in value to the value of (or contained in) a of clothes, I would know that the overcoat and suit of clothes were equal in value because they contained equal quantities of the same common thing-labor.

erally speaking the value of four pairs of trousers is about equal to the value of one cost. Why is the cost more valuable than the trousers? And what determines the measure of value when we come to exchange commodities?

You exchange your labor power—to the boss— for perhaps two dollars a day, and in turn the for perhaps two dollars a day, and in turn the gold is exchanged for the necessities of life— food, clothing and shelter. Why do these com-modities, exchange for each other?. As we learned before, labor is the measure of value. The coat, mentioned above, exchanges for four pairs of trousers because the coat con-tains four times the quantity of social labor that one pair of the trousers contains.

The necessary labor contained in a commodity (shoes, coats, gold, bread, your labor power or whatever it may be) determines what it will exchange for. The natural tendency is for commodities of equal value to exchange for each other, or for other commodities of equal value.

For example: the amount of wheat produced by ten hours of necessary social labor time will exchange for the amount of cloth, shoes, chairs, gold or some other commodity that will be produced by ten hours of necessary social

The value or values for which commodities will exchange change constantly as the social labor necessary to their production changes. Last month we read of a new molding machine Last month we read of a new moduling machine that enables one boy to produce as many castings in one day as four men had been accustomed to produce. These castings have now greatly decreased in value (in the individual plant where the new process is used) but the total value of castings in general has been only slightly reduced. The average labor necessary to produce castings is only a little less than formerly. When the new process becomes general and the average necessary labor greatly reduced, castings will greatly decrease in value
"If we consider commodities as values, w consider them exclusively under the single aspect of realised, fixed, or, if you like, crystal-ised human labor. In this respect they can differ only by representing greater or smaller quanti-ties of labor, as for example, a greater amount of labor may be worked up in a silken hand-kerchief than in a brick.

"A commodity has value, because it is a crystalisation of social labor . . . The relative values of commodities are, therefore, determin-ed by the respective quantities or amounts of the respective quantities or amounts of labor worked up (or contained) in them."

(Pages 56 and 67, Value, Price and Profit).
"In calculating the exchangeable value of a commodity we must add to the quantity of labor last employed, the quantity of labor previously worked up in the raw material of a commodity. modity, and the labor bestowed in the implements, tools, machinery, and buildings, with which labor is assisted." (Value, Price and Profit, page 60).

The value of barrels, for example, is determined by the social (factory) labor spent in producing staves and hoops and the labor time used in producing the portion of machinery worn out in making them, as well as the necessary social labor spent in cutting and hauling (pro-ducing) raw logs for use in the mill. Every time more social labor is needed in Every time more social labor is needed in making commodities—shoes, hats, gloves, stores or cigars—whatever these commodities may be —their value is increased. Every time the quantity of socially necessary labor is lessened in the production of commodities, their value

Nearly all kinds of furniture have greatly decreased in value the past few years owing to the improved machines used in their production and the relatively small quantity of labor contained in furniture.

Gold has steadily been decreasing in value in the past ten years owing to the improved me-thods of producing gold and the quantity of labor contained in it. Rubber is steadily growing more valuable because the available world supply has been nearly exhausted and it requires more time hunting or planting, and caring for rubber trees-more labor is contained in a pound of rubber than a few years ago.

Gradually we see huge machines replacing the Gradually we see huge machines replacing the smaller ones in all the great producing industries and, with the constant introduction of more improved machinery, the quantity of human labor contained in commodities produced by modern methods—grova less and less. Such commodities decrease in value with every decrease in the labor embodied in them.

Price.

Price is the money name for which commodities exchange. We are accustomed to figure in gold prices. All our bank notes read "payable in—so much—gold." But gold is a commodity just like bread, or overceats, or dresses or automobiles. And commodities tend to ex-change for the sum of gold containing a quan-tity of labor equal-to the quantity of labor-con-ed in them. hours of necessary labor, that gold will ex-change for (or will buy) as many pairs of shoes as forty hours of social labor will produce.

Generally speaking, a commodity containing ten hours of necessary labor will tend to exchange for gold, or any other commodity con-taining ten hours of necessary labor.

That is true when price and value are equal. But supply and demand cause commodities to exchange (or sell) above or below their value, temporarily.

A temporary shortage in coal—when the supply does not equal the demand—may enable the dealers to exchange coal above its value for a short time. An over supply of automo-biles may cause the manufacturers to offer to (or exchange) autos below their value, for

Prices are often a little above or below the value of commodities, but they are always in-clining towards the value of commodities. r

(Please remember that we are not here caking of monopoly prices. We shall consid-them in a later lesson.)

"If supply and demand equilibrate each other, the market prices of commodities will correspond with their natural prices, that is to say with their values, as determined by the respective quantities of labor required for their production. If, instead of considering only production. . If, instead of considering only the daily fluctuations, you analyse the move-ment of market prices for longer periods . . . you will find that the fluctuations of market prices, their deviations from values, their ups and downs, paralyse and compensate each so that, apart from the effect of monopolies and some other modifications I must now pass by, all descriptions of commodities are, on the average, sold at their respective values or natual cases, but the constant and usual profits of different trades, spring from the prices of com-you must start from the theorem that, on an average, commodities are sold at their real values, and that profits are derived from selling them at their values, that is, in proportion to the quantity of labor realised (or contained) in them.

"If you cannot explain profit upon this sup-position, you cannot explain it at all." (From Volue, Price and Profit, pages 68, 69. and 70.)

The Shearer.

A SHORT STORY.

A big bulk of humanity tumbled in the r-door. "Give me a drink, Jack—I'm all hardoor. "Give me a drink, Jack—I'm al of a shake. Look at me hand—won't stol trembling. How could I stay at the house the kid, lying there with his little white face, and the old woman crying, and blaming it all on me. She's been carting him to the hospitals, these four years—since before he started to walk—wastin' disease, they said.
"Missus says its thro' bad air in the nar-anssus says its thro bad air in the nar-row crowded streets we've always had to live in—and cheap, shoddy food. See, there's five kids we've got, and Gord knows I work hard enough at the shearin' sheds, and give der most of the dough. r most of the dough.

"She never used to growl like this—'till the damned doctor bloke attendin' the kid said he's got ter get inter fresher aid and have purer foods, and the missus gets this on the brain and then she starts on me. Mo means extra money, and so it went on. old woman fussin' over the kid and givin' me ell, till I hated ter come inter the house.

"And he died this morning early, . Let's have another drink, Joe. 'I can't go home-him lyin' there with his ittle white stark face and the old woman moanin and blaming it all on me."

The bar tender, to change the distracted man's trend of mind, ventured: man's trend of mind, ventured:
"What do you think of the threatening?"
"Strike!" the other thundered

the other thundered in reply. "Sorties" the other inducered in reply.

"Too many damned scabs in this country—and that's why my kid is dead—for want of decent pay to buy a spot in clean fresh air, and decent food to keep him alive—scabs put the settler on it. Strikes—with an overflow of scabs! Bah, come, fill 'em up again, Jack, long time since I have been on the big boozee, about six years sure, fill 'em up, buck me up, his little white face and the missus' tears is

BETSY H. MATTHIAS.

THE NUMBER OF THIS PAPER IS

106.

A Lament.

Doemed! The word seems to echo through the damned and darkoned streets; through the filthy dens and dirty draggled lanes. The breath of the stinking dungeons and alleyways rises, choking the pureness from the air, Doomed to toll, to sweat and die, gasping for pureness, cleanliness and freedom, the inheritance of the "wild." Through foul and dark lanes of filth, choked with fumes and want of sance, doemed to labour and toll the. heritance of the with Through foul and dark lanes of filth, choked with fumes and want of space, doomed to labour and toil that the few should luxuriate and idle, denied the right to the common necessaries, the ordinates with want and with the common space and ary decencies, with want and misery, starvation, unemployment and worry, the lot of the damned, the outcast, the despised and the weary.

weary.

Domed: Sentenced to life! Is this—this tragedy, this travesty of living, this mock of mirth and merriment, this fithy servifued, this back lane and that foul den, this oppressive, hideous monotony of servitude. Is this life?

"And that inverted bowl we call the sky, "And that inverted bowl we call the sky, whereunder crawling cooped we live and die. Lift not thy hands to it for help—for it rolls Lift not thy hands to it for help—for it rolls impotently on as thou or It."

Sentenced to life! Life which is not life, but a filthy trap, cased to spin out wealth, to produce profits sacred profits, let us fall on our bended knees and worship profits, profits at any price, at any sacrifice, by all means let us groan and suffer, shed tears of blood, but don't stop the profits. What is beauty after all, what is freedom, or health, happiness and laughter, weighed against the happiness and laughter, weighed against the sacred god of profits? What is human life, anyway, when profits can be made. Let us work, and be loyal, thrifty and industrious; we are wealth producers, that is enough

STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES

The working class and the employing class peace so long as hunger and want are found among millions of working people, and the few who make up the employing class have all the good things of life.

Between these

Between these two classes a struggle must go on until the workers of the world organise as a class, take possession of the earth and the machinery of production, and abolish the wage system

We find that the centring of the manage ment of industries into fewer and fewer hands makes the trade unions unable to cope with the ever-growing power of the employing class, the ever-growing power or the employing class. The trade unions foster a state of affairs which allows one set of workers to be pitted against another set of workers in the same industry, thereby helping to defeat one another in wage wars. Moreover, the trade unions aid the employing class to mislead the workers into the belief that the working class have interests in common -with their em-

These conditions can be changed and the in-These conditions can be changed and the in-terests of the working class upheld only by an organisation formed in such a way that all its members in any one industry, or in all indes-tries if necessary, cease work whenever a strike or lockout is on in any department thereof, thus making an injury to one an injury to all. Instead of the conservative motto, "A fair day's wage for a fair day's work," we must insertbe on our banner the revolutionary watchword: "Abolition of the wage system."

inscribe on our banner the revolutionary watchword: "Abolition of the wage system." It is the historic mission of the working class to do away with capitalism. The army of production must be organised not only for the every-day struggle with capitalists, but also to carry on production when capitalism shall have been overthrown. By organising industrially we are forming the structure of the new society within the shell of the old.

SYDNEY LOCAL.

Meetings, &c.

Street Propaganda at Bathurst and Liverpool Streets every Friday and Sat-urday Evenings, at 8 p.m.; also Sunday Evening, at 7.

Meetings in Hall:

Sunday, 8 p.m.—Propaganda. Wednesday 8 p.m.—Economic Class. Thursday, 8 p.m.—Business Meeting. Saturday Evening.—Speakers' Class.

WANTED
A file of Volume I, of "Direct Action" is wanted at this office. Forward price of same

One thing ought to be aimed at by all men; that the interest of each individ-ually, and of all collectively, should be the same; for if each should grasp at his individual interest, all human society will be discalared. be dissolved.

Published by Tom Barker, of 28 Francis Street, Sydney, for the Workers' Defence and Release Committee, at 403 Sussex Street, Sydney, and printed by H. Cook and Co., 200 Castlereagh Street, Sydney.